LANDON TO GIVE THREE TALKS ON 1ST TRIP EAST

Last of August Set for Swing.

Holt Hails Landon

Sen. Holt of West Virginia, elected as a New Dealer, blasts at Roosevelt's relief record and praises Landon's stand as outlined in acceptance. Details on Page 4.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Topeka, Kas., July 24.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee for the presidency, will open his speaking campaign late in August in the east, it was announced today after a conference between the governor and John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman.

The governor will make at least two major speeches on this trip, one at West Middlesex, Pa., his birthplace, and another at Buffalo. He also will speak at Chautauqua, N. Y., where his family had a summer home when he was a child.

"This eastern trip is definite," said Hamilton. "The exact dates will be announced next Monday or Tuesday in Chicago. He will leave the west somewhere between Aug. 20 and 25. These three points will be the extent of his first trip, although he may make some rear platform appearances.

To Include N. Y. Later.

"It is a good guess that he will make another eastern trip later which will include New York City. We discussed his general campaign itinerary but have reached no other conclusions as yet."

Hamilton held a long distance conversation with former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts today and said that he expected soon to be able to announce the names of an outstanding Democrat or two who had come over to the Landon camp.

He said that Landon clubs, which take in Democrats as well as Republicans, are being formed in many parts of the country. There are 50 in Cleveland.

The chairman said that he had been in conversation with party leaders in seven or eight sections, who told him the Landon speech had been "splendidly received." He mentioned two in upper New York, one in Pennsylvania, one in Indiana, and one in southern Illinois. More than a thousand telegrams on this subject had been received at the governor's office this afternoon.

He Leaves for Chicago.

Hamilton left for Chicago tonight. He is to speak in Indiana on July 28 and start a trip of all the states west of the Mississippi on Aug. 3. Asked about reports recently received from various states he said:

"I think we will carry the state of New York. Ohio, as Farley says, is in the bag. Missouri is a question of the machine in Kansas City. We are going to tear down the Democratic majority in Chicago and carry Illinois. A lot of fellows say I am writing the picture too high, but I am only telling you the reports I now have."

With the acceptance speech out of the way and the issues on which the campaign will be fought now solidified, Landon himself today began the task of preparing campaign addresses in amplification of last night's outline.

He has important conferences next week in Topeka and soon after that will go to join his family in their summer ranch home at Estes Park, Colo.

The governor was in cheerful mood this morning. He came down to his desk at the capitol at 8 o'clock and looked out over the "battlefield" of last night.

Fearful for the Flowers.

"My talk didn't bring rain anyway," said the governor, looking out upon the burned grass.

"I was worried about those flowers on the lawn last night," he said.

He has decided not to comment daily on political subjects, but to reserve his fire for his later campaign talks.

One of the notification visitors who remained over today to talk with the governor was former Congressman Oscar De Priest of Chicago. He invited the governor to a Labor day picnic in the forest preserve at 87th and Western, promising him a crowd of 200,000.

GERMANS ASK U. S. TO FORGIVE ELEANOR HOLM

She Pleads in Vain; Stays in Berlin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 24.—Remote from the tumult of Germany's welcome to the American Olympic team, Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett marked time tonight in a Berlin hotel, hoping that any minute might bring her word that the apparently inexorable Olympic committee had responded to a plea by high German officials that she be restored to good standing among Uncle Sam's athletic forces.

Mrs. Jarrett, famous for years as America's greatest backstroke swimmer and no less renowned as the nation's most photographed bathing beauty, was dismissed last night from the Olympic team as a disciplinary measure after two champagne drinking parties aboard the liner Manhattan en route from New York to Hamburg.

Tearful and Defiant.

But the last cork was popped yesterday and tonight Mrs. Jarrett is just an anxious girl, wondering whether her swimming career is ended. Tearful and defiant by turns, she had pleaded for a chance to show that she had learned her lesson and had refused flatly to obey the committee's order to leave Berlin and sail for the United States tomorrow aboard the Bremen.

Eleanor's day began with a dreary awakening after last night's party to learn that she had been dropped from the team. The officials had reached their decision while she was asleep. As the morning progressed she experienced a further setback when a special committee headed by Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft of Princeton granted her a hearing and then rejected her plea for reinstatement.

Athletes Ask Reinstatement.

Her hopes were revived in the afternoon when her teammates rallied round her with a petition bearing 200 signatures asking Avery Brundage of Chicago, chairman of the American Olympic committee, to reconsider. She was still further buoyed up when Dr. Graeme Hammond of New York, president emeritus of the American Olympic association, made a personal plea in her behalf.

And tonight her chances rose to a new high when German officials went to Brundage with the statement that "she has been punished enough and discipline is bound to prevail after this public warning."

Not Off Olympic List.

It was pointed out tonight that the Olympic committee might not be absolutely inflexible in its determination to make an example of Mrs. Jarrett, for her name remained among the entries in the 100 meter backstroke notwithstanding the fact that officials had announced last night that her entry had been canceled.

Mrs. Jarrett first encountered the disfavor of the Olympic committee by attending a stateroom champagne party last Friday night. One of her escorts was Charles MacArthur, playwright husband of the actress, Helen Hayes. Miss Hayes was with her husband on the voyage but was not present at the party. Before the festivities ended, Mrs. Jarrett and several others moved out on deck, where the party continued until dawn.

Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Jarrett

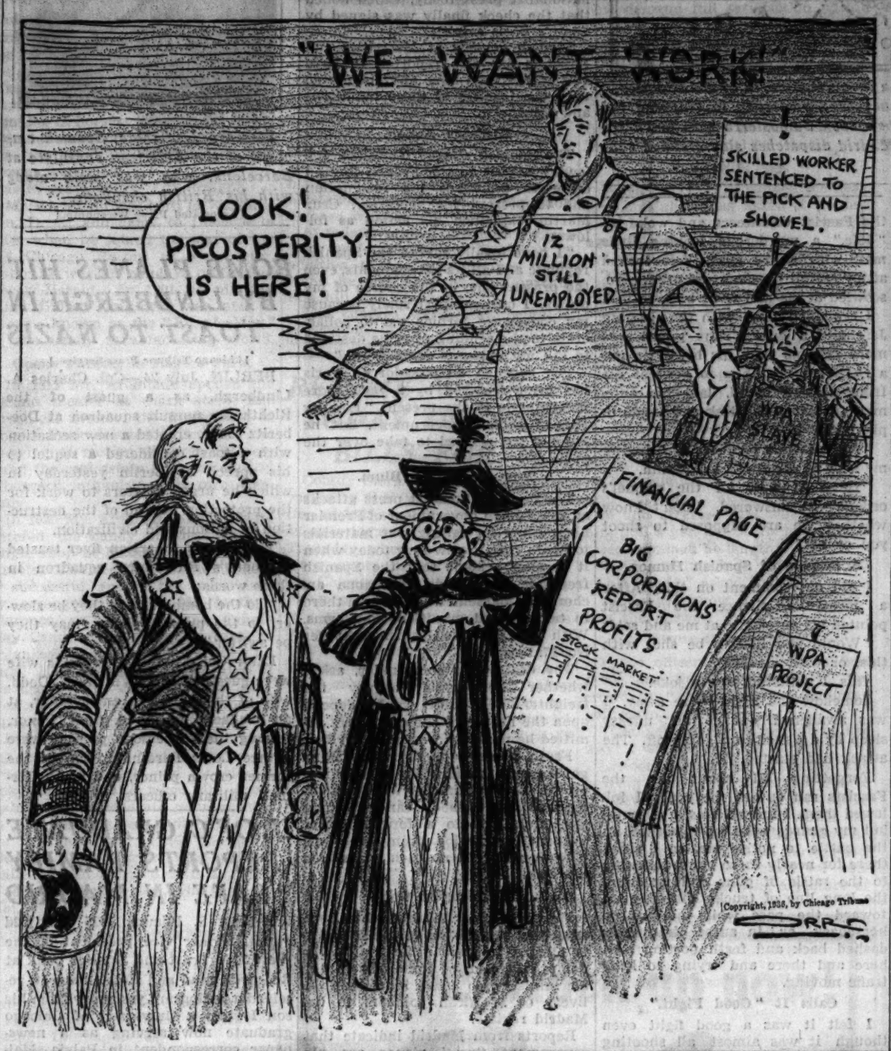
LOPSIDED RECOVERY



Sherif Seizes Uncle of Slain Co-Ed Beauty

Asheville, N. C., July 24.—(AP)—W. L. Clevenger, 54 year old college professor, was taken into custody today and "detained for investigation" in the murder of his young niece, Helen Clevenger, nine days ago.

Clevenger, bachelor uncle of the pretty 18 year old New York university co-ed, slain in her room at a fashionable resort hotel here by an assailant who tried to rape her, was put in a cell at 3 p. m., four hours before a deadline set by Sherif Laurence E. Brown to "break" the case.

Violinist Is Released.

Mark Wollner, 35, violinist who had been detained in the case, was released early tonight. Daniel H. Gaddy, night watchman, and L. D. Roddey, hotel elevator operator, remained in custody. They are not suspected of a direct connection with the murder.

The sherif told newspaper men two days ago he would arrest the man he suspected of the murder before 7 o'clock tonight.

At 7:05 the sherif called newspaper men and announced Clevenger had been taken into custody on his arrival here from his niece's funeral in Ohio.

Then the sherif said:

"I had hoped to have a confession by 7 o'clock, but I am unable to give it to you. I may not have it for a week or ten days yet."

Refuses to Say More.

Reminded of his statement that he would arrest the suspected killer by 7 p. m., the sherif interrupted:

"I'm not going to tell you any more."

"When you detain a man for investigation and hold him in jail do you consider the man under arrest?" the sherif was asked.

"I won't say," he replied.

Clevenger teaches animal husbandry and dairying at North Carolina State college in Raleigh. His work in connection with the college's agriculture extension service takes him on frequent tours of the state and his niece was accompanying him on one of these trips when she was slain.

Quebec to Pay $1 Per Day Pension to All Over 70

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 24.—After refusing for years to follow the lead of other provinces, but insisting that the young should support their aged relatives, the province of Quebec today decided to pay old age pensions, commencing next month. One dollar per day will be paid to all residents over 70 years of age. About 30,000 persons will benefit.

GOOD SAMARITAN DOES TURN UNDER EYES OF POLICE

Tony Brown, the switchboard operator at the Oak Park police station, gets a lot of calls which he thinks are pretty foolish, but last evening he got a call that seemed to set a new record.

"I'm at 722 Woodbine avenue," said the voice over the telephone. "There is a woodpecker inside the house at that address and the family is away on vacation. Before they get back that bird might cut up all the furniture. I'm going to break into the house and chase him out. You might send a squad out to watch me so as to see that I don't steal anything."

The caller banged his receiver and Mr. Brown went into consultation with his colleagues.

A squad car sped to 722 Woodbine. Sure enough, there was a man about to climb a ladder leading to a second story window. He identified himself as Frank W. Bible Jr., 307 South Oak Park avenue, and said he was visiting friends in the house next door, at 724 Woodbine avenue, when he saw a woodpecker pecking valiantly against a window pane.

Mr. Bible climbed in the window, closely followed by policemen. The party went to the first floor of the house, and there was the woodpecker, just as described, pecking on windows and beating his wings.

Mr. Bible and the policemen opened a lot of windows and shooed the frantic bird into the great outdoors. The police squad went back to the station to tell the switchboard operator that Mr. Bible wasn't so foolish. Mr. Bible went back to the house next door to finish his visit.

WAUKEGAN BANK OFFERS CASH, BUT GETS NO TAKERS

Mr. W. F. Edmiston, address unknown, may not need any money, but in case he happens to be on the relief rolls some place this item may help notify him that he has $1,348 on deposit in the closed Security Savings bank of Waukegan, and the bank receiver wishes he would please come and get it. The bank closed ten years ago.

Mr. Edmiston is one of about 1,000 depositors of the bank who have a total of nearly $10,000 waiting for them. They have ignored repeated notices that the funds are available. If they don't appear before next Sept. 2 their chance to get the money will be gone forever. Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Circuit court of Lake county issued an order to this effect yesterday on petition of J. A. Bairstow, attorney for the bank receiver.

Barber to Die as Wife Killer in Snake Plot

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24.—(AP)—Robert S. James, much married barber, was convicted of first degree murder tonight for the murder of his seventh wife, Mary. The jury, out nine hours, did not recommend life imprisonment, and thus the death sentence is mandatory.

James was charged with drowning his wife in a bathtub last Aug. 4 after trying to kill her by subjecting her to the fangs of a rattlesnake. He killed her to collect $20,000 life insurance, the prosecution charged.

The final sensation of the strange case was bared shortly after the case went to the jury. Charles Hope, ex-sailor, renewing a plea of guilty in the same murder, charged for the first time that James had tried to kill him. He said he "nearly died" after James gave him some whisky. That was some time after the murder, he said.

Hope's Sentence Deferred.

Hope was adjudged guilty by Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke, who earlier had instructed the James jury that the green-eyed barber must be sentenced to the gallows, life imprisonment—or freed.

The judge withheld sentencing Hope. Because of the degree of his guilt—first degree murder—it must be either the gallows or life imprisonment.

The James case reached the jury more than a month after the trial opened June 22 and had moved through a succession of sensations. The state charged that James tried to kill Mary James by forcing her foot into a box containing a live rattlesnake.

Victim an Expectant Mother.

Then, it was charged, he grew impatient because the snake bite was slow in proving fatal to the expectant mother; carried her bound body to the bathtub in her home, drowned her and then placed her outside the house in a fishpond to give the appearance of accidental drowning.

On the other side was James' own story that Hope played the killer rôle.

"That's that," sighed the red-headed barber, as the jury filed out.

The state, in presenting its case, charged that James killed his fifth wife, Winona, by drowning her; that he committed moral offenses with his own young niece, a manicure in his barber shop [James already has been convicted and sentenced in that case]; and that he went with a woman to a Hermosa beach hotel and lived with her only a week after the death of Mary James.

Ships Evacuate Yankees from Spanish Cities

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The state department tonight established a trans-Atlantic telephone connection with Ambassador Claude G. Bowers at his summer home at Fuenterrabia, Spain, where he had been unheard from since Tuesday, and found him unharmed. All communications between Fuenterrabia and the summer embassy headquarters five miles away at San Sebastian had been cut off and there had been great anxiety in the state department for Bowers' safety.

Bowers said the American battleship Oklahoma and the coast guard cutter Cayuga were in the harbor at San Sebastian, but that all Americans desiring to leave that city—fifteen in number—had been taken off by a British warship.

Evacuate Bilbao Today.

Farther down the northern coast, at Bilbao, however, were some 100 Americans, and Consul William E. Chapman reported that about twenty of them, including his wife and 3 year old son, planned to leave tomorrow morning.

Ambassador Bowers said reports of the fighting in Spain were contradictory. In San Sebastian, he said, there had been serious fighting. Reports from Hallett Johnson, counselor of the embassy there, said conditions were "horrible," and that it was impossible to determine whether the rebels or government forces held the city.

Stray bullets had struck the hotel where the American chancery is located, Ambassador Bowers said, and two other San Sebastian hotels had been taken over for hospitals.

Unable to Cross Border.

The ambassador said the rebels were holding the cities of Pamplona, Burgos and Saragossa, while the government was in control in Madrid. He explained that he was unable to cross the French border to submit telegraphic reports, since all trafic, even in diplomatic cars, was forbidden.

At Barcelona, where Santiago Itsurralde, a Spaniard employed as a clerk in the American consulate, and his British chauffeur were killed in an automobile flying the American flag while trying to rescue an American, the steamship Exeter of the American Export Line took off 164 persons, including 60 Americans, 26 Belgians, 36 Germans, and 42 of various other nationalities, the state department was advised. About 40 Americans remained in Barcelona.

The Exeter sailed for Marseilles, France, where it will arrive tomorrow, but will put in at Palma to take off any refugees who may wish to leave there.

Rebels Control Palma.

The Exeter communicated with the admiral of the British warship Devonshire, who said Palma was in the control of the rebels but quiet, and that his ship stood ready to assist any Americans who required help.

Consul Herbert O. Williams at Gibraltar reported that the British destroyer Shamrock brought 27 Americans there from Seville this afternoon.

MOUNTAIN PASS WON AND LOST IN TWO DAY FIGHT

Eyewitness Story of Tribune Man.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HENDAYE, France, July 24.—Somosierra pass, in the Guadarrama mountains, one of the gateways from the north of Madrid, is again tonight in the hands of the citizens' militia of the Spanish government.

The rebel army-Fascist troops, who had captured the pass, were hurled back by the loyalists this afternoon. The counter attack drove Gen. Emilio Mola's soldiers from their positions and they retreated nearly two miles north of the mouth of the pass.

Witnesses Mountain Battle.

This news reached me here soon after I came back for a breathing spell after five days of covering the Spanish civil war. I followed Gen. Mola's army as it attacked Somosierra pass, captured it, and seemed well started on the road to Madrid. I watched this battle, which later was to be turned into a defeat, as a prisoner of war. I have also been in an air raid and narrowly missed being shot as a spy.

I arrived yesterday afternoon at Burgos, north of Madrid, just as a new government was proclaimed there by Gen. Mola.

The picture which has formed itself in my mind from all this is like a Chinese puzzle. This civil war or insurrection or whatever you want to call it is too Spanish for a foreigner to make sense out of it. It is something like a crusade, something like a Chinese bandit war, something like a family feud between Kentucky mountaineers or an ax murder in the basement.

Rebels Take Mountain Pass.

On one side is an army that is half crusader and half condottieri, with a sprinkling of plain thugs and honest soldiers. On the other side is a government which came into power legally but in moments of crisis acts like a revolutionary mob—even in its military tactics.

The military picture is as confused as the political one. The rebel army holds Madrid between the jaws of a nutcracker, Gen. Mola's main column at Somosierra pass is some 50 miles from the capital. To the northwest another of his columns at Leon pass also is within striking distance of Madrid.

To the south of Madrid Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel troops have reached Toledo, according to the latest rebel news. It even seems that it was feared Franco's forces might get to Madrid before Mola's column. This led to the proclamation at Burgos of a provisional government which does not include Franco.

Entire Army in Rebellion.

The Madrid government, as far as can be discovered, has not a single regular army regiment it can depend upon. Its aviation consists of commercial planes and it has no real bombs. The Red militia is without discipline or leaders and seems incapable of even the simplest tactical maneuver.

On paper, Mola or Franco, or both, should be able to walk into the capital whenever they feel like it. On the other hand, while I have found the rebel comuniques less fantastic than those of the government, the rebels' position is not quite so rosy as they claim.

After a week of fighting, Barcelona is still in the hands of loyalists. In Madrid workers are even better armed and organized than in Barcelona. Fighting behind street barricades and from rooftops, they may hold up the rebel army for days, and this is apparently what they are counting on doing.

It is the only kind of fighting that the Spaniards are any good at, but the Red workers of Spain are very good, indeed, at it.

Troops Surround Madrid.

Virtually the whole Spanish army is now concentrated around Madrid, far from any real bases. Behind the advance columns are the provinces considered as conquered because the garrisons in their capitals joined the insurrection at once and the workers were scared into submission after a day or two of street fighting.

This behind-the-lines area—in other words, all of Spain—is held by skeleton garrisons and Fascist or royalist militia. A number of provinces, like Navarre or Old Castille, are enthusiastically for the insurrection. Others, like the Basque provinces or the Asturias, are only conquered on paper.

San Sebastian was officially taken by Mola Tuesday, but yesterday inhabitants of Hendaye heard heavy shelling all day. When I got back here tonight, I found that the bridgehead at Irun was still held by government militia.

At Burgos I was told I could not get to the frontier by the direct way through San Sebastian. Even at Vitoria, which was filled with Mola's troops and Fascist volunteers, firing in the streets still occurred occasionally when I went through there yesterday by automobile. Two armed militiamen, who had been given me as an escort, rode with rifles sticking out the windows and their fingers on the triggers.

Although Mola claims control of all north Spain, it is still impossible to send telegrams or make phone calls from Burgos to the frontier. Trains, despite Mola's order mobilizing the workers, are not yet running.

The military value of Mola's troops is not very impressive, either, and that is another factor which may prolong the civil war. After following the army around since Tuesday and witnessing the battle at Somosierra, it is the opinion of this observer that 1,000 trained men, properly equipped and under the command of a competent officer, could crush the whole insurrection. The trouble is that the government has no trained men and apparently no competent officers. If it had the battle of Somosierra would have been something very different.

Strategic Pass Described.

This strategic pass is a narrow gorge in boulder strewn mountains rising sheerly out of the plains. The top pass is about 1,000 feet above the plains. A twisting mountain road leads up to it. At least a few hundred yards of the road are so steep that it goes through a long tunnel instead of climbing over the top. About 100 men with five or six machine guns could hold up a whole army there a week.

The pass was held for a while by Fascist militiamen who sneaked out of Madrid, but they were driven back by a small government force Wednesday. All Wednesday night the Madrid militia held the pass and even a part of the northern slopes, but it did not occur to them to put up machine guns at the pass—or rather they had not brought any with them.

Instead they waited with pistols, rifles and dynamite bombs for the attackers to climb up to them.

As it was, Mola's column was held up all day Wednesday by the same handful of government militia who drove out the Fascist partisans.

Description of Battle.

This was a typical battle. On top of the pass were 200 or 300 badly armed men. At the bottom was a motorized column of more than 1,000 trained troops with artillery and machine guns. The handful loyalists not only held up the column all day, but demoralized Mola's soldiers, particularly the irregulars, by dropping harmless bombs on them.

During the night Mola's column brought up a 4 inch gun and the attack started by dropping a dozen or so shells from this piece on the pass.

Then the column advanced, the trucks moving straight up the road, the soldiers firing from the trucks as they rode along. The battle, properly speaking, lasted about two hours and there were few minutes when either force was in reasonable rifle range of the other.

To me, watching the column from down in the village where it started, it sounded like a furious combat, but I soon discovered the reason. Although the enemy was about three miles away as the crow flies, and further by road, the soldiers started shooting almost as soon as they reached the outskirts of the village. They fired rifles and machine guns steadily from the trucks or on foot as they moved along.

Noise Frightens Defenders.

The noise of this attack, combined with the bombardment from their four inch gun, frightened the defenders and they retreated from the pass so the attackers had only to occupy it. I remained at the village more than an hour after all the firing had ceased and saw the column steadily moving up the road, though it was plain the enemy had cleared out.

This, I subsequently discovered, is the principle on which Spanish civil wars are run. It is really a kind of chess game, like the wars of Chinese generals or the interminable skirmishes of the bands of Italian condottieri of the fifteenth century.

The attackers maneuver until they are in a position to inflict serious damage on the enemy if they are willing to accept losses. Then they fire all the weapons they can lay hands on and wait to see what will happen. The defenders thereupon shoot the works on their side, and by comparing the amount of noise made the armies can easily tell which is the stronger. Once superiority is definitly established in this way, the weaker side is supposed to retreat.

Losers Permitted to Escape.

When one side is definitly licked, it is the custom of the winning side to leave a hole through which the leader's defeated army can escape.

This does not make for bloody wars—even pitched battles involving armies of several thousand men on each side may result in only a few score killed and badly wounded.

In this war the sides have never been anywhere near equal, so the casualties are still lower.

I had to leave the scene of action before I could get precise information about casualties, and though I saw two ambulances filled with wounded coming back from the front, I would be surprised if twenty men were killed on both sides during the whole engagement. And yet this was a decisive battle, because it opened the road to Madrid.

A Question of Morals.

The Spaniards are not cowards. It is simply that they do not take civil wars seriously and would regard it as immoral for commanding generals to expose troops to serious loss or to inflict serious loss on the enemy. Also I noticed that while they are not frightened by battles, Spaniards get so excited that they lose their heads completely.

Even back of the lines during the Somosierra engagement the confusion prevailing among the troops and officers was indescribable. How the column was even kept moving I could never understand.

The bloody part comes when the army enters a big city like Madrid and street fighting starts. This already has been seen in Madrid, Barcelona, and San Sebastian, and will probably be seen again on a bigger scale. Street fighting is not a real war to Spanish soldiers, so the rules of chivalry do not apply.

The prospect of this nightmare of blood at the end of Mola's adventure forces one to take the whole thing seriously despite appearances, instead of just enjoying it as a colorful, romantic, and slightly comical spectacle.

An Uncomfortable Evening.

My opinion of the rebel army is perhaps colored by an uncomfortable evening I spent, thanks to it. On arriving at an advance position before Somosierra pass Wednesday evening I had been lulled into a false sense of security by the friendliness of the troops and even of their commanding officers, including the colonel in command of the column.

Having sent my car back to France with my copy, I had no place to sleep, all the village houses being full, so I simply walked up a little way toward the head of the column and lay down in a wheat field a few yards from the road.

It was good lying there looking up at the starry loveliness of the Castillian night. There was a thrill at being on the very spear tip of a column wondering if the enemy might attack. From time to time a sentry would blaze away at a shadow, and then the whole line would start popping, including machine guns, and now and then a cannon for good luck. Later the troops got their nerves under control—or maybe they just fell asleep under their guns.

Seized By Fascist Guards.

Other features were less pleasant. The ground was stony, the mosquitoes were ferocious and the wind cut like a knife through my thin topcoat, my only cover. Toward 3 o'clock in the morning the cold became so unbearable that I got up and cautiously started moving toward the village, looking for a more sheltered spot. The inevitable happened—a sharp order to halt.

I halted and stood like a rock with my hands in the air until ordered to approach. Two very frightened Fascist guards were covering me with their rifles, while an officer stood by with revolver in hand.

I explained who I was and when allowed to lower my hands, after being searched for weapons, produced a permit to follow the army signed by Gen. Mola himself. The officer looked at the permit with his flashlight, handed it back to me without a word and said to the two Fascists:

"Take this man away."

Meets Some Amiable People.

The Fascists clicked the locks of their rifles and ordered me to march a few paces from them. In this way they led me to the headquarters of the Fascist volunteers and woke up "Jefe," a murderous looking little man with angry eyes. Jefe looked at my permit passport and press card, scowled at me and went back to bed.

I remained alone with the sleeping Jefe and a guard. The guard was more amiable than his boss. He got a chair for me, then to prevent me from getting bored, laid his automatic pistol on the desk and began to play with it.

"What is this business of bringing me here all about?" I asked him.

"Have to wait for the colonel's orders," he answered. "Don't know whether we are supposed to shoot you or not."

A Sample of Spanish Humor.

I did not comment on this. After a moment's silence the Fascist pointed his automatic at me and said:

"Would you like to be shot with this, or with a rifle?"

This, I gathered, was a joke.

Somehow the night wore away. I was awakened out of an uneasy sleep by a 4 inch gun going off. The attack had started.

Forgetting all about me, the Fascists ran out in the road. I followed them. I knew I was a prisoner, but my guards were too interested in the battle to notice me, so I stood there for nearly three hours listening to the rattle of guns and watching the long line of trucks chugging up toward the pass while officers on horseback or in autos frantically dashed back and forth posting men here and there and trying to keep trafic moving.

Calls It "Good Fight."

I felt it was a good fight even though it was almost all shooting and very little fighting. I stayed in the road all the time watching it and cursing the Fascists under my breath. I knew now I was not going to be shot. When the firing stopped and the officers started picking up the rear guard squads, a polite little lieutenant of the regular army came up to me and said he had orders from the colonel to take me to Gen. Mola in Buros under military guard.

He indicated confidentially there was nothing against me except that the general had decided not to allow any correspondents to remain with the column, which later turned out to be the case.

I said I had traveled over 1,000 miles back and forth, had gone without sleep for three nights and had risked my life by traveling around with an army which shoots everything except the enemy in order to walk into Madrid with the column. The lieutenant said wars are like that.

REBEL MARCH ON MADRID HALTED

The rebels took Somosierra pass and later were driven back by the loyalists. Madrid dispatches also claimed control of other mountain passes.

FRANCE SELLS ARMS TO SPAIN; STIRS UP ROW

Madrid Envoys Refuse to Sign Checks; Quit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 25 [Saturday].—The Spanish chargé d'affaires, Cristobal del Castillo and the military attaché Barroso have resigned rather than sign a check paying France's Left wing government for war planes, arms, and munitions sold to the embattled Spanish government.

This was disclosed by the Paris nationalist press today, which added that the check finally was signed by Spain's Paris consul.

Spanish consuls at Marseilles and Bayonne are also reported to have quit rather than have anything to do with the loading of these munitions and arms.

Explains Action.

The Spanish chargé d'affaires, following a visit to the French foreign office to announce his resignation and to present his successor, Cruz Martin, explained his action as follows:

"I have loyally served the Spanish republic and all its governments, even the present one, in the course of my duties. I quit my post solely because my conscience forbids me to collaborate in the sending of arms destined to kill my unhappy compatriots."

The Spanish ambassador to Paris has been replaced by a man more sympathetic to the present "Popular Front" radical government, but he has not yet arrived to take over the post.

New Attacks on Blum.

The Paris Nationalist press attacks on the French government of Premier Leon Blum for selling war materials to Spain rose to new fury today when it became evident that the Spanish freighter Ciudad de Tarragona anchored in Marseilles harbor was there to take aboard munitions and arms. With the Ciudad is Spanish destroyer No. 17.

The destroyer's commander, asked whether he would convoy the freighter, said that would depend upon the nature of the cargo. He admitted he probably would convoy her.

Fresh accusations that the Blum government is aiding Spain were met by the foreign ministry with the declaration that nobody can sell arms and munitions to a foreign power without permission from the Quai d'Orsay and that no such permission has been asked.

Cot Singled Out.

Pierre Cot, air minister, has been especially singled out for attack. He is alleged to have ordered Col. Redempt, director of materials in the air ministry, to cause immediate delivery of 17 Alcan bombers to the Madrid régime.

Reports from Madrid indicate that government flyers' planes are old Breguets useless for warfare and that air fighters are using Douglas, Ford and other passenger planes. The rebels are said to possess most of the war planes.

The morning rightist press also accuses the French communist party of planning to send a symbolic battalion of communist shock troops to fight on the side of the Reds in Spain. It alleges that the communists decided to carry out the recruiting clandestinely for fear of antagonizing noncommunist parties in the French government coalition. The recruiting is to take place near the border and arms are to come from a communist cache near Bordeaux.

David in the Superior court yesterday from Stuart Williams, 35 years old, a lumber dealer in London, England. She testified they were married on June 2, 1935, and on the fifth day of their honeymoon her husband disappeared, leaving a note declaring that the marriage was a mistake.

BOMB PLANES HIT BY LINDBERGH IN TOAST TO NAZIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 24.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, as a guest of the Richthofen pursuit squadron at Doeberitz today, created a new sensation with a toast considered a sequel to his speech at Berlin yesterday in which he urged aviators to work for the protection instead of the destruction of nations and civilization.

The famous American flyer toasted Germany's Richthofen squadron in these words:

"To the bombers, may they be slower, to the pursuit planes, may they be swifter."

Later Col. Lindbergh and his wife were guests of Mrs. William E. Dodd, wife of the American ambassador, at an embassy party in their honor. Among the 75 persons present were Prince Louis Ferdinand, son of the former crown prince, and many German military officers.

U. OF C. GRADUATE REPORTS FAMILY SAFE IN MADRID

Herbert S. Pflaum, 1325 East 52d street, former vice president of the West Side Trust and Savings bank at Roosevelt road and Halsted street, received a radiogram yesterday from his son Irving, a University of Chicago graduate now serving as a newspaper correspondent in Palma, Mallorca, saying that Irving's wife and their 2 year old son had taken refuge at the American embassy in Madrid. They were among a large crowd of United States citizens who have sought safety there during the revolt.

Another American reported safe in the embassy is Miss Joseph de Boer, a teacher in a Connecticut college, who often visits her sister, Mrs. Allen W. McConnell, 518 South State road, Arlington Heights. She sailed for Spain June 17 to get material for a book, Mrs. McConnell said yesterday.

FRANCE ORDERS GIL ROBLES TO FIND NEW REFUGE

BAYONNE, France, July 24.—(AP)—José Maria Gil Robles, Spanish clerical leader and former minister of war, left Bayonne for an unannounced destination today after authorities had told him he must seek another place of refuge. He was accompanied by Juan March, wealthy Spanish landowner.

The French authorities also announced they had opened expulsion proceedings against Gabriel Artiach and Francisco Rodriguez, Spaniards.

All the cases, officials said, were onnected with the recent discovery of rebel leaflets being printed in Biarritz.

Consul Thomas D. Davis at Valencia reported that that city was in the hands of communists, who had become active, but that the civil government was acting with a strong hand and controling the situation. American lives and property there were reported safe.

The consular agent at Rarragona reported that nearly all Americans there had left on a British steamer, and that there was no anxiety concerning those remaining.

Dispatches from Madrid tonight said the capital remained calm. About 140 Americans were quartered in the embassy, and there was a food supply sufficient for two weeks.

TAKES DIVE INTO PACIFIC; FINDS SELF IN CHICAGO

A 6 foot youth approached Policeman William Gonoude at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard yesterday and identified himself as Jack Lynch, 18 years old, of Alhambra, Cal., a student at the Pasadena Junior college.

"I'm lost," said Lynch. "Last Sunday I went swimming in the Pacific ocean at Long Beach, twenty-six miles from my home, and I don't remember anything that happened after that until today when some men asked me if I wanted to get out of a truck. Several other riders got out, so I did, too, and found myself in Chicago."

Lynch said his father operates a pattern shop in Alhambra. Police will notify the youth's parents.

Bomb Hurled at Brewery Damages Shanahan's Home

A black powder bomb, supposedly thrown from an automobile, exploded early today at the Bismarck Brewing company, 2762 Archer avenue, smashing a door leading into the bottling division and shattering bottles and cases piled inside. The explosion broke every window in the home of Representative David E. Shanahan, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, which is directly across the street at 2722 Throop street. Mrs. Elizabeth Shanahan, 74 years old, an aunt of the legislator, was alone in the house. Shanahan is in Mercy hospital recovering from a serious illness.

American Refugees Reveal Horrors of Spanish Revolt

MARSEILLES, France, July 24.—(AP)—Mrs. George Haven Putnam, widow of the late United States publisher and one of the refugees brought here by a British destroyer, said tonight she had seen dozens of churches and convents burning along the east coast of Spain.

"My sister, Miss Alice Smith, and myself were at Tarragona when the trouble began," Mrs. Putnam said. "For four days it was a nightmare, with no means of knowing whether we would be dead or alive when it was over.

"Truckloads of young communists roared through the quiet town. They all brandished revolvers and rifles and raided the hotel where we were staying, demanding food. Believe me, they got it.

Cut All Communications.

"The first truckloads cut all communications in the city with the rest of Spain, established armed pickets throughout the town, and then rolled on southward.

"From Sunday until Thursday, when the British destroyer Garland arrived, we never knew when one of the truckloads of communists would attack the hotel.

"We talked with several youths, all of whom wore red armbands with the communistic emblem of the hammer and sickle. They said they were for the government, but, judging from the number of churches and convents and homes of so-called Fascists they said they had burned, it was hard to say whether they had much use for law and order.

"A British officer came to the hotel Thursday and told us the destroyer was waiting to take Americans and British to Marseilles. From the ship we saw dozens of churches aflame in little towns, and many convents and other church buildings afire on the hillsides over the sea."

Novelist Tells Experiences.

PERPIGNAN, France, July 24.—(AP)—Margaret Culkin Banning, American novelist, told today of fleeing from San Sebastian, Spain, with her two children after the revolt started there Sunday.

"The first sign of something wrong in San Sebastian was when the hotel employés became sullen Saturday," she said. "We were awakened at 5:30 Sunday morning by the manager battering on the door telling us to close the shutters as shooting had begun.

"Things quieted later and we went to church. Suddenly the rabble burst in. We saw soldiers yelling for us to get under the seats. I got up, took my son and daughter, and a soldier let us through a side door.

"We decided to make a break that night. We got our car after some trouble and reached the border just before dark. We were stopped five times at barricades and searched for guns."

Mary Banning, the writer's daughter, is a senior at Vassar college; her son, Archibald, has just graduated from Phillips-Exeter.

Liner's Voyage of Terror.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, July 24.—(AP)—The vivid story of an American liner's voyage of terror, with Spanish air bombs dropping off its bows as it fled the torches of rebels in Malaga, came today from the captain of the ship.

It was the American Export Line's Exmouth. Capt. Gustaf Berg said he saw the bodies of three men in the streets of Malaga who were machine-gunned for failing to give the Leftist salute.

"Upon arrival of Malaga," the captain said, "the pilot who came to conduct the ship to dock told me I could put in there. He said there certainly were troubles, but no danger for foreigners.

"At the dock, I got off to go to the company's office and the consulate, but on the way found in the deserted streets first one body, then a second, then a third.

"I started to turn around when Reds in automobiles, flying the Red flag, passed near me and fired a machine gun.

"Then I learned that all who failed to raise their fists in salute when automobiles with Red flags passed were killed with machine guns.

Push Autos Into Water.

"I saw people pushing automobiles off the dock into the water.

"I started to go aboard my ship when I heard several groups of revolutionaries near me say: 'Suppose we set fire to this boat.'

"I did not wait any longer. I lifted anchor for Casablanca.

"But my troubles were not over.

"Passing through the Straits of Gibraltar I saw a Spanish plane coming toward me.

"After making three big circles above us it dropped three bombs.

"Luckily they fell about 100 yards ahead of the steamer's bow.

"I reported immediately by radio to the American consulates in Gibraltar, Tangier, and Casablanca.

"Finally I arrived here."

U. S. Protest Bombing.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—The American consul at Tangier today protested to Spanish rebel leaders against the dropping of bombs by rebel airplanes which exploded near the American steamer Exmouth in the Straits of Gibraltar. Maxwell Blake, the American consul general, advised the state department Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, had promised to give strict orders to prevent a recurrence of such "regrettable" incidents.

REBELS ROUTED BY CIVILIAN ARMY, MADRID INSISTS

Lists Victories in Hills North of Capital.

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 24.—As fighting for mountain roads controling the entrance into Madrid continued north of the Spanish capital today, the government began to reorganize regiments disbanded Monday after the short lived rebellion within the city, this time under officers who it is believed can be trusted. All soldiers were ordered to return to their barracks.

This puts a new complexion on the dramatic battle being waged in the mountains, in which, according to government announcements, the rebel army of Gen. Emilio Mola was driven from the strong position it had taken up on the Escorial, one of the three main passes across the mountains.

Advance on Avila.

A further advance has been made in the direction of the walled town of Avila, which is in rebel hands, the government claimed. An improvised armored train with 500 men on board, well armed with machine guns, has advanced up the northern rail line as far as Navalperal.

An attack on Alto de Leon pass was directed from the Villalba railway junction, which is the headquarters for loyal forces protecting Madrid on the northwest. Government gains in this region have been confirmed.

Soldiers are now being rushed to these fronts to relieve the workers in blue overalls, who, with old rifles or even only pistols, were rushed forward blindly to face the fire of trained troops.

Rush Up Artillery.

A large force of loyal artillery was rushed off to Somosierra pass, where the battle is continuing.

The civilians have put up a fight which, officials say, will go down in history as one of the most magnificent stands ever made by civilians against a military force at the service of a feudal aristocracy which wishes to thrust Spain back into the 16th century.

I spoke with an aviator who flew from Madrid to Seville, held by rebels, and back today. His impression was that the Seville rebels cannot hold out long. He got the impression that all surrounding villages are in the hands of loyal forces.

[Other reports said Seville had been captured by government forces.]

Enroll Women as Nurses.

The ministry of public instruction is organizing women teachers and college professors to act as nurses in hospitals which are being opened in many parts of town.

Despite the fact that regular soldiers are now being rushed to the mountains, Madrid workers continue to enroll in civilian forces. Nearly every trade has a battalion or company. As one band comes back tired, fresh young men often clad only in pants and singlets, for the heat is terrific, rush off to the scene of action.

The son of Francisco Largo Caballero, Socialist leader, is missing. He was doing military service in El Pardo, near Madrid, where a minor rebellion occurred Monday. Some rebels escaped to the mountains and took him with them, apparently as a hostage.

A radio message from Gen. Francisco Franco, the rebel commander in chief, to the military commander in Palma, Majorca, intercepted by the government, was said to reveal that the army uprising was being financed by Juan March, reputed to be Spain's wealthiest man.

March on Saragossa.

BARCELONA, Spain, July 24.—(AP)—Three new columns of anti-Fascist militiamen—8,500 strong—marched out of Barcelona tonight to fight rebels at Saragossa. They will join other government forces already on the way.

One column of 3,000 men was recruited from the countryside around Tarragona. The second, of 2,000 men, came from Barcelona, and the third, of 3,500 men, consisted of soldiers and regular militiamen. Six trains were requisitioned to transport the third column eastward to the battlefield.

The government announced planes sent to bombard Jaca found the city in control of the column of leftists from Barcelona. The aerial squadron went on to Saragossa and dropped a cargo of bombs on the rebel barracks.

[A dispatch from Lisbon, Portugal, said four thousand government militiamen from Barcelona marching toward Saragossa were ambushed and dispersed. This dispatch also asserted the Spanish naval base at Marin, on the Atlantic coast, had joined the revolt.]

The steamer Uruguay was requisitioned as a prison ship.

Balearic Islands in Revolt.

MARSEILLES, France, July 24.—(AP)—Even Spain's Balearic Islands in the Mediterranean are divided by the civil war, tourists reaching here tonight from the islands reported. They said the island of Majorca was completely controled by the rebels, while government forces held the nearby island of Minorca.

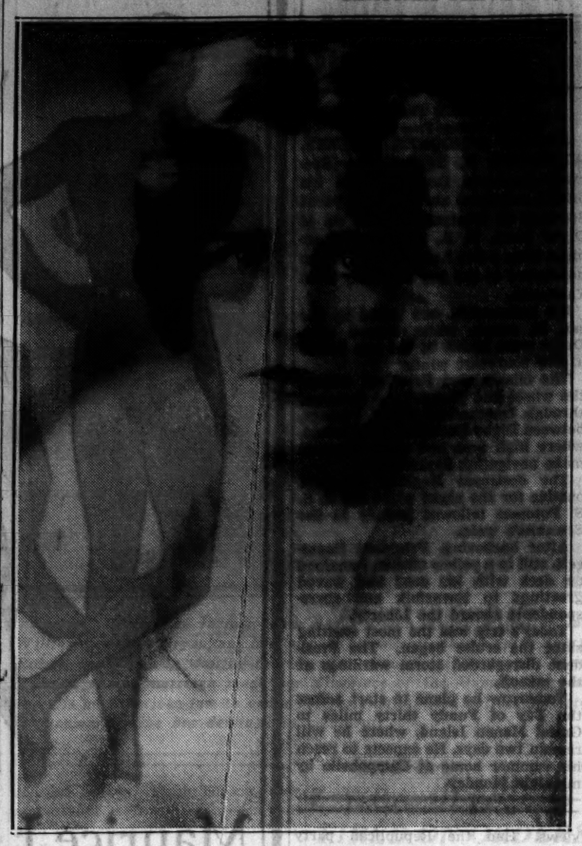
American and English refugees from Barcelona said it was reported Gen. Manuel Goded and forty-seven other rebel officers had been slain in prison by their loyalist captors. The refugees also said fifteen rebel officers committed suicide in a church when surrounded by leftists.

Rebels Executed on Road.

BAYONNE, France, July 24.—(AP)—An automobile load of rebels was executed today by loyalists on a road near Vera, reports from across the border said.

Refugees from San Sebastian said an Englishman and a Frenchman were killed there and that five Swiss citizens were saved from a firing squad at the last minute when they established their nationality.

Suing Husband for Separation



MRS. CORNELIUS PETER VAN SCHAACK JR.
[Du Bois Photo.]

VAN SCHAACK JR. SUED BY WIFE FOR SUPPORT

Auto Speeder Enjoined from Harming Her.

Cornelius Peter Van Schaack Jr., 27 years old, of Wilmette, wealthy business executive, is being sued for separate maintenance in Circuit court by Mrs. Nancy Mae Steffy Van Schaack, 25 years old, it was learned yesterday. The petition was filed on Thursday by Attorney Max Andalman, but was suppressed until yesterday.

Soon after the bill was entered Judge Thomas J. Lynch granted Mrs. Van Schaack an injunction to restrain her husband from carrying out alleged threats to harm her in retaliation for the suit. Next Tuesday there will be a hearing on Mrs. Van Schaack's request for $750 a month temporary alimony.

Separated This Week.

Mrs. Van Schaack's bill, which charges cruelty and infidelity, says that the couple married on April 27, 1931, and separated last Sunday when Mrs. Van Schaack learned that her husband was keeping a three day tryst with another woman.

The petition declares that Van Schaack has an ungovernable temper. On two occasions, it says, he humiliated his wife before guests at their home. It alleges that last Thanksgiving day, despite the cold, he forced her from the house while she was wearing only a thin evening gown.

Last April he locked her in a closet and struck her brother and sister when they protested, Mrs. Van Schaack alleges.

Wishes Custody of Children.

She asks custody of their two children, Arden Claire, 4 years old, and Cornelius III., 3 years old.

The bill declares that just before the birth of their daughter, Van Schaack forced his wife into an automobile, in which he drove at the rate of more than 50 miles an hour to a small town and there locked her in a hotel room. The next day, despite her protests, according to the petition, they continued their headlong journey to Rockford, Moline, Madison, Wis., and other cities.

Brushes With Trafic Police.

Van Schaack's penchant for fast driving kept him much in the news several years ago. Evanston police records show that he was arrested fifteen times for speeding and other trafic offenses from 1927 to 1931.

Van Schaack is the owner of the Midwest Sales Syndicate and Importers Distributing company, a premium concern, and has an income of $1,500 to $2,000 a month, his wife's suit says. His father, who died a year ago leaving an estate of $500,000, was a wholesale druggist.

CHAIN GANG FUGITIVE DIES IN THE CHAIR FOR MURDER OF GUARD

Richmond, Va., July 24.—(AP)—Thomas Cole Hart, who killed a guard and escaped a chain gang in Scott county in 1932, died for the crime in Virginia's electric chair this morning after his mother's last desperate effort to obtain executive clemency had failed.

Hanged For Killing Sweetheart.

San Quentin Prison, Cal., July 24.—(AP)—Antonio Cabrera, 21, was hanged here today for the murder of his 17 year old sweetheart, Alberta Smith, at San Bernardino in May, 1935.

Cabrera, a former inmate of the Florida state farm for feeble minded at Tallahassee, went to his death calmly.

H. T. ARCHIBALD, HEAD OF CANDY COMPANY, DIES

Started His Business Career Here.

H. Teller Archibald, turfman and candy manufacturer, who began his career in Chicago, died of heart disease in Swampscott, Mass., early yesterday after a brief illness. Mr. Archibald, who had lived in Miami Beach, Fla., for nearly ten years, was in Massachusetts to superintend the running of horses from his stable on the Suffolk Downs track. He was 57 years old.

H. TELLER ARCHIBALD.

Mr. Archibald was born in Washington, D. C., and came to Chicago in 1900, when he joined the staf of the old Chicago Record as a reporter. Later he was an employé of the old Record-Herald. In 1901 he married Miss Mildred King, who was later to become known as the "Fannie May" of the candy manufacturing world.

Opens Theater in Rogers Park.

In 1912 Mr. Archibald opened the Casino theater at Clark street and Greenleaf avenue, the first house in Rogers Park devoted entirely to the showing of motion pictures. He entered the real estate business shortly afterward, organizing his own company.

In 1920 Mr. Archibald and his wife entered the candy business with a single shop at Madison and La Salle streets. The venture was immediately successful, and in the same year, by arrangement with his brother, Clarence, an owner of the Fannie May Candy company in the east, he organized a similar company in Chicago. He served as its president until his death. The company now operates stores in many of the principal cities of the middle west.

Differences of opinion concerning the conduct of the business arose between Mr. Archibald and his wife, it was revealed in 1928 when Mrs. Archibald sued for separate maintenance. In 1929 he obtained a divorce from her in Florida and in 1930 she got a Chicago divorce from him. Meanwhile he had married Miss Dorothy Wooden of Washington, who survives him.

Bred Racing Thoroughbreds.

For several years Mr. Archibald had been an ardent horse racing fan. He owned several race horses and maintained an estate, The Plains, in Virginia, where he bred and trained racing thoroughbreds.

Besides his widow he is survived by three brothers and a sister. They are Mrs. A. W. Close of Glenn Dale, Md., and Clarence, Willard, and Albert Archibald of Washington.

Funeral services will be held on Monday morning in Washington.

Anselmo, Neb., July 24.—(AP)—Fire today destroyed four frame business buildings in Anselmo as firemen from three towns battled the flames in vain after the water supply gave out. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Insanity Plea Made as Britain Claims Gunman Periled King

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 24.—George Andrew McMahon, 32 years old, club-footed, baldish man described as a journalist, peddler, waiter, and street car conductor with a grievance against the government, was arraigned on three charges today in Bow street police court. He is alleged to have menaced King Edward VIII. of England with a revolver while the latter was leading a parade past Wellington arch last week.

After twelve witnesses had been examined, all telling widely diverging stories of the incident, McMahon's lawyer, Alfred Kerstein, submitted that his client is a pathological case and that the evidence submitted today does not justify bringing him to trial before a criminal court.

Gets Remand of Week.

Sir Rollo Graham Campbell, magistrate, ruled that Sir Donald Somervell, attorney general, had brought "proper charges on which the accused should be brought to trial," whereupon Kerstein asked and was granted a remand for another week.

McMahon, wearing a brown suit, sat nervously in court making copious notes, which he passed along to his attorney. At next week's hearing McMahon will take the stand, and defense witnesses will be called.

At today's session two more charges were preferred against McMahon in addition to the original one made when he was arrested on Constitution hill last Thursday.

The charges were, first, being in possession of a loaded "Chicago arms company" revolver with intent to endanger life and property; second, wilfully presenting near the king a firearm with intent to break public peace; third, wilfully producing a firearm with intent to alarm the king.

Treason Act Invoked.

The latter two charges were brought under a treason act nearly a century old.

After the witnesses had told their stories of what happened when the revolver went through the air out of McMahon's hand and, according to some versions, struck King Edward's horse on the foreleg, a letter was introduced, written by McMahon to Sir John Simon, home secretary, on the evening before the incident. It said:

"Simon, I have been the victim of organized persecution by your hirelings. I have been tortured many months by unjust imprisonment. I now demand full satisfaction within fourteen hours and cessation of such un-British conduct by your servants."

Kerstein stated it was plain McMahon did not desire to hurt the king, and added:

"It is clear from this letter and from the statement he made that McMahon is not normal."

Nothing to Say.

When the court remanded the hearing, McMahon was asked if he had anything to say to the charges against him.

"No, nothing," he replied.

The first witness, Marie Blencowe, a barmaid at the Two Brewers' inn, said McMahon had a drink with her a week ago last Wednesday, and said:

"I am going away. You will never see me again."

John Remes Brighton, hotel porter, told how he tried to beat up McMahon after the incident, but did not see whether McMahon threw the gun or whether it was knocked out of his hand.

Constable Dick, who was standing near McMahon, struck him on the arm and arrested him when he saw him pull a gun out of his pocket, was cross-examined at length:

"Did you knock it [the gun] out of his hand?" asked Kerstein.

"I do not know if I did or not," was the answer.

Swore at Policeman.

Police officers said McMahon first drew attention to himself in the crowd by "cussing out" a mounted policeman, saying:

"Get your damn horse out of the way; I want to see the parade."

London papers are handling the hearing in the cagiest fashion due to the severe contempt of court regulations here, as a result of which the Daily Express and Evening News already have been cited. A moving picture house was also cited for contempt today for showing a picture of the revolver incident.

RESUME WORK TODAY ON TAX BILLS FOR 1935

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn said yesterday that work on the preparation of 1935 tax bills will be resumed at noon today. The work was halted Thursday when it was found there were errors in the computation of the Chicago park district and county forest preserve district rates. Flynn said that no other errors had been found.

It was discovered that the forest preserve rate should have been 6 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation instead of the previously announced 11 cents. The park district rate was raised from the original 89 cents to 91 cents. The corrections mean a 3 cent reduction from the previously announced rates on city property and a 5 cent reduction in the rest of the county.

SEN. HOLT HAILS LANDON'S STAND ON POOR RELIEF

Farley and Rep. O'Connor Sneer at Speech.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Senator Rush D. Holt, a West Virginia Democrat who came into the senate as a fervent New Dealer, today acclaimed Gov. Alf M. Landon's speech of acceptance, particularly his pledge to purge the relief administration of politics and corruption. He denounced the Roosevelt method of handling relief as "one of the blackest pages in American history."

Senator Holt's praise of the Landon speech led to widespread speculation in both Democratic and Republican quarters as to whether he would support the Republican ticket, but he merely laughed when asked what he would do and said, "I can't comment on that." Young Holt has been one of the most vehement critics in the senate of the administration's relief policy and he fought his colleague, Senator Matthew M. Neely, for renomination on that score. Neely, nevertheless was renominated.

Farley Sneers at Speech.

Other Democratic leaders in the capital, notably James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the national committee, and Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, acting majority leader of the house, sneered at Gov. Landon's speech, calling it "weasel worded" and the voice of the American Liberty league. Radical labor leaders also denounced the address as an outright espousal of the open shop, but William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who has personally indorsed Mr. Roosevelt, declined to comment.

The few Republican leaders who had not gone out to Topeka to hear the address, or to their homes, acclaimed it as a simple, honest, sincere appeal for a return to the American form of government. In contrast to the Democratic comment, they said the speech was particularly noteworthy for its forthrightness and complete absence of "weasel words."

"I was much impressed with Gov. Landon's discussion of relief," said Senator Holt. "I agree heartily that there should be no discrimination on account of race, religion, or party affiliation. The administration had the opportunity to correct this discrimination, which is so evident in the WPA, and failed to do so.

"Speech a Challenge."

"Every right thinking citizen should condemn this discriminatory method of assigning funds to the needy. Gov. Landon's speech was a challenge on this point. In one sentence, Gov. Landon spoke personally and to the point when he said, 'those who use public funds for their political machines forfeit all right to political consideration from true Americans.'

"That's what Gov. Landon said. No one should have difficulty in accepting that.

"I'm very much disgusted with the administration for not cleaning up the relief situation, which I know to be rotten to the core. It constitutes one of the blackest pages in American history."

A New Deal bolt by Senator Holt undoubtedly would mean a Republican victory in that state because of his popularity and appeal to the youthful and liberal voters.

COMMENT BY PARTISANS.

Comment from various Republican and Democratic leaders on the Landon speech follows:

Democratic Chairman Farley—"In general, Gov. Landon appears to have been more concerned with dodging anything positive than with giving the country a definite idea of the principles under which he proposes operating. Undoubtedly the governor's effort was satisfactory to the du Pont Liberty league, for it rather skilfully avoids criticising anything for which that organization stands. That is really as far as the du Ponts and Mr. William Randolph Hearst had a right to expect him to go."

Representative O'Connor—"I think the speech was written by the National Manufacturers' association and edited by Jouett Shouse, head of the American Liberty league. It was about as explicit as 'Anthony Adverse.'"

Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee—"Gov. Landon's address gives the American people a straightforward choice between sound, economical governmental administration, along American lines, and the governmental monstrosities of the New Deal. I am particularly impressed with that part in which he pledged return to the constitutional form of government. At no place in the governor's speech was there an attempt to join in the appeals being made to class prejudices. There was no effort to dodge issues nor to confuse them with double-meaning words."

Representative Robert L. Bacon of New York, vice chairman of the Republican congressional committee—"Gov. Landon's speech was a natural. He was not trying to be anybody else, nor was he evasive in any particular. His was a ringing call to Republicanism and a restoration of sound, economical government along accepted American lines."

Senator John G. Townsend [Rep., Del.]—"Gov. Landon's speech was just good, plain common sense; a simple, straightforward notice to the American people of what the Republican party and its candidates stand for in this all important campaign. It should have universal appeal to the American people, who have been led into a wilderness of confusion by the costly, wasteful, experimental New Deal administration."

Senator Warren R. Austin [Rep., Vt.]—"The form of the statement was notably simple, direct and understandable. There were no weasel words in it. The sincerity of it gives us hope and encouragement. I am sure that it appealed particularly to New England, not only to Republicans but to all others who are anti-New Deal."

Radical labor leaders were outspoken in their denunciation of Gov. Landon's stand on the collective bargaining question. George L. Berry, President Roosevelt's "coördinator for industrial coöperation" and chairman of the so-called "labor's nonpartisan league," an organization formed to support the President, said:

"His statements are entirely in harmony with his labor record. Out of that record we could expect nothing except the claptrap and weasel words of the Topeka speech. It bulwarks industrial bourbonism."

Lewis See a Kickback.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who is at war with the American Federation of Labor in his attempts to spread industrial unionism, declared:

"It took labor years to obtain the passage of the Norris-La Guardia act, which declares the national policy with reference to the organization of workers that 'it shall be free from the interference, restraint, or coercion of employers of labor or their agents.'

"Adopting the demand of the National Manufacturers' association, he proposes that there shall be 'no interference from any source.' Such a policy would make efforts to unionize an industry or a plant wrongful as an instance of 'interference.'"

Mrs. Landon on Way Back to Mountain Home and Babies

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., July 24.—[Special.]—Bowing her way out of the presidential campaign limelight, Mrs. Alfred M. Landon at 6:48 here tonight boarded a Union Pacific train for Estes Park and the McGraw ranch, where she will spend the remainder of the summer.

Gov. Landon, the Republican presidential nominee, was the last to wave good-by to the family as the train moved out of the station, proving that family pleasantries have not been lost to the momentous affairs of the political campaign.

Sweltering in Topeka's all-time high of 113 degrees, the governor admitted he wouldn't mind going to the mountains himself.

Predicts Rain for Kansas.

"Yes, it's hot," he answered one of Mrs. Landon's fellow passengers who seized the opportunity to shake his hand while the train stood in the station. "And I guess that means something when I feel it, for I'm pretty used to Kansas heat. But I think this wind means a change. I wouldn't be surprised to see it blow up a rain."

It was a typical prairie town scene at the station. Several dozen of the Landons' friends and neighbors had hurried their dinner to come down and tell Mrs. Landon "good-by" and at the same time to tell Gov. Landon how much they liked his speech.

"Good-by, good luck," several said to Mrs. Landon as if they felt the grave responsibility she is sharing with her husband. Mrs. Landon appeared happy in spirit, but underneath the brim of her burgundy linen hat it was not difficult to detect a trace of seriousness. Her traveling suit was a beige sharkskin. With it she wore a burgundy organdy blouse that matched her hat.

Governor's Father in Party.

Mrs. Landon is well accompanied, for Peggy Anne, the governor's father, 89 year old John M. Landon, and Mrs. Landon's mother, Mrs. Josephine Cobb, are all going to spend the rest of the summer at the McGraw ranch. Still another in the party is Mrs. Mildred Crighton, Mrs. Landon's secretary. The date of their return to Topeka is set for Sept. 10, when Peggy Anne will enroll as a junior at Kansas university.

The two Landon babies, Nancy Jo and Jackie, are at the ranch anxiously awaiting their mother. Trying hard to let them grow up naturally, apart from all of the excitement, Mrs. Landon left them with their nurse when she, Peggy Anne, and grandpa came back to Topeka for the notification. Five days is a pretty long time to leave two small children, Mrs. Landon explained tonight.

But Gov. and Mrs. Landon know that Nancy Jo and Jackie heard their daddy's speech last night. When they returned to the executive mansion the first thing that greeted them was a telegram to the governor signed Nancy Jo, Jackie, and Pinkie. It read: "Heard your speech fine. Give our love to mother." It was not until tonight that Mrs. Landon figured out that "Pinkie" was the new family rabbit.

Nancy Jo to Give Party.

Nancy Jo is to have her fourth birthday party next Wednesday at the ranch. It will be the first time she will miss being hostess on her birthday to her less fortunate little friends at the Provident day nursery in Topeka. But Nancy Jo is giving the party for the nursery children just the same and she will send her greetings by wire from Estes Park. At least one of Nancy Jo's fondest desires will be realized on her birthday, for her mother is taking back from Topeka the shiny new stove Nancy Jo has been wanting for weeks.

Peggy Anne, smart in sunflower yellow crocheted linen, brown off the face hat, and brown slippers, was wearing one of the two orchids she had last night. "Must be from your beau down in Oklahoma," joked a reporter.

"I'm sure no one else could afford orchids in the summer time." But Peggy Anne declined to comment. She only smiled knowingly at the two Kansas university sophomores, Topeka beaux, who had come down to see her off.

It was comparatively quiet today at the executive mansion. After a good night's rest the family had breakfast together shortly past 8 o'clock. There were no guests for luncheon or dinner and only a few callers during the day. With youthful enthusiasm Peggy Anne called up two or three of her good friends to ask them "what they thought of last night."

Visit Three Hospitals.

Mrs. Landon and Mrs. Creighton spent most of the morning visiting the three Topeka hospitals—Stormont, St. Francis, and Christ—and the two homes for the aged—the Methodist and Ingleside—where they took the flowers that had been showered on Mrs. Landon yesterday. A few more bouquets were left at the homes of two friends of Mrs. Landon who are ill.

At the Ingleside home the aged ladies presented Mrs. Landon with a patchwork quilt which they made especially for her.

From early morning on throughout the day most of Topeka's distinguished feminine visitors who came to see and hear Alf Landon last night left by motor, rail, and plane.

"Dolly" Gann and Mr. Gann were up and off at 4 o'clock this morning by automobile. They are returning to Washington by way of Kentucky, where they will visit some of Mr. Gann's relatives. Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons [Elsie Vanderbilt] and her son, William H. Vanderbilt, departed for Rhode Island late last night in company with the Bristow Drapers, whose home is in Hopedale, Mass.

GLASS' PROTEST FAILS; PROFILE WILL GO ON COIN

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Over his "most vigorous protest" the profile of Senator Carter Glass is to appear on a 50 cent piece commemorating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of his home city, Lynchburg, Va.

As a last step the Virginian called the mint today to ask if it were "permissible for the profile of a living man to appear on coins."

Told there was no law against it, Glass shook his head and said:

"I had hoped there would be an avenue of escape."

His fellow townsmen arranged for the commemorative coins.

Today the 78 year old Virginian asserted he had not been invited to do any speaking in the campaign but that he had no idea of doing anything but support the Democratic ticket.

VOTERS WARNED TO REGISTER BY OCT. 6 FOR NOV. 3

Honest Poll Listing to Start on Aug. 4.

Alexander J. McKay, chairman of the Chicago board of election commissioners, warned citizens yesterday that those who fail to register under the new system of permanent registration on or before Oct. 6 will not be eligible to vote in the general election Nov. 3.

Registration will open in the board's offices in the city hall on Aug. 4 and will continue there until Oct. 5 except on Sept. 19. On that date and on Oct. 6 voters may register in their precincts.

"The new law provides that we must close registrations 28 days before an election," Chairman McKay explained. "Following an election, nonregistered citizens may register at any time during the year at the board's offices."

Ten Cities in Cook County.

Permanent registration in the metropolitan area will apply to Chicago and to nine suburbs in Cook county which are under the jurisdiction of the election board. These are Cicero, Summit, Evergreen Park, Stickney, Chicago Heights, Morton Grove, Elmwood Park, Harvey, and Berwyn. The same dates for registration, either at the city hall or in precincts, apply for these towns.

Downstate cities which operate under election boards also will establish permanent registration by the terms of the act passed by the legislature in June. They are Aurora, Bloomington, Cairo, Danville, East St. Louis, Galesburg, Peoria, Rockford, and Springfield.

Delivery of permanent registration materials to the Chicago election board will begin next Tuesday when cards, filing cabinets, and other paraphernalia will be moved in. The entire cost of the new system, McKay estimated, will be about $150,000, including the cost of hiring extra clerical help in connection with the installation. The new equipment will cost about $113,000.

Provisions of New Statute.

Permanent registration will necessitate only one registration so long as a voter continues to reside at the same address and votes at least once every four years.

Fifty registrars will be on hand when registration opens Aug. 4. Each voter will be required to sign two cards, one of which will be kept in the board's offices and will be known as the master set. This is a white card. A buff card will be placed in a special cabinet and will be taken to the precinct each election day for comparison with the voter's signature.

Each Signs for Ballot.

When voting the citizen will be handed first a ballot requisition which he must sign. This writing will be compared with his signature on the precinct card. If they match he will be given a ballot.

Penalties for vote frauds under permanent registration remain the same as those in the present law, the county judge being authorized to impose county jail sentences ranging from three months to one year.

VISITING THRONG EXPECTED FOR KNOX CEREMONY

Four Parades to Converge on Stadium Thursday.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican workers directed their attention yesterday to the plans for the ceremonies in the Chicago Stadium next Thursday night when Frank Knox is to be notified formally of his nomination for Vice President. Chauncey McCormick, head of the Illinois citizens' committee, on his return from the Landon notification in Topeka, said large parties are coming from near and far, and one chief problem is that of handling the numerous delegations.

Four parades will be major details of the evening, each forming in a different quarter of the city and marching to the Stadium with floats and drill teams, bands, and bugle corps. Arrangements for the parades were announced in detail by Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer of the Chicago park district.

Illinois to Use Autos.

Railroads have made special low rates and Mr. McCormick said motorcades are being arranged in every county in Illinois. The complete Illinois citizens' committee for the notification was announced. This group, headed by Mr. McCormick, will have Julius H. Miner as secretary.

As assistant chairmen will be George Woodruff, Edward A. Hayes, Mrs. Martin Northam, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Frank Kalteux, James H. Douglas, Sterling Morton, Edward F. McGinnis, Kent S. Clow, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Edward Clamage, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, and Robert Tieken. The committee includes Republicans representing every section of the state. David L. Shillinglaw has been appointed to organize a group on La Salle street to participate.

Steiwer to Make Speech.

Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President, is to head the honorary executive committee. Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, who is to make the notification speech, is to be escorted by delegates representing each state, appointed by the Cleveland convention. The ceremonies are to take place at 7:30 p. m.

Republican national headquarters announced that a campaign to organize Landon for President clubs in Wisconsin, is to be made between Aug. 1 and 15. Five or more loudspeaker trucks re to visit every town of considerable size in the state.

Conferences and meetings are planned in every Wisconsin congressional district during the remainder of July. Membership in the clubs will be invited on a nonpartisan as well as a Republican basis, special appeal being made to Republican volunteers, who are forming organizations in midwest states.

Farm Journal for Landon.

G. O. P. headquarters announced during the day that the Farm Journal, published at Philadelphia and with a monthly circulation of 1,200,000, has repudiated the New Deal and is urging election of Landon and Knox. This periodical, one of the oldest agricultural publications, heads its August issue with a signed declaration by Graham Patterson, publisher. He says:

"We are opposed to the New Deal. We are not party minded in our views. Had the Republican party adopted policies which in our opinion were definitly contrary to and calculated to destroy our American system we would be as strong in our condemnation as we are of the present administration.

"Every Promise Ignored."

"Since taking office this administration has, under guise of emergency, violated and ignored practically every platform promise on which it was elected.

"We would not be discharging our honorable obligations to our readers if we failed to point out the dangers in opening the way to foreign competition for our agricultural products, the ruthless destruction of business upon which agriculture depends for its future welfare, the unsound tax program, the waste and extravagance, the monopolistic control being set up by government under the false front of expediency."

ROOSEVELT REACHES HAVEN AFTER BATTLE AGAINST HIGH SEAS

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD SCHOONER LIBERTY, WESTPORT, N. S., July 24.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt and his fishing associates anchored the yacht Sewanna at Westport, on the tip of Digby Neck, N. S., at 6 o'clock tonight after a five hour, 30 mile cruise northward in the Bay of Fundy from Yarmouth.

His seamanship was tested by the sail in rough, white capped seas. Decks were awash in the run before a stiff southeast wind.

The oilskin clad President was at the wheel and brought the Sewanna through treacherous Grand Passage, between Digby Neck and Brier Island, where high seas and cross currents make navigation hazardous.

The destroyer Hopkins remained outside for the night while the U. S. S. Potomac followed heavily in the Sewanna's wake.

After anchoring, President Roosevelt, still in a yellow slicker, remained on deck with his sons and waved greetings to townsfolk and correspondents aboard the Liberty.

Today's trip was the most exciting since the cruise began. The President disregarded storm warnings at the takeoff.

Tomorrow he plans to start across the Bay of Fundy thirty miles to Grand Manan Island, where he will remain two days. He expects to reach his summer home at Campobello by midnight Monday.

VANDENBERG HITS ROOSEVELT FIAT ON POSTAL JOBS

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] issued a statement today criticizing President Roosevelt's order placing postmasters under civil service as "a neat scheme to give life jobs to existing Farley incumbents."

"Typically Rooseveltian is the fact that this thing is done by executive order, on the eve of an election, rather than by legislation. Thus it can be changed again any time the White House nods," Vandenberg said.

The Michigan senator said the entire postoffice system should not be put "on the basis of competitive examinations wherever existing terms of political incumbents expire. The fact that previous Republican administrations have failed this forthright formula is beside the present point. It does not excuse sham reform today."

FIND NO LAW TO BAR RUTH OWEN AS U. S. ENVOY

She's a Danish Subject; Loyalties Divided.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Whether Ruth Bryan Owen, now Mme. Rohde, thrice married daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, will resign her post as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Denmark, now that she has become a subject of King Christian X., is up to President Roosevelt and herself, state department officials said today.

Mrs. Owen was married on July 11 to Kammerjunker Kapjin Boerge Rohde [captain of the king's bodyguard], in a ceremony at Hyde Park, N. Y., attended by President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and thereby became not only the spouse of a gentleman in waiting to a foreign monarch, but one of the king's subjects.

Case Without a Precedent.

She became, in fact, a kammerjunkerinde, which is the title conferred by Danish custom upon the wife of a gentleman in waiting to the king, but this does not mean that she is a lady in waiting to the king, because kings do not have ladies in waiting. Nevertheless, a wife, by secular as well as spiritual decree, owes allegiance to her husband, and Kammerjunker Kapjin Rohde owes allegiance to his king.

These circumstances place Kammerjunkerinde Rohde in an anomalous position of divided loyalties which is without precedent in the records of the state department. She is the highest representative of the United States government to the Danish court, where presumably she is susceptible to the influence of her husband, an officer in the king's bodyguard.

Danish Law Is Cited.

The circumstance perhaps is without precedent because Mrs. Owen was the first American woman to be appointed to a ministerial post, it being an altogether different matter when an American minister or ambassador marries a foreign woman.

The state department declined to make a formal statement regarding Mme. Rohde's case, but it was emphasized that she may retain the post at her own discretion so long as no objection from President Roosevelt is forthcoming.

Under Danish law, she automatically becomes a Danish subject upon marrying a Danish national, but she also retains her American citizenship under an American statute adopted in 1924.

Prior to that time an American woman who married a foreigner lost her citizenship, and that is what Mme. Rohde did on May 3, 1910, when she married Maj. Reginald Owen of the royal British engineers.

Divorced Artist in 1909.

Her first husband was William Homer Leavitt, an artist, whom she divorced in 1909.

Mrs. Owen was naturalized following her return to this country in 1923, and after the death of her husband in 1927 she entered politics, being elected to the house of representatives from Florida. She served in congress from 1929 to 1933, but was defeated for renomination. President Roosevelt appointed her minister to Denmark.

Mme. Rohde, who is 50 and has three children, returned from Copenhagen early this month on a two month leave of absence, during which time it is her intention to campaign for the reëlection of President Roosevelt.

Doubt Any Early Action.

The best information in Washington is that nothing will be done about her resignation, which she refuses to discuss, until after the election, for she will have more prestige as the American minister to Denmark campaigning for the President than she would have as the wife of the bodyguard to a foreign king.

One of the reasons why President Roosevelt permitted Postmaster James Farley to take a leave of absence, instead of resigning outright, when he took active charge of the Democratic campaign in his capacity as chairman of the national committee, was that the title of postmaster general would give him more prestige.

It is conjectured in official circles here that nothing will be done about Mme. Rohde's resignation even at the expiration of her six week leave of absence and her return to Denmark, if she returns at that time, because the election of Gov. Landon as President would dispose of the matter in short order.

Should President Roosevelt be reelected it is believed that he might replace Mme. Rohde, since she is married and comfortably provided for and has no further need of a place on the New Deal pay roll.

The marriage of Mme. Rohde already has raised a social question of vast import that has Denmark bewildered. As the minister of the United States she would outrank her husband at dinner tables, hence the question: Should she be seated Kammerjunkerinde Rohde, down toward the foot, or as the American minister, up toward the head, of the table?

Dolly Gann Feud Recalled.

Washington society reporters, recalling the celebrated feud between Dolly Gann, sister and hostess to the then Vice President Curtis, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of the speaker of the house, over the matter of rank, asked Mme. Rohde where and in what capacity she would wish to be seated. She said the food would taste just as well at either end of the table.

Although there are no precedents governing Mme. Rohde's case, the records of the state department contain many instances in which American male diplomats have married foreign women. Hugh Gibson, now ambassador to Brazil, married a Belgian countess while he was minister to Belgium.

Foreigners Wed in United States.

Such marriages are frequent among diplomats of other nations. The British ambassador to the United States, Sir Ronald Lindsey, married an American girl, Elizabeth Hoyt. Per Wijkman, secretary of the Swedish legation, married Ruth Wallace, sister of the secretary of agriculture. The late Jules Jusserand, for twenty years ambassador of France, married a Boston girl. Felipe Espil, Argentine ambassador, married the lovely Courtney Letts Borden of Washington.

State department officials could recall only one other American woman in the foreign service who figured in an international marriage. Nell Stogsdall, assigned to the American consulate in Beirut, Syria, was married to the British vice consul, but she resigned when he was transferred by his government.

Cutter Becomes Her "Yacht."

Dr. Rohde—she received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Rollins college in 1927 and the degree of doctor of humane letters from Russell Sage college in 1931—was widely publicized in 1934 when she visited Greenland for the purpose of gathering material for a book and asked for a coast guard cutter to fetch her to New York.

The Champlain, fastest of coast guard cutters, was converted into a private yacht for the lady minister's convenience, at a cost of $8,640 to the treasury, and during its absence the Morro Castle disaster occurred. The book, "Leaves of a Greenland Diary," described the trip, but made no mention of the disaster in the waters where the Champlain belonged.

Bryan's Daughter Silent on Resignation

Mme. Rohde, the former Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, and her husband, Kammerjunker Kapjin Boerge Rohde, gentleman in waiting to King Christian X. of Denmark. Mme. Rohde's recent marriage made her a subject of the Danish king, but there is no American law to cause her resignation as American minister to Denmark. She has declined to comment.

FREEDOM CHIEF ISSUE IN RACE, BROOKS AVERS

Bunker Hill, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—Addressing a Republican picnic here today, Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor, declared the great issue in the campaign is the right to self-government, freedom, and equal opportunity.

"On June 17, 1775," he said, "American patriots halted the haughty invader at Bunker Hill and startled a doubting world. Your peaceful village, bearing that proud name and every other hamlet and city is today a historic battleground. The spirit of our people is being tested by the onslaught of dangerous doctrins brought from countries where self-government has been swept away and freedom of worship and speech wiped out.

"Our people stand again at Bunker Hill. Once more we fight in defense of our homes, our children, and generations yet unborn. The right to freedom, self-government, and equal opportunity is at stake. We dare not fail as countless other nations have done and see the dictator rise to power upon the ruins of our free land. From now until Nov. 3 every American worthy of his ancestry must man the trenches and beat back the alien forces that would regiment our people, destroy self-government, and turn our citizens into subjects of a socialized state."

TEXAS TO VOTE TODAY; EXPECT LIGHT BALLOT

Dallas, Tex., July 24.—(AP)—Expansive Texas, accustomed to stormy Democratic primaries such as those over "Ma" and "Pa" Ferguson, watched with some amazement today the close of one so quiet that apathy threatened to grip the voters.

Tomorrow votes will be cast for governor and other state offices after a campaign fought out on purely state issues. The nearest thing to a national tinge was given by Vice President John N. Garner, who recently broke his customary political silence to announce he heartily favored the renomination and reelection of Gov. James V. Allred.

Veteran political observers were doubtful whether the votes cast between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. would come close to the 1,000,426 polled in the exciting first primary of 1934.

The hottest issue was whether Allred, under whose administration old age pensions came into existence in this state, had interpreted the new law adequately.

Former Gov. James E. Ferguson, supporting State Senator Roy Sanderford against Allred, made some speeches. His wife, former Gov. Miriam A. [Ma] Ferguson, months ago expressed her preference for quiet home life.

7 WPA OFFICERS FIRED ON ORDERS OF ACTING CHIEF

"Political Activity" in Primary Charged.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Seven WPA administrative officials in Oklahoma were discharged today by order of Aubrey Williams, acting Works Progress administration administrator, for "political activity" in that state's Democratic primary last week.

The action followed a declaration by James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, that the activities of WPA officials in Oklahoma in behalf of Josh Lee, New Deal senatorial candidate, had been very objectionable and had not been approved by the administration.

Mr. Williams said that WPA's investigation of what had taken place in the Oklahoma primary had not yet been completed but that no full report upon it would be made public because of the possibility that "hundreds of persons" who had given information to WPA investigators might lose their jobs.

Names Are Withheld.

Queried as to who these persons were, Mr. Williams said they were "WPA administrative employes." Asked whether this meant that WPA in Oklahoma was politically dominated, the acting WPA chief replied that they were only in danger of losing their positions if their names were made public because of "office politics."

"There is no excuse for WPA workers being active in behalf of primary candidates," Farley said. "Such activity makes it appear as if the administration were backing particular candidates. These workers, of course, can exercise their right of franchise in the election, but their duties are such as to make it unwise for them to be active in the campaign."

He asserted that the administration was not taking sides in the Kentucky senatorial primary despite unconfirmed reports that WPA workers and other federal employés were active.

Message Calls for Discharge.

Mr. Williams today sent W. S. Keys, Oklahoma state WPA administrator, the following telegram:

"Based upon incontrovertible evidence the following persons have been guilty of political activities:

"Walter Berry, director of state district No. 6; Merwin T. Buxton, administrative assistant, district No. 6; George T. Fox, director of employment, district No. 6; Clyde W. Curtis, supervisor, district No. 2; W. D. Hudson, compensation officer, district No. 2, and Jesse C. James, supervisor historical projects, Antlers, Okla.

"You are directed to discharge the above persons, effective today."

CONSTITUTION IS LAST BARRIER IN U. S., BORAH SAYS

Hagerman, Idaho, July 24.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] said today the United States constitution stands as a "challenge to the whole world-wide conspiracy against freedom and liberty."

The 71 year old statesman, up for reelection to a sixth term, drew the picture in an address before a gathering commemorating the arrival of the Latter Day Saints church pioneers in the west 89 years ago.

"In the bewildering mass of governmental schemes now sweeping the countries of the world, there is one malign purpose running through them all," the senate dean said, "and that is to control—if not destroy—the liberty of the citizen.

"Whether it be the Fascist, the communist or the burocratic state, the result is the same—waste, debts, taxes, and ultimately complete subjection of the people."

BOLTON SLAYING LEFT A MYSTERY BY INQUEST JURY

A coroner's jury which investigated the killing of State Representative John M. Bolton returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown yesterday after the police admitted that they had discovered no clews as to the identity of the killers. Bolton was killed by a shotgun blast from a speeding automobile as he was driving his car at Harrison street and Washtenaw avenue early on July 9.

COUGHLIN TALKS WITH VATICAN ON PHONE, IS REPORT

Bishop Gallagher on Way to See Pope.

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin withheld comment today upon reports that he had been in telephone communication with high church authorities in Vatican City prior to his published apology to President Roosevelt whom he called a "liar" in a recent address.

Members of the priest's staf, however, said he had talked with his superior, Bishop Michael J. Gallagher, by telephone after the bishop sailed from New York on a pilgrimage to Rome.

There was no intimation of what that communication involved.

Father Coughlin's apology to President Roosevelt appeared today in his publication "Social Justice."

Ready to Conform.

The priest, whose radio addresses and political activities have brought him national recognition, has said that he would gladly conform to any recommendations from the Vatican that he curtail his "social justice" preaching.

Bishop Gallagher refrained from curbing Father Coughlin's activities.

Participating with him in a radio program in April, 1935, the bishop declared "I pronounce Father Coughlin sound in doctrin, able in its application and interpretation. Freely I give him my imprimatur on his written word and freely I give him my approval of his spoken word."

Supported by Bishop.

Before sailing from New York Bishop Gallagher said during an interview he was not informed that the matter would come up for discussion but did not deviate from his opinion that the priest had the right to pursue his activities both as citizen and priest.

Father Coughlin established the Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak when he came here ten years ago. The shrine was conceived by Bishop Gallagher and through Father Coughlin's efforts has grown from a small wooden building to a modernistic, cruciform structure which it has been estimated cost more than $1,000,000.

SPECULATE ON PHONE CALL.

Vatican City, July 24.—(AP)—A trans-Atlantic telephone conversation between Father Charles E. Coughlin and Vatican officials aroused speculation today among prelates who acknowledged that the radio priest's "liar" attack on President Roosevelt had created a "painful impression" here.

Whether the conversation, which a reliable source said took place last week, had anything to do with Father Coughlin's subsequent apology and promise to "obey orders" from the Vatican were he silenced, was not disclosed.

It was suggested in some quarters that Bishop Michael Gallagher of Detroit, Father Coughlin's superior, might ask Pope Pius to transfer him from his diocese to spare him further embarrassment in the controversy.

Transfer One Possibility.

Prelates, however, expressed the belief the holy father would prefer to transfer the radio priest himself, rather than taking any action which, by implication, might reflect on the aged bishop.

Any question of transfer or censure, informed Vatican circles said, certainly will arise only after a possible private warning to Father Coughlin and his refusal to heed it.

The prelates were declared to be awaiting with utmost interest Bishop Gallagher's expected arrival here Saturday.

COURTNEY TELLS CITY'S SUCCESS IN CRIME FIGHT

Chicago's blood and thunder reputation of former years has been wiped out by a reduction in all types of crime and by the speedy administration of justice, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney said yesterday in an address before the Executives' club at the Hotel Sherman.

He attributed the changing of Chicago's reputation to the elimination of the "political fix" and the moral support of citizens who now have confidence in enforcement officials.

Among the accomplishments of law enforcement in the last three years, Mr. Courtney listed the following:

The Criminal court docket has been reduced from more than 1,000 cases to 184, and 60 per cent of the indictments are tried within thirty days instead of from seven to twelve months as was the former practice.

Automobile thefts have been reduced from 97 to 8 a day, and burglaries, robberies and other crimes committed by criminals in stolen cars have been reduced 40 per cent.

The kidnaping racket has been stopped and the perpetrators of three kidnapings have been sentenced to 199 years in prison.

2 FISH CONCERNS ALLEGE BOYCOTT; SUE FOR $100,000

Polakow's Fisheries, 706 Fulton street, and State Fish Distributors, Inc., 3517 South State street, filed suit for $100,000 damages yesterday in Superior court against sixteen other fish wholesalers, on charges of conspiracy to boycott them. The suit alleged these sixteen defendants—four individuals and twelve companies—threatened retailers not to do business with them if they patronized Polakow's and State Distributors.

Attorney Albert E. Buccieri, who filed the bill, said he had entered complaints of unfair trade practices with the state's attorney and with federal officials. He said his clients sold fish at lower prices than their competitors.

The defendants are: Morris Marcus, Felix Pullman, Hyman Gordon, Herman L. Wine, Dierssen & Johnson Fish company, the Best Fish and Oyster company, Lakeside Fish and Oyster company, Witte-Disterle company, Disterle Fisheries, Inc.; Walker's Fulton Fish company, the Standard Fish company, Booth's Union market, Gordon's United Fish company, Atlas Fish company, L. Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

GREATEST POSSIBLE MOVIE

by CALEB

THIS little earth of ours is about a billion years old. The most entrancing moving picture that could be made, in our opinion, will never be seen. It would be one showing this earth evolving at the rate of a minute of movie for every million years. It would take over sixteen hours to see the "show."

The first six hours would be devoted to the pre-life period, when the earth in great travail and labor was forming. It would show the rise and fall of waters over the land—the land's almost total submergence, followed by the reappearance of continents and mountains, over and over again, about one change per minute, that is, every million years.

In the seventh hour, we would see the beginning of the life-dawn period. Simple forms of vegetation would appear.

In the next four hours we would see the land engulfed again and again by an enraged world-wide ocean, which finally subsided in preparation for living marine organisms.

In about the twelfth hour marine life would begin to show. Fishes would suddenly be seen, and snails and scorpions and frogs. Insects, too. In this part of the picture—contrary to the popular conception that apartment houses appeared on earth before cockroaches — cockroaches, giant dragon flies, and other "later day" pests would appear. Magnificent ferns would be seen with huge trunks and giant fronds. Waters would be still rising and receding over the lands.

In the last three or four hours of the show, land-life would hold our interest. The second stage of animal evolution would be taking place. The reptilian age would pass before our eyes—crocodiles and flying reptiles and dinosaurs weighing up to forty tons, with two-pound brains! Then evolution would turn from bulk and brains, and cunning would begin to win.

We would see the rankly thick vegetation beginning to be converted to coal, about 180,000,000 years ago. For the first time we would witness glaciation and aridity—roughly affecting the shaping of continents.

Finally, birds would appear and, of vast importance, seed-bearing plants! In the last minute you would see man and all he has done in all his history! And Christ would live, die, and be honored for 2,000 years—all in the last one-eighth of a second!

GOOD COOK WINS SOPRANO HONORS IN MUSIC TRIALS

North Side Singers for Festival Named.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Forty-six sopranos from the north side competed last night in the Crystal ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel in the district's preliminary contest for the seventh annual Chicagoland Music festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, which will be held in Soldiers' field on Aug. 15. Judges declared the group a distinctly superior class of voices.

After an audience of several hundred persons raptly followed the contest among sopranos, Miss Maryum Horn, 26 years old, of 7702 North Marshfield avenue, was declared the winner. Cheers and applause greeted the decision. Miss Horn sang "The Bird of the Wilderness," by Edward Horsman.

Keeps Busy Cooking.

A student of Theodore Harrison of the American Conservatory of Music, Miss Horn said she formerly managed a sports section in a large department store. She is now unemployed except for doing all the cooking in her household, she said.

"I like my cooking more than I do my singing," she said. "My Italian spaghetti can't be beaten. I could boast for hours on my cooking, but I really was surprised to win a singing contest."

Secretary Is Second.

Second among the sopranos was Miss Mildred Boberg, 23 years old, of 921 Newport avenue, a slim brunette who wore a white organdie evening dress. She sang "Ah, fors è lui" from Verdi's "Traviata." Miss Boberg, secretary to a lawyer, studies under Hanna Butler, with whom she spent a season in Paris. Third place went to Miss Ethel E. Zimmer, 18 years old, of 7716 North Ashland avenue, who sang the same aria. She is a sophomore in the Northwestern University School of Music.

The judges were Mabel Sharp Herdien, Richard DeYoung, and Charles Norman Granville, widely known teachers here. They told the audience the singers exhibited "the best voices we've ever heard on the north side in a Chicagoland Festival preliminary."

Summer Student Wins.

Miss Mildred Griffith, 24 years old, of Seaton, Ill., who is attending Northwestern university this summer, won the mezzo contest. Slim, red haired, and dressed in a white seersucker sports dress, Miss Griffith sang "O Lovely Night," by Ronald. She was graduated from Monmouth college in 1935 and last year taught school in Denmark, Ia.

Miss Elizabeth Huck, 32 years old, unemployed cashier and bookkeeper, of 2146 Larrabee street, was second among the mezzos. She is studying under Emerson Abernethy.

Mrs. Wyoma Matteson, 502 Provident avenue, Winnetka, was third.

Miller Best Bass Singer.

Another Northwestern university student who won a first place was C. Wellington Miller, 22 years old, who scored in the bass section. His home is in Pocatello, Idaho. Coming to Chicago, he studied under both Graham Reed and Blanche Barbo.

Joseph Novak, 40 years old, 302 West Goethe street, who was a lawyer in Jugoslavia before coming here nine years ago, was second among the basses. Third place went to Richard Wrightson, 23 years old, of 1006 Linden avenue, Wilmette, a salesman for a motion picture equipment house.

Allan Grant, WGN pianist, accompanied the singers.

West side preliminaries will be held in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Tenors, contraltos and baritones will compete at 7 o'clock Thursday night, and sopranos, mezzos and basses on Friday.

Repairman Critically Hurt When Gas Explodes in Well

Chris Mathefs, 3516 West 59th place, was critically injured yesterday when gas exploded in a well pit on a farm west of St. Charles which is owned by Emil Klingbeil, manager of the Rienzi hotel, 600 Diversey parkway. Klingbeil and his son, Harold, 23 years old, who were standing nearby, were burned on the hands in the explosion which occurred as Mathefs struck a match as he worked on a motor in the well pit. Mathefs was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin.

Park District to Sponsor Circus with 1,200 Actors

Twelve hundred performers, recruited from the various communities in Chicago, will give a circus in Soldiers' field on Aug. 6, under the sponsorship of the park district. This was announced yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, president. A three ring arena is to be set up. There will be no admission charge.

Winners in North Side Music Festival Contest

Winners in three divisions in preliminaries to the Chicagoland Music Festival, which were held last night at the Edgewater Beach hotel for north side entries. They are (left to right): Maryum Horn, 7702 North Marshfield avenue, soprano; C. W. Miller, student at Northwestern university, basso, and Mildred Griffith, 1856 Orrington avenue, Evanston, mezzo. WITNESSES FAIL DRUNKEN DRIVER; HE GETS TEN DAYS

Nobody Appears to Disprove Charge.

Leonard Gibbons, 36 years old, 15 South Hoyne avenue, was sentenced to ten days in the County jail yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the Jury court on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Gibbons was arrested after his car crashed into that of Philip Miller, 1039 North Central avenue, in front of 3121 Broadway on May 17. Gibbons previously gained a continuance when he said he had witnesses to prove that he was not intoxicated. Yesterday he reported he was unable to find the witnesses.

A warant for the arrest of Miss Margaret Thompson, 35 years old, 115 Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, a hotel hostess, was issued by Justice of the Peace Martin H. McGrath in Oak Park yesterday when she failed to appear in court on a charge of driving while intoxicated. She was arrested in her automobile at Lake street and Grove avenue in the suburb on July 14.

Gets Ten Day Term.

Manchild Dean, 32 years old, colored, 3103 Prairie avenue, was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell by Judge Edgar A. Jonas in the Safety court for driving while intoxicated.

Sam Kearney, 33 years old, colored, 1323 West 13th street, a truck driver, was sentenced to fifteen days in the County jail for reckless driving and for driving a car without the owner's consent, by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court. On July 19 Kearney took his employer's truck and ran into another machine at Douglas and Kedzie boulevards.

Bad Brakes Bring Fine.

Edward Voichts, 33 years old, 3500 Wallace street, Steger, was fined $25 by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Trafic court, for driving a truck with faulty brakes.

Herman Kamps, 45 years old, 509 Ohio street, Wheaton, was arrested yesterday by the Wheaton police on a charge of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident after he crashed his car into a city truck driven by Herman Goldenstein, a city employé, at College avenue and President street, in the suburb. Police said Kamps fled and a short time later smashed his car against a curb near his home.

BLAME SAWDUST EXPLOSION FOR DYE PLANT BLAST

George E. Graves, chief of the fire prevention bureau, reported yesterday that the blast which took three lives Wednesday in the plant of the National Fur Dressing and Dyeing company, 1406 North Halsted street, probably was due to a dust explosion. Hardwood sawdust was used in the fur cleaning process, Chief Graves said, and such blasts often occur in a poorly ventilated room where the temperature is high. Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan questioned four officials of the plant, who said no inflammable substances were used. Meanwhile physicians at St. Joseph's hospital continued their efforts to save the lives of two persons who were critically injured in the explosion. They are Miss Shirley Stuybel, 24 years old, 1508 North Kedzie avenue, and George Lazzarotto, 19, of 3508 North Long avenue.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO; YOUNG DRIVER IS HELD

Mrs. Mary Petrie, 68 years old, whose address is not known, was killed yesterday when she was hit by an automobile driven by John Hanning, 23 years old, 2448 Monroe street, at Jackson boulevard and Throop street. The Des Plaines street police booked Hanning on a manslaughter charge and began a search for relatives of Mrs. Petrie, who formerly lived at 314 South Racine avenue.

Mrs. Ellen Burton, 45 years old, 670 Sheridan road, died yesterday in the American hospital from injuries received July 15 when she was struck by an automobile driven by H. L. Podere, 1043 Lawrence avenue, at Lake Shore drive and Irving Park boulevard.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 538 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 417 were killed in Chicago. During the same period 9,755 were injured in trafic accidents within the city limits.

2 LAKE FOREST BOYS LECTURED FOR AUTO CAPER

Cyrus Manierre, 18 years old, and Henry Preston, 17, sons of well known Lake Forest families, were arraigned last evening before Police Magistrate Edwin Burgess of the suburb, charged with cutting figure eights with their automobiles between two safety signal posts at Deerpath road and Western avenue in the heart of Lake Forest.

Manierre is the son of Mrs. E. Harrison Manierre, 294 East Rose terrace, and is a grandson of Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue in Chicago. Preston is the son of Frederick A. Preston, a railway supplies manufacturer who lives at the Onwentsia club.

Both boys expressed contrition for their escapade when they appeared in court. Magistrate Burgess lectured them, fined each $10, and then stayed payment of the fines with a warning that they will have to pay if they are arrested again on any trafic charge within the next six months. Each youth was required to pay $2 court

J. W. Davis Explains U. S. Conditions to British King

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—King Edward VIII. of Great Britain, expressing interest in American conditions, chatted for a half hour at Buckingham palace today with John W. Davis, New York attorney. Davis is a former ambassador to Great Britain. Davis described the audience as

KIDNAPING CASE OF JACK PEIFER IN JURY'S HANDS

Former Chief Again Is Accused.

St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—[Special.]—Following closing arguments in which a federal prosecutor branded a former St. Paul police chief as the "tip-off" man in the William Hamm kidnaping, and a former chief justice of the Minnesota state Supreme court defended his client as "just another ordinary Minnesota citizen," the case of Jack Peifer, St. Paul night club operator tried on a conspiracy charge in the Hamm abduction, went to the jury at 6:23 this evening. Late tonight the twelve were locked up to resume deliberations tomorrow.

It was George Heisey, assistant United States district attorney, who blasted away at the former chief of police, Thomas A. Brown, who at the time the wealthy brewer was kidnaped three years ago was a member of the police kidnaping squad.

Bolton's Testimony Cited.

Heisey pointed to the testimony of Byron Bolton, confessed member of the gang and ace government witness, that Brown was to get a $25,000 split of the $100,000 ransom and recalled apparent leaks of police information as he charged that Brown was "implicated inexplicably" in the case.

Peifer was declared responsible for bringing the Barker-Karpis gang of "arch criminals" to St. Paul and was called the "real brains" behind the kidnaping.

Prosecutor Refers to "Leak."

Concerning police plans to conceal Tierney with a shotgun or machine gun in the ransom delivery truck—information which Bolton said "leaked" to the kidnapers—Heisey demanded:

"Who gave this information to Fred Goetz [one of the abduction gang]? Tom Brown gave it to Peifer. Peifer gave it to Goetz, and Goetz, on the second or third day of Hamm's confinement, told Bolton that they knew at the time there was going to be an armed man concealed on that truck."

THE O'DONNELL OUT AGAIN; VOWS HE'S ON THE LEVEL

After spending 24 hours in custody Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, former beer runner, was released from the state's attorney's office yesterday, where he was questioned concerning his possession of 30 shares of stock in the Suburban Motor Service corporation, 5307 Cermak road, Cicero.

"We have insufficient evidence to hold him," explained First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, whereupon The O'Donnell was let out on the street vowing loudly that his connection with the filling station was "strictly on the legit."

O'Donnell was arrested Thursday on camplaint of Master in Chancery Max Korshak, who is the father-in-law of David Kornblith, owner of 70 shares of the motor service corporation's stock. Korshak charged Spike had obtained the remaining 30 shares from Ely Kornblith, brother of David, tried to sell them to David for $15,000, and threatened both David and Korshak if his price was not met.

O'Donnell claimed he offered $20,000 for the 70 shares.

SWAMP DENIZENS TO HAVE A HOME IN LINCOLN PARK

Fish to Move Out; 'Gators and Like Move In.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A terrarium or swamp house, containing one of the most comprehensive exhibits of aquatic reptiles in America, soon will repiace the aquarium in the Lincoln park zoo, Floyd S. Young, director announced yesterday.

Just how soon it will be completely stocked depends on the speed with which collectors can find such rare denizens of the swamps as the matamata turtle from South America, the leaf frog from Africa, the fourteen inch toad of Sumatra and a few Brazilian caymen [alligators]. The exhibit will open, perhaps within the next three weeks, with a stock of brilliantly colored land crabs ordered yesterday from Philadelphia.

Have to Move Fish.

Long an aim of Director Young's, the terrarium materialized only after the park board's decision to chlorinate all water in the park system, making it safe for picnickers, but deadly for the fish in the park aquarium.

"To maintain the aquarium as a fish aquarium would mean putting in our own pumps and equipment to bring water from the lake, and we can't afford it," Mr. Young explained. "Moreover, since we now won't have to operate our 70,000 pound refrigerating plant, we'll save $10,000 a year and have a more interesting exhibit without duplication."

The first will be removed to the Shedd aquarium in Grant park, Mr. Young said, shortly before chlorination of the water is begun on Aug. 15. The aquarium then will be gradually remodeled. Tanks for alligators, crocodiles, and gavial [long, slender-jawed crocodiles, found in India], will be prepared in the basement, while swamplike settings will be built for the smaller sauria.

Land Crabs in First Lot.

The first shipment will include brilliant red, blue, and black land crabs; giant land crabs, aquatic snakes; Indian green frogs; Surinam toads, and African side neck turtles.

"We'll put in all native stuff first, and take it out as rare stuff is accessible," Mr. Young said. "We hope to g a matamata turtle from South America some day. It's a monstrosity that people rarely see. It has a shell that is one ridge after another, and its head doesn't look like that of an animal at all.

"We want, too, different varieties of tree frogs, such as the big leaf frog from Africa. We want snake neck turtles and alligator snapping turtles and—and—well," he concluded, "what we get, of course, depends on what is found."

KING OF BRITAIN WILL PAY A VISIT TO FRANCE TODAY

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—King Edward VIII. of Great Britain will make his first visit abroad since his accession to the throne when he embarks tomorrow on the British admiralty yacht Enchantress for France to dedicate the Canadian national war memorial at Vimy ridge Sunday.

The king's plans for a summer holiday on the French Riviera, however, still were unsettled. He will return to London Sunday night either on the Enchantress, which will be accompanied by two British destroyers, or in a private plane if the weather is fine.

It is not expected the monarch will leave for the Riviera until midweek. There he will rest in the lovely rose covered Château de l'Horizon, built by the American actress, Maxine Elliott, in 1931 at Golfe Juan.

'VALJEAN,' ESCAPED FOR 22 YEARS, WINS CLEMENCY OF POLICE

Cleveland, O., July 24.—(AP)—Twenty-two years ago a modern Jean Valjean escaped from the Oklahoma state reformatory at Granite, Okla. Police protected him tonight after being located here.

When a telegram from the superintendent arrived at the Cleveland detective bureau, giving his address, detectives went to his home, but Acting Detective Inspector Charles O. Nevel ordered him released, giving these reasons: "Here is a man who, when a boy of 16, committed a burglary. After less than a year in the reformatory, he escaped.

"Since then he has been a respectable citizen. He came to Cleveland five years ago and got and kept a good job. He is married and has two children.

"Neither his wife nor his children know of his past. So far as I'm concerned, this man's secret is safe. He has earned it. I'm going to write a letter to the Oklahoma authorities, telling them why I think they should forget about it and let him alone."

WIDOW CAUSES ARREST OF TWO IN $8,000 FRAUD

Two former Rockford real estate dealers were under arrest in California last night on a charge of embezzling $8,000 in negotiable bonds from Mrs. Virginia Porterfield, a widow of 439 Arlington place. Mrs. Porterfield is in California with Lieut. William Cusack of the Chicago police, who will return the men for trial.

In custody are Philip M. Hobart and Joseph L. Peterson, who left Rockford a month ago. Hobart did not notify his wife, the daughter of a Rockford dentist, that he was leaving.

According to Chicago police, Mrs. Porterfield charged Hobart specifically with embezzling the $8,000 of bonds which she said she gave him last April 2. She claimed, however, that she also had given him a total of $24,000 to invest for her in the several months she had known him. He posed as a broker on La Salle street and as a bachelor, she added, and had proposed marriage to her. Peterson was frequently with Hobart, the widow said.

Hobart was arrested in a hotel in Santa Monica after having been traced by a telephone call he made to his wife in the Palmer house here. Peterson was found in Kingsburg, Cal., after Rockford police had learned a trunk had been sent to him there.

'HOT FROST' AS DECORATION ADDS TO CERAMIC ART

Cambridge, Mass., July 24.—(AP)—A new type of porcelain, its surface done by "hot frost," one of the few advances in 3,000 years of ceramics, was announced today at the color conference at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The "hot frost" is real. It is metallic, formed when metals solidify at temperatures around 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The metallic frost has all the patterns of frost on the window pane, and includes all the colors of the rainbow. It is lustrous, its surface smooth. Unlike the frost on windows, the metallic kind can grow crystals of any size.

Like Flowers of Metal.

It resembles pictures of flowers painted in metal.

The new porcelain was developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the laboratory of Prof. F. H. Norton, who described it to the conference today. It grew out of new methods of controling precisely one of the four standard processes of making ceramic colors.

This old process produces color by formation of crystals just underneath the surface glaze. The substances which make the crystals, Prof. Norton explained, may not in themselves possess any color. The shape of the crystals and the materials forming them combine to absorb part of the light, leaving the rest to the rays to be reflected as brilliant color.

Today he exhibited a new porcelain with a glittering blue "frost," some of the flowerlike "petals" of which were three inches in diameter.

Contains Zinc and Cobalt.

This porcelain, he explained, was made by heating the ceramic material to about 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit. It contained zinc, which combined with some unknown substance, probably a silicate, to form "frost" crystals as the temperature of the molten mixture dropped to its "freezing," or solidifying point.

In the mixture also was a little of the metal cobalt. The cobalt gave the crystals their blue. These and other colors can be made by temperature control. It has required five or six hours at the "hot frost" temperature to produce crystals three inches in diameter. There is no apparent limit to the size they will grow if held exactly at the right temperature.

PLAN INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL FOR SOUTH CHICAGO

Seek Federal Funds for $2,500,000 Project.

Plans of the school board to build an industrial high school costing $2,500,000 in the South Chicago district were disclosed yesterday by its president, James B. McCahey. In this school 3,000 to 4,000 boys would receive two years' special training in various trades after two years of general high school work. They would thus be qualified for absorption as apprentices in the steel mills and other industries.

Representatives of various industries, it was learned, have emphasized the need of such specially trained young men and have urged the board to build the school. Mr. McCahey said the board hopes to finance construction of the building by getting a loan and grant from the federal Public Works administration.

United States Helps Pay Teachers.

The project would be carried out under the terms of the Smith-Hughes act, which became effective in 1917. This law was passed by congress to encourage construction of vocational schools. Under its provisions half the pay of teachers in such schools comes from federal funds. Ordinarily a $6,000,000 federal fund is set up annually for this purpose, but for 1937 the fund has been increased to $12,000,000.

Plans for the proposed school and the necessary loan and grant application to the PWA will be ordered as soon as all details have been worked out jointly with the state and federal education departments, Mr. McCahey said.

A meeting of school officials on the curricula of the proposed trades school will take place on Aug. 10. It will be followed on Aug. 14 by a conference between Mr. McCahey, state and federal education officials, and representatives of the industries.

Jobs for All Graduates.

"There is great need for this type of school," said Mr. McCahey. "It is possible we can make this the prize school of its kind in the country. We are told that industries are in need of skilled workmen with education, and that the Chicago area alone can absorb the entire output of such a school yearly."

School board officials have held informal discussions with representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce on vocational education, Mr. McCahey said. Another meeting with representatives of the business organization will be held soon to consider plans for furthering industrial education.

MOVE TO PRESS BIGAMY CHARGE AGAINST VETERAN

Martin G. Fallon, 44 years old, 9529 South Bishop street, war veteran who is wanted in Massachusetts on a charge of wife and child abandonment, was freed in $1,000 bond by Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle in the Criminal court yesterday, but probably will face extradition on a charge of bigamy when he appears again before Judge Normoyle on Sept. 10.

According to Boston authorities, Fallon left a wife and children in that city to come to Chicago in 1926. He married again here and has two children by his second wife. His first wife traced him when he applied for his bonus.

When Judge Normoyle learned that Fallon had attended Boston and Yale universities he termed the abandonment inexcusable and sent a message to Boston to see if the bigamy charge would be entered.

CLOTHES THIEVES TOO FUSSY ABOUT SIZES; LOCKED UP

The two burglars who invaded the R. B. Clothing store, 6500 South Halsted street, early yesterday were fastidious fellows and they are regretting it in the Englewood police station lockup.

The two—John McGregor, 24 years old, 6228 South Peoria street, and Chris Connelly, 25 years old, 858 Englewood avenue—saw a display of clothing in the store windows and smashed the glass to reach the garments.

This sounded an alarm in the Illinois District Telegraph office, 230 West 63d street. Watchman Frank Sullivan found McGregor and Connelly trying on suits in an effort to find their proper sizes. They had neglected to draw the shades.

GETS YEAR TERM FOR ROBBING HIS FRIEND OF $1,200

John Courtney, 24 years old, 660 Madison street, who was charged with stealing $1,264 from his friend, Rudolph Rockstahl, 3647 North Richmond street, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court yesterday. Rockstahl said he befriended Courtney when he was in need, giving him food and lodging. On May 16 Courtney was arrested after an automobile accident in Niles, Mich., and confessed the theft. Rockstahl refused to believe it until he verified the fact that his money was missing from an old bedspread in which it had been sewn. Courtney had spent all except $500 of the money when he was seized.

She Likes Beer, He Doesn't, So Husband Gets a Divorce

Wilbert Bigley, 26 years old, 942 North Avers avenue, was granted a divorce by Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court yesterday from his wife, Genevieve, on the ground of desertion. Bigley testified that they were married on April 13, 1935, and that his wife left him less than two months later because she liked to go out and drink beer, while he preferred the comforts of home.

SEIZED BY POLICE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The police yesterday were investigating conflicting stories told by Thomas Taylor, 40 years old, 3918 Chicago avenue, who charges his car was stolen, and Mrs. Elaine Mann, 19 years old, 212 North Hamlin avenue, whom he accuses of stealing it.

Mrs. Mann, who was arrested early yesterday after she was found driving Taylor's car, said that Taylor was visiting in her apartment when her husband, Frank, 26 years old, appeared. Her husband beat Taylor, forced her to leave in Taylor's car, then fled from the car, she said.

Taylor told the police that when he stopped for a trafic light at Hamlin and West End avenues a man and woman leaped into the car. The man hit him with a bottle while the woman threatened him with a knife, Taylor declared. He said they took his pants, $2, and his car.

The police have not yet found Mrs. Mann's husband.

ORDER ALL WAGE CUTS RESTORED IN NEW ZEALAND

Laborite Act Passes; Prices Rise.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 24.—The wages of all workers in the country were moved back to predepression rates today with the passage by parliament of a Laborite act restoring wage cuts whether under the government or industry.

The restoration was made mandatory and retroactive to July 1. This was a disappointment for the workers who expected to get back pay to March.

The action was approved even by conservatives in the opposition ranks. Former Premier Forbes stated in indorsing the step that his party had promised to restore the cuts when conditions improved.

Headed for Boom.

As the Labor government ends its first half year, the country appears to be entering a boom period. Exports are soaring and expansion in all fields seems to point the way to a new prosperity. The favorable trade balance has been stepped up to $30,000,000 since the beginning of the year, bank clearances have been boosted 15 per cent, revenues from the sales tax have mounted 20 per cent, while railroad and shipping both report higher loadings. Even the race tracks returns show loose purse strings.

Meantime the industrial commission goes on its ruthless way toward establishing a 40 hour week. Of the hundreds of filed objections by employers only two industries so far have been exempted, pottery and jam makers, the latter in the summer only.

The government's price control plan has already run into a snarl, food prices bounding upward without waiting for the shorter week or the restoration of wage cuts. Laborites are annoyed by this and are making threats of a full investigation and penalties for industries found guilty of exploitation tactics.

Plans Price Commission.

As a first step the government plans to set up a price commission which would have a legal standing and would have power to inflict fines or give publicity to offenders in price raising.

Reenforcing the business boom, the Laborites have announced the beginning of a big housing program in the cities. It is planned to give every man his own home. Architects and engineers are busy planning homes which will be built on government owned land and rented at low prices.

It is hoped thus to end the acute shortage caused by the depression, which virtually killed all house building here.

DIGGERS RESCUE YOUTH TRAPPED 4 HOURS IN WELL

Zanesville, O., July 24.—(AP)—Laird Ankrum, 17, farm youth, spent four hours today trapped at the bottom of a twenty-five foot well, then expressed surprise at the size of the crowd waiting as rescuers brought him to the surface.

"It looks as if half the county came here to watch you fellows bring me out," said Ankrum with a weak smile, after he spent the last half hour of his imprisonment directing the volunteer rescue squad in removing rocks which pinned him down.

The rescuers won a race with water, which seeped slowly into the bottom of the well. The youth was trapped when the walls collapsed as he was cleaning the well. When they reached him the rising water was within a few inches of his face.

Doctors waiting at the mouth of the well said that except for exhaustion and a temporary paralysis of one leg, Ankrum was unhurt.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Sigrid Undset Proves Her Art in a Miniature

Three Norwegian Books Reviewed.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Gunnar's Daughter," by Sigrid Undset. [Knopf, $2.] To be published on Monday.

"Morning of Life," by Kristmann Gudmundsson. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published in April.

"A Fugitive Crosses His Tracks," by Aksel Sandemose. [Knopf, $2.50.] With a note by Sigrid Undset. Published last week.

THREE books translated from the Norwegian, one of them written by Sigrid Undset, Norway's Nobel prize winner, and the other two recommended by her, are our ration this week. They have in common little more than language. They differ in technique, atmosphere, background, intent.

Sigrid Undset's greatest novel, in the belief of many, is "Kristin Lavransdatter"—an enormous medieval trilogy, "The Bridal Wreath," "The Mistress of Husaby," and "The Cross." Her other great medieval romance, "The Master of Hestviken," is a tetralogy. As if to prove that the viking middle ages can be sketched by a great artist in 274 small pages as well as detailed in a thousand-odd vast ones we are now offered "Gunnar's Daughter."

"Gunnar's Daughter" tells with restrained words of the love of Ljot for Vigdis, the daughter of a power on one of the fjords in the legendary past when King Olaf was so far away and so inaccessible that the law was in the hands of each powerful man. It tells of the love of Vigdis for Ljot, turned into a venomous hate, slaked only in the peace of death. It tells of revenge, of courage, of all passion at its most primitive. It is a heroic tale, told with the simplicity and the sparseness of a folk song.

"Gunnar's Daughter," in comparison with Sigrid Undset's other medieval romances, is like the models the great furniture designers made in comparison with their works of art. But, like those exquisite models which are cherished as collector's items, "Gunnar's Daughter" is the more exquisite a work of art for its very scaled down size.

Lively Story of Modern Iceland.

"Morning of Life," by Kristmann Gudmundsson, is a story of modern Iceland. It is filled with details of life in a small fishing village, with exciting descriptions of tragic storms at sea, its events happening before a background wholly different from that of "Gunnar's Daughter." It has little relation to a medieval tragic romance. But the same major emotion which motivated the one set of characters motivates the other. The hero of each of the books is hunted throughout his life by the revenge of a woman's love turned to hate.

Haldor Bessason is living, as the book opens, in comfort in a small south Iceland village, with the most attractive, most capable woman of the town as his housekeeper. They are passionate lovers. Life seems destined to be good. Shipwrecked, he meets a girl who reminds him of the girl he had loved as a youth, and who had married his best friend, and from whose happiness he had fled. He marries the girl, Maria, and brings her to his house, and from that moment he is dogged by the revenge of his former love. She marries the factor and persuades that most powerful member of the community to refuse credit, even the slightest help, to the man she had loved so devotedly. Even the sea turns against him. Both of his legs are frozen in the icy horrors of shipwreck. How fate finally deals with him and with his children rounds out a life saga, praised by Sigrid Undset, which has something of the epic about it.

A Strange and Introspective Book.

"A Fugitive Crosses His Tracks" is certainly an epic—an epic of introspection such as modern literature rarely has known. It is also one of the strangest books of our day. The main event in it is a murder which the hero, a Dane, aged 34 as the tale is told, committed at the age of 17 in Misery Harbor, Newfoundland. But beyond the confession of murder and the geographical placing of it there is no illumination for the reader more than that the murdered man had won the love of the girl the hero also loved.

A long, intricate narrative in the first person traces the motives of the murder through every possible tenuous lane of thought and act association. The hero picks up every minute moment of his memory, studies it under the microscope of his analytical mind, polishes that event until it is of just the shape to fit his weird mosaic, puts it aside, and then, when he needs it, fits it into the pattern he is making for himself of the reasons why he killed.

Obviously the author has read a great deal about thought association, about the subconscious in its violence over the conscious, but the book is no mere psychoanalyzing of a motive for murder. It is too literary for a case history.

Conquest of Yucatan Fascinating Book on Puzzle of the Maya

"The history of the greatest civilization of ancient America is like a gigantic jigsaw puzzle of which we have only some of the pieces," says Frans Blom, distinguished archæologist of Tulane university, in a foreword in "The Conquest of Yucatan" [Houghton-Mifflin, $3.50]. But when one reads this fascinating book, it's safe to say that the author has more nearly put the Mayan puzzle together than any one else thus far.

Blom's book is the result of years of research and exploration. It tells of the conquest of the Maya by the Spanish, and pictures their home life, their amusements, politics, and religion, and tells of their scholarly attainments—their science of numbers and their calendar.

Prof. Blom combines a delightful sense of humor with a knowledge of news values which makes this book, unlike most of its kind, a lively, vivid picture of a past civilization. It is well illustrated, has good end paper maps, and contains a bibliography and index.

News Letter of Olden Day Is Given Revival

King-Hall Responsible for Project.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A very interesting scheme has just been launched by Commander Stephen King-Hall, well known in England as a broadcaster, critic of foreign affairs, and historian of modern times. He is reviving the old style news letter, the first form of the newspaper, issued throughout the 16th and 17th centuries, which gives in a single weekly communication some glimpse of the world's activities.

Those familiar with a later development of this news letter such as is to be found in the essay papers of Steele and Addison, will realize what scope such a venture can enjoy. One significant fact which shows Commander King-Hall's qualifications for the post of universal friend is that, without any sloppiness, he has made himself so well loved by listeners to Britain's radio that they speak of him as "Stephen!" Only one other English radio speaker has ever been so affectionately Christian-named by his hearers, and that is Compton Mackenzie's brother-in-law, Christopher Stone.

Mr. Gilbert Frankau's new novel, "Farewell, Romance" [Hutchinson], is a very long one, and likely to be very popular. All the copies sent out to the press for review contain a request that reviewers will refrain from disclosing the book's dénouement.

Another English writer, who has been very ill like Mr. Frankau and whose recovery is welcome to large numbers of readers, is Mr. Gerald Gould, whose book of essays, "Relief From Nightmare," has just been added to Methuen's Gateway Series.

Zona Gale, novelist, will speak on "Modern Tendencies in American Literature" before the contemporary thought class of Northwestern university on Wednesday at 4 p. m. in Harris Hall on the Evanston campus. Admission to the lecture will be free to the public.

'Deep Seas, Lonely Shores' Popular Natural History

Results of world wanderings over the waters of Europe, Australia, Africa, and Central America are told delightfully by W. Lavallin Puxley in "Deep Seas and Lonely Shores" [Dutton, $2.50]. This fascinating book contains a wealth of information about salt water creatures, from the unassuming oyster to the boisterous barracuda, shark and other man killers. This is not a technical book, but one intended for readers interested in natural history and popular science.

Noted Explorer Describes His Life and Loves

"Arctic Adventure, My Life in the Frozen North," by Peter Freuchen [Farrar & Rinehart—$3.50], is a massive volume of love and thrills in Eskimo land by one of the best known of modern explorers of the chill Greenland region.

Unlike most books on the far north, the autobiography of this big framed, famous Danish author-explorer, puts people before animals. Gregarious and sociable, Freuchen found his contacts with the Eskimos of more interest than his conflicts with the fauna of the polar regions.

Freuchen married an Eskimo woman, who bore him two children, a boy and a girl. After her death the author made one last journey to Baffinland and then returned to Denmark with his youngsters, married again, and settled down as a farmer.

MYSTERIES OF THE WEEK

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

It may be that some confusion will arise over the books under consideration today, but even if, contrary to intention, you ask for the one you meant to avoid you'll get one kind of a kick or another out of it. They are as opposite as their titles in manner and method but offer corresponding degrees of entertainment.

Armstrong Livingston has entitled his story "Murder Is Easy!" [Robert Speller, $2], and Richard Hull has called his "Murder Isn't Easy" [Putnam, $2], thus introducing a controversy which no one should be so fitted to settle as the seasoned murder hound who knows all the theories of the chase.

Mr. Armstrong's book is a good, straight mystery, which, beginning rather clumsily, develops into a confusing problem of hoax, murder, kidnaping, and what have you. It's one of those family affairs lately dear to the mystery story writer, only in this case the family are quite nice people. Instead of exploiting their rich and elderly relative they might be said to be exploited by him with rather dire results.

You may remember Mr. Hull as the author of that disarming story, "The Murder of My Aunt." This time the will to murder strengthens under your very eye as it did in his first book. The author seems to know only the most objectionable people who do the world a service by killing each other off. I am sure every curate in England is convulsed over this latest story and it is quite funny in its way, being the tale of an advertising agency conducted by three warring young men each of whom resents the other two to the point of extermination.

If your taste happens to be for good old Scotland Yard and its honest policemen you will turn with relief to "The Story of Scotland Yard" [Doubleday Doran, $2.65], by Sir Basil Thomson, who stood so long at the head of that institution. He answers all the questions which detective stories arouse in the mind, gives an account of the rise and development of crime detection in Great Britain, and the essential facts in a large number of celebrated crimes. It is tonic reading for the believer in the criminal master-mind.

VOTE $125,000 TO PAY RELIEF WORKERS HERE

IERC Grants Loan from Federal Funds.

More than a thousand employes of the Chicago relief administration, many of whom are worse off than the relief clients they have continued to serve without guarantee of salaries since July 1, will be paid within a few days. Up to $125,000 will be loaned to the city for this purpose by the Illinois emergency relief commission, which at a meeting yesterday voted to advance federal funds remaining for payment of old bills.

An additional $75,000 will be advanced by the IERC to downstate local governments to pay overdue salaries to relief workers there. When the duty of administering relief passed to the city and other communities July 1, by legislative decree, few of them had funds to pay relief overhead costs.

Get $60,000 at Once.

About $60,000 will be distributed among the volunteer workers in Chicago for their services in the first half of July. At the end of the month they will be paid an estimated $50,000 for the second half. Shortly after that, on Aug. 4, the legislature is expected to change present laws so that the city may use local relief funds for administrative purposes.

"Some members of the staf are being evicted from their homes and many others do not have sufficient money with which to purchase food," City Relief Commissioner Leo M. Lyons told the IERC.

"Credit will not be extended to them, because they are not on any pay roll. The city cannot officially hire them, since it has no appropriation for their salaries."

WPA Approves Plan.

Lyons said that Howard O. Hunter, regional head of the federal Works Progress administration, had approved an arrangement by which the IERC could dip into federal funds it has held since last December, when the government stopped its direct relief operations. Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes ruled that the IERC could be reimbursed by the city when it obtains money for administrative expenses.

The IERC received a rebuff from Hunter, however, on its proposal that the federal Works Progress administration pay most of the cost of examining WPA rolls to determine which workers no longer need their jobs. It has been estimated that 20,000 WPA workers could be eliminated by such a review, making place for a similar number of relief clients. The IERC proposed that WPA pay all but $15,000 of the $153,000 cost of the review.

Although John C. Martin, IERC chairman, pointed out that the review would reduce relief needs at least $200,000 a month, other members of the commission refused to vote an expenditure of IERC funds for the purpose. They deferred action.

Predicts Increase in Needs.

The members expressed indignation when they heard a report that WPA has 10,000 fewer persons on its rolls than is permitted under the Illinois quota of 160,000. Chief Statistician E. E. Ferebee declared that statewide relief needs will be increased in August because workers laid off by WPA in the last few months are now reapplying for direct relief.

Ferebee estimated there will be 162,054 home relief cases next month, compared to 157,944 in June. The July figure of 148,944 is not comparable, he explained, because in most communities new applications were not received because of the breakdown in administration.

The city late yesterday received $790,923 in state relief funds, making up its total July allotment of $1,318,205. Orders on merchants for food and other necessities which are being mailed daily to Chicago relief families have already exhausted most of the allotment.

20,000 FRENCH WORKERS SPURN STRIKE PEACE

PARIS, July 24.—(AP)—Twenty thousand striking metal workers in northern France tonight refused to heed a government announcement that the strike was settled and continued to occupy factories.

At Montbeliard, 5,000 of the workers paraded the streets singing the "Internationale" while their colleagues kept guard in the metal plants, disregarding an appeal of a workers' committee which accepted the government accord. While the accord failed to meet its full demands, the committee said, it urged the workers to accept it to avoid "difficulties of a social order."

Representatives of farm owners and their employés in northern France agreed to suggestions by the ministry of agriculture as a basis for negotiations to end the farm strike. Two shouting crowds of market workers paraded at Bordeaux. One favored and the other opposed closing markets on Sundays to fulfill a 40 hour week schedule.

"FEIS OF TARA" TO DRAW 15,000 IRISH TONIGHT

More than 15,000 Chicagoans of Irish descent are expected to attend the Feis of Tara, feast of the ancient Irish kings, to be held this evening in Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. The program is sponsored jointly by the Gaelic Feis association and the Combined Irish Alliance of Cook county.

The events will start at 6 p. m. with judging in a baby contest in which 1,379 children from 8 months to 5 years old have been entered. Other features of the program include a singing competition, instrumental contests, folk singing and dancing.

OFFICIALS PUSH FIGHT AGAINST DANGEROUS DOGS

Expect to Kill 500 a Day to Curb Rabies.

City and county officials stiffened their campaign against dangerous dogs yesterday. They called for strict enforcement of the ordinance requiring muzzling.

A movement was launched to place expensive anti-rabies serum on the list of free medicines furnished by the county.

At the city pound, a crew of 40 Works Progress administration carpenters, using materials furnished by the city, went to work building 400 new cages for stray dogs. At the same time Robert Forejt, pound superintendent, announced that today he will start killing unclaimed dogs wholesale to relieve congestion.

"We will start by destroying about 150 dogs a day," Forejt said. "In a few days we expect to be putting away 500 dogs a day. The council simplified our problem on Wednesday by adopting an emergency ordinance permitting demolition of any dog not claimed within 24 hours."

Shots for 16 Firemen.

The new cages at the city pound will be primarily for the confinement of dogs which have bitten persons. Because of the congestion at the animal shelter, police were ordered early this week to supervise the observation of 350 such "biters" at their owners' homes. These dogs will be the first imprisoned in the new cages.

Dr. Harold P. Sullivan, chief surgeon of the Chicago fire department, yesterday ordered sixteen members of engine company 72, at 8125 South Chicago avenue, to appear at 11 a. m. today in St. Anthony's hospital to receive injections of anti-rabies serum.

The men will be treated, Dr. Sullivan said, because Blinker, dog mascot at the fire station, was found to have rabies and was ordered killed. None of the firemen was bitten by the dog, but all the men petted the animal and the surgeon said they might have become infected if they had small abrasions on their hands.

Report 50,000 At Large.

Police Commissioner Allman ordered a special campaign against unmuzzled dogs after Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, reported to him that there are about 50,000 homeless dogs running at large. This number, Bundesen said, is larger than the population of the dogs with regular homes, judging from the fact that only 24,000 dog licenses have been sold by the city thus far this year.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes said that he is drafting an ordinance to increase the penalty against dog owners who neglect to muzzle their pets. The present penalty is a fine of $2 to $25.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, asserted that he would recommend to Clayton Smith, president of the county board, that anti-rabies serum be provided without cost by the county to all who apply for it.

Boy's Death Prompts Move.

Moss took this action as a result of the death of Anthony Scharf Jr., 4 years old, 6541 South Oakley avenue.

At the coroner's inquest on Thursday the child's mother and grandmother testified that there was a three day delay in the administration of the serum because Miss Ruth Coleman, assistant director of the public welfare bureau, refused to provide free serum until proof was submitted of inability to pay.

"Miss Coleman did just what the law requires her to do," Moss said yesterday. "But it's a bad law. Anti-rabies serum, particularly during an emergency such as now exists, should be on the free list, like the medicines for the prevention of diphtheria, scarlet fever, and smallpox."

Judge Braude Quits Bench for 6 Weeks' Vacation Trip

URGENT DEMANDS DRAIN ICE FUND TO PERILOUS LOW

Heat Aggravates Need —$1 Is a Real Help.

Because of the extreme heat during the last few weeks, emergency demands upon THE TRIBUNE'S Free Ice Fund have been so numerous that the ice fund itself now faces an emergency.

"Ice calls continue," Miss Edna Mae Wray of the United Charities, director of the fund, reported yesterday, "and I have been more than rushed, but there is little I am able to do as the fund is almost exhausted.

"I have had so many emergencies coming from hospitals and doctors for babies who have been weaned and need fresh milk that I have been holding my last tickets for them.

Helps Three Sick Youngsters.

"I had a man in the office begging for tickets just an hour ago. His three young children are in quarantine for chicken pox. Both a doctor and a health nurse visited them. I had to give him tickets—but we are in a serious condition."

Convalescents and heart patients who require ice packs, newborn babies who require fresh milk, aged men and women who live on milk diets—your contribution of $1 will give any one of them a week's supply of ice.

RUSSIAN SHIP SAILS TO HUNT ARCTIC LAND 'LOST' FOR 126 YEARS

ARCHANGEL, U. S. S. R., July 24.—(AP)—The soviet ice breaker Sadko sailed today for arctic wastes in search of a mysterious "land of high mountains" not seen since 1810.

The party aboard the ice breaker comprised the most pretentious scientific expedition ever projected into the north by the U. S. S. R. It was prepared to stay two to three years if necessary, although only a three month journey was planned.

The land sought was sighted 126 years ago by the Siberian trader, Sannikoff. It has not been seen since, although two explorers sought the secret of the unknown territory.

The ice breaker carried a floating laboratory, aviators, deep sea divers, and scientists of many branches for a far reaching attack upon the scientific, geographical, and meteorological mysteries of the northland.

OBTAIN CHARTER TO RAISE $60,000 MONUMENT FUND

The Patriotic Foundation of Chicago yesterday obtained a charter in Springfield as a nonprofit corporation empowered to raise funds for a $60,000 memorial honoring George Washington, Haym Salomon, and Robert Morris which will be erected in Chicago next year. Col. A. A. Sprague, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, and Capt. Jack A. Reilly of the Cook county American Legion are the incorporators and Mayor Kelly is honorary chairman of the foundation.

Lorado Taft has been commissioned to execute the memorial. The site has not been selected. Salomon and Morris donated funds to support colonial armies in the revolutionary war and are credited in history as important factors in Washington's victories. The theme of the memorial will be the union of all peoples in the revolution.

Meat Truck Driver Reports Kidnaping by 4 Gunmen

Police yesterday were investigating the story of Joseph Fisco, 40 years old, 260 West 26th street, that four gunmen had kidnaped him at 28th street and Emerald avenue, robbed him of his truck containing meat valued at $950, and tied him to a tree in a prairie at 62d and State streets early in the day. The truck, with its cargo intact, was later found abandoned at Polk street and Blue Island avenue.

BENEFICIAL RAINS ARE PREDICTED FOR CORN BELT

Midwest Heat Wave to Continue.

St. Louis, Mo., July 24.—[Special.]—Showers that would really benefit the parched fields of the western corn belt area were forecast today. Weather bureau officials said there would be widespread but local showers from the Dakotas eastward through western Indiana and south through Missouri tonight or tomorrow.

It was said the rain would be sufficient in volume to be of value to crops except in the Dakotas, where more sprinkles are expected.

No relief from the torrid temperatures in South Dakota, Nebraska or Kansas was in prospect, however. The highest temperature reported in Kansas today was 120 degrees at Phillipsburg. The state's all-time record is 121, recorded last Saturday at Fredonia.

Emergency Area Widens.

Twenty more Missouri counties were designated as emergency drouth counties today, bringing the total in this state to 74. Additions on the Washington emergency list also included 27 counties in the western part of Kansas.

The newly reduced freight rates on feed for pastureless cattle of the stricken northwest territory were ordered in effect at once in Montana, North Dakota and sections of South Dakota. Roughage will be carried into the area at 50 per cent of the regular charge and hay at 33 per cent.

The bureau of agricultural economics in Washington termed the drouth a decisive factor in its prediction of an increase in egg prices and a decrease in poultry prices during the latter half of this year.

Prairie Fires Add to Troubles.

In addition to their drouth worries, South Dakota officials were confronted with a series of prairie fires in the range country in the southwestern part of the state. Three new blazes broke out today on the Pine Ridge and Rosebud Indian reservations.

Forest Ranger N. B. Hanson said that three Indians held in jail had admitted responsibility for at least six fires. He said the men confessed setting the blazes while they were intoxicated.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace said at Des Moines, Ia., that farmers in general should be considerably better off this year despite the drouth. He said he noted numerous haystacks along the course of his crop tour and that the small grain yields in Missouri and Iowa were much better this year than during the drouth year of 1934.

JOBLESS HUNDREDS HOLD PENNA. CAPITOL IN RIOT ON RELIEF

Harrisburg, Pa., July 24.—(AP)—Several hundred men and women from all sections of the state mingled "My Country 'Tis of Thee" with strains of the "Internationale" as they held the state capitol tonight for reinforcements summoned to augment the "militant jobless army" demanding 100 million dollars for the unemployed.

Throughout the day coatless men and women who have "occupied" the galleries and rotunda since Monday and who twice tried rushes to gain the seats on the floor of the senate, cried "fight, fight, fight!" while their leaders urged them to remain orderly.

Hopelessly at odds over how to replenish the relief treasury, empty since Tuesday midnight, house and senate quit last night. They will meet again Monday night.

Leaders of the self-styled "militant jobless army" displayed telegrams, announcing that reinforcements would come tonight, tomorrow and Sunday, and John Muldowney, a youthful leader for the hard coal fields, promised there would be "a mob" on hand to greet the returning legislators Monday.

CITY ASKS DENIAL OF GAS RATE RISE AND URGES A QUIZ

The city of Chicago filed yesterday an intervening petition with the Illinois commerce commission asking it to deny an increase in gas rates requested by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. Moreover, the city's petition termed present gas rates paid by domestic consumers discriminatory, and requested an investigation of them with a view to readjustments in favor of the small users. Upon these small consumers, the petition declared, would fall in the main, the increases proposed by the company, totaling about $3,000,000 annually.

The petition was filed by Assistant Corporation Counsel James J. Danaher in accordance with an order passed by the city council July 1.

When hearings were resumed by the commission yesterday on the company's rate increase petition, counsel for Peoples' Gas, applied for an immediate "emergency" increase pending a permanent ruling. When Harry Booth, assistant counsel for the commission, recommended that this application be denied, the commission took it under advisement.

THE FORGOTTEN ENGINEER.

The city of Chicago, through its special attorney, William H. Sexton, has been permitted to file objections to the Abbott plan for reorganizing the surface lines. Mr. Sexton asks that the reorganization be delayed until negotiations for a new franchise have been completed. He questions whether the company, under the plan, will be able to attract the new money needed for extensions and improvements.

Without reference to the merits of either the Abbott plan or the city's objections to it, we venture to suggest once again that the traction situation in Chicago will never be settled satisfactorily by lawyers, politicians, or bankers or all of them together. Essentially the problem is one of engineering. Chicago's transportation facilities are inadequate and antiquated primarily because the lawyers, the bankers, and the politicians have tried to solve the riddle by themselves without first calling in the engineer. Obviously the job was too much for them. They will have their rôle to play, but it will be essentially secondary and coöperative. When an engineering plan is produced the lawyers can draw their contracts to make it feasible, the bankers can find the money to finance it and the politicians can negotiate their franchises. The criticism, advice and help of all these gentlemen will be welcomed at the proper moment, but today they are serving only to get the car riders nothing.

A generation and more have passed since anything resembling a thorough engineering study of the local transportation problem in Chicago has been undertaken. The movement of population within the city and the improvements in the transportation art necessitate a fresh approach. The ablest engineering talent in the field should be hired without delay to go into the subject thoroughly. Every available facility, including those now in use and those which might be used, such as steam railroad rights of way and subways, should be surveyed. Out of the survey should come a plan to the realization of which the city government, the bankers, and the lawyers could all turn their talents.

We have had no substantial improvements in twenty years because the lawyers, the bankers, and the politicians have been engaged through much of that time in quarreling over the fate of a number of moribund corporations. Public transportation in Chicago has been reduced to its present state because the service rendered by those corporations was insufficient in amount and thoroughly uncomfortable. New facilities will mean more business and more revenues for the companies, but new facilities can be financed only if there is an engineering plan which bankers and investors will approve.

The city has 60 million dollars and more in its traction fund. The investment of half a million dollars, more or less, in hiring a board of engineers to plan a modern transportation system for Chicago is the essential first step toward giving the car riders decent service. Incidentally, it is also the essential first step in giving those who have invested their money in the existing facilities a chance to get it back.

THE SHAKY WORLD.

Anthony Eden, British foreign minister, has turned the cold shoulder to the French request that a meeting of the league council be called to deal with the Nazi activities in Danzig. The league has been defied again. Britain has other matters on hand. The chief is rearmament.

The league failed in Manchuria. It could not restrain its member nation, Japan, or help its member nation, China. It has been unable to recall the mandates under which Japan, withdrawn from the league, was supposed to hold Pacific islands for it. It does not know that Japan is not fortifying the islands.

The league failed to restrain its member nation, Italy, or to help its member nation, Ethiopia. It bluffed and retreated. It had to accept the rearming of Germany and then again the reoccupation of the Rhineland. The Austrian situation has passed out of its control. Turkey has won the right to fortify the Dardanelles. Now the Nazis take the upper hand in Danzig.

One after another the stipulations, prohibitions, agreements, and pledges of the treaties and covenants made after the war have been forgotten, violated, or invalidated. Some were unjust, some were impractical, and most were selfish. All were selfishly interpreted. The British government nearly wrecked itself along with empire prestige in the showdown with Italy and Mr. Eden has declined the new German challenge. Great Britain is recruiting and building planes and ships.

Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for coördination of defense, assures parliament that swarms of pursuit planes are being turned out regularly in mass production. London will be made safe if the air force can protect it. The world is shaky. There are few lands which are not distracted and threatened.

Admonitions are everywhere advising the United States to return to the common sense of the plain people and reasonable government.

FATHER COUGHLIN.

Father Charles Coughlin of Detroit makes a public apology, in the column of his periodical Social Justice, for language he used in condemning Mr. Roosevelt. The words which he withdraws were in a speech delivered to the Townsend convention in Cleveland in behalf of Lemke's third party. In self-extenuation Father Coughlin says that the offense was in the course of extemporizing and that a distinction must be made between the President of the United States and Mr. Roosevelt as a candidate who uses strong language himself. Nevertheless the radio priest confesses himself wholly in the wrong.

Republicans were not pleased by Father Coughlin's outburst. He has never been anywhere near their side and it was possible that in turning on Mr. Roosevelt, whom he had supported, he had done the Democratic candidate considerable good. Republicans thought the incident was unfortunate, but it was natural to the intemperate reformist type which has flourished in the fields prepared by the New Deal. There are distinguished precedents for the indictment of whole generations of men, systems of society, methods of government and individuals in various walks of life. The precedents are in the record of the New Deal. The reformists imitate and rival each other.

Bishop Gallagher of Detroit is on his way to Rome. He is Father Coughlin's responsible superior. He said he had chided the priest for the impulsive words but had not disciplined him. Reports from the Vatican say that the radio priest has come unfavorably to the attention of the pope. Father Coughlin himself appears to understand that his political activities may be restrained by church discipline. With or without repression the chances are that the Detroit churchman has disposed of himself.

The phenomenon is quite in its own natural order. Exciting times bring forth excited people. As they whip themselves into fervor they throw themselves further and further off balance. They and their following act and react upon each other until all are running a fever and running as far as possible from realities and common sense. Extravagance of statement and conduct comes to the blowing up point and there is nothing left of the original fury. If excitements did not have their own finish inherent in them turmoil would be the only expectation of a people. The American people in a mass are not given to turmoil.

The clergyman in intensive political action seldom does himself or the public any good. What he may regard as his particular eligibility for the work is more likely to prove his disqualification. He may claim a peculiar authority which cannot be allowed. If it be such an authority it admits of no dispute. Political action is a matter of general dispute out of which decisions come and government proceeds.

Father Coughlin has made many mistakes. He has apologized for one of them.

INDIANA'S MILITIA AMENDMENT.

An Indiana correspondent says THE TRIBUNE is in error in attributing to the liberal minded opposition to the proposed change in the constitution relating to the organization of the militia. The purpose of the amendment is to revise the law in only one particular. It is to remove a disqualification. It is to allow colored citizens to serve in the National Guard. A provision predating the civil war restricted service to white persons. Consequently the revision is a liberal one and is so supported.

This point should be passed on to the professional liberals of the east whom THE TRIBUNE quoted. The comment was not upon the character of the amendment but the reception given it by the compartment minded radicals who found in the proposal an attempt to create a Wabash Hitler and have all the people of Indiana goose stepping and saluting. The odd thing is that the reformist trust in the legislature which prevails whenever the proposal is to remake society in the image of the radicals and out of the pocketbooks of other people disappears the moment the proposal is to trust the legislature with authority they do not want exercised at any time.

In one instance the constitution should be full of holes, in the other it should be full of concrete. What the professional liberal minded would say of the Indiana proposal if they understood it is unpredictable. They might say it was an attempt to conscript the colored man in the white man's wars. They might say it was a recognition of his citizenship rights. They might demand that he have the right to serve in the militia only that he might have the right to refuse to serve. They might simplify the whole thing by blowing up.

Editorial of the Day

TESLA AT 80.

[New York Times.]

At 80 Tesla dreams of the generation and transmission of energy in ways that must seem fantastic to engineers who build great central stations and send electricity 300 miles. Away with these wires, away with the cumbrous apparatus, is his cry. Let the planet itself be your conductor and inductor. China drawing its energy from Muscle Shoals—why not?

These visions come from a man who helped to create this electrical age. He was not the only one to propose the generation and transmission of alternating current—the kind we use nowadays most widely—for great distances. But he was certainly the first to demonstrate the practicability, and this in the face of the powerful opposition of Edison in this country and Lord Kelvin abroad. If we now use alternating current motors to drive all kinds of machinery, from electric fans to railway trains, we have Tesla to thank. And so it is with the high frequency currents that have been a blessing in the practice of medicine. It was he who investigated them, he who designed the apparatus that made it possible for any therapist to apply them. From this it was but a step to wireless, a branch of engineering to which he made contributions of historic value.

Prophecy—it has been Tesla's specialty. If our motors, our therapeutic apparatus, our broadcasting are partly the result of his past divinations, let him tell us more of a planet vibrating with energy that any community may tap. Who knows but men will yet wonder how it was possible for Tesla in 1936 to conceive the technical realities of 2036?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

A SHEAF OF CHICAGO AND NORTHERN ILLINOIS POEMS.

Buckingham Fountain (Grant Park).

There is I think no lovelier thing
Than hearing fountain water sing—
Than seeing a great arm of mist
Reach up into the amethyst
Of conscious sky and evening star
Where mansions of the Father are.

Such wings of water must embrace
Unstoried rhythms for the race—
Though in this manifest of speech
They are forever out of reach.

Daily Walk (Evanston).

The tenor of a daily walk
Is not to be denied,
If but to hear the jaybird talk,
Examine sparrow-pride.

A universal demagogue
Is hid in every tree;
Even the croaking of a frog
Suggests ventriloquy.

Apple Tree (Wilmette).

An apple tree grew
In North Wilmette
With gray leaves fallen
And branches bent;

A noise came swishing
Through the street
As a skirt of apples
Dropped at its feet.

Antique Shop Inn (Geneva).

Chippendale and Hepplewhite
Highboys carved and plain—
For a song they could be mine,
Beauty is a pain.

Inlaid table, Empire pin;
Chests by brothers Adam;
A real collector has come in;
"Were you just looking, madam?"

Country Garden (Wheaton).

Never a flower was there to see
Destiny swooned in anemone;
That fourth dimensional love is still—
A mockery to a harnessed will.
For I alone in the garden close
Found an ancient seer in a folded rose,
And I alone, in the evening light,
Found a country garden cosmopolite.

Observation from a Motor Car.

The Water Tower in its little square
Is like a fragment done by Baudelaire.
Through early fog across the park I see
A frail Madonna clothed in mystery;
There from a bench, describing pick and shovel,
An author starts his proletarian novel
Though every morning darting here and there
He sees the wind-birds blown through Tribune Square.

Old Orchard Ground (Hinsdale).

While you would rather build beside a stream
To chant the rushes, count the fluted reeds,
Hold fast to time . . . and inventory dream—
I would assort the fabled garden seeds.
I'd build a house upon old orchard ground
Where apple gateways greet eternal springs:
To dwell with afternoons of coral sound
With inland birds and other land-born things.

For it may be . . . in some old garden spot . . .
With trees that speak like actors in a play,
The rhetoric of an eclogue long forgot
With lifted mask, will dwell with me a day.

But who shall come to show the orchard sight
Where love descends in piercing thorns of light?

RACHEL MACK WILSON.

THAT PICTURE in all the newspapers yesterday of ox teams hauling prairie schooners in Gov. Landon's notification parade rather upset me. I'm perfectly willing to go back to the horse and buggy days, but I'll be hecked if I am willing to go back to the ox team days. I've got to read the Republican platform over and find out what was the big idea in putting those ox teams in the parade. Although I will admit I would like to see the demon drivers who hit it up to eighty miles an hour driving ox teams when they go out of town over the week-ends. They get to their favorite resort now in a couple of hours, but with an ox team they wouldn't reach there until the following Saturday. And besides an ox team could kick 'em when they tried to speed up. Which is one great fault of the automobile—it's never learned to kick.

"PRESIDENT FISHES for Tuna at Bay of Fundy."—Headline. But I'll bet that Thursday night he moved up to the radio when Gov. Landon was speaking and tunaed in. (Don't send me to prison for that, judge! It's the heat.)

MORE BATRACHOMYOMACHIA.

Bang! Say the Democrats . . .
Bing! Say the Republicans . . .
Pouf! Say the Third partyites . . .
So election year is with us once more
And we touch perihelion in the orbit of the bore
In the blither and the blather of politicoes at war.

AL DEGIBBONS FREDRICKS.

MUSSOLINI IS TRYING to horn in again with some more threats of what he's going to do if other nations don't mind him. But don't think we're going to pay any attention to you, Mussolini, no matter what you say. Not as long as we have a baseball championship and a presidential campaign going on at one and the same time. Oh, Mr. Mussolini, you ought to go out and see them White Sox. Are they coming back? Oh, verily! And how!

EPIDEMIC POLIOMYELITIS.

POLIOMYELITIS is not a new disease. In fact, an Egyptian carving of the eighteenth dynasty (1580-1350 B. C.) portrays the withered [atrophied] limb of a priest of the temple of Astarte at Memphis. The original is now in a museum in Copenhagen. In one of his books Hippocrates mentions the paralysis of the legs "that attacked many" and that occurred widely in the late summer or early autumn.

Nevertheless, only in recent years has infantile paralysis assumed epidemic proportions in the United States. Our first experience of any consequence was in Vermont in 1894. The disease has since recurred in varying degrees of severity in many parts of the United States. During the summer of 1916, from a relatively restricted area of Brooklyn, it swept rapidly through the various boroughs of New York City, thence to many of the outlying districts of the middle Atlantic states.

So far as is known the infecting agent is a virus composed of particles too small to be seen with the microscope. These gain entrance to the nervous system through the tiny filaments of the nerves of smell [olfactory] which lie in the mucous membrane of the nose. The virus prefers to travel along these pathways and apparently disdains muscles, blood vessels, or other structures of the body. The inflammatory changes, however, which follow may damage the nerve cells and the results [paralysis or not] depend upon the virulence of the infection and the resistance of the patient.

Many investigators believe that a large proportion of the population is affected in infancy or childhood and that many cases—possibly the great majority—are so mild that they are not recognized. The condition may be mistaken for an intestinal upset, a cold, or influenza. In such instances the patient recovers within a day or two without the slightest paralysis.

While the disease may appear in any month of the year it is more common from July to October, and those most frequently attacked fall in the age group between 2 and 5 years.

Except in the presence of an epidemic, diagnosis before the onset of paralysis is difficult. There may be a slight weakness of the muscles, but this may be entirely overlooked. At the outset the patient is not considered ill—even by the parents. There may be a loss of appetite, some headache, vomiting, or muscle pains. The child will usually complain of feeling listless and tired. He wants to be let alone, and when aroused may be decidedly irritable.

The disease should be suspected if there is even a slight degree of stiffness in the neck muscles. Pain is sometimes evidenced on attempting to bend the neck forward. While this symptom may accompany almost any kind of fever—such as influenza—it is of importance should "polio" be rife in the neighborhood. Another significant sign is a trembling of one of the extremities. There is often increased sensitivity of the skin and some sweating. Double vision, weakness of the facial muscles, and difficulty in swallowing are quite characteristic in well established cases.

Treatment of the acute attack is based upon meeting conditions as they arise, guarding against failure of breathing, and the use of serum from patients who have recovered from the disease. This is known as convalescent serum and is probably our most efficient aid. Its use, however, is without avail if symptoms of paralysis have appeared. Repeated withdrawals of fluid from the spinal canal are of value, as this plan relieves pressure on already injured nerve tissue.

Inasmuch as the disease is probably conveyed from the sick to the well through nasal discharges, it is a matter of particular moment that the nose and the throat shall be kept clean. A weak solution of potassium alum has been recommended as a preventive since it has been shown that it will contract the mucous membranes so as to prevent the virus from gaining entrance to the nerve filaments. Well children may use this solution as a nasal irrigation if known cases exist in the vicinity.

CURVED SPINE.

D. R. writes: Is it possible for a person beyond 30 to correct a lateral curvature of the spine by proper exercise or through an operation? I read where such an affliction was completely cured by extensive swimming. So far as I know, this condition developed after birth and I think bad posture is partly to blame.

REPLY.

A great deal can be accomplished by proper treatment and, if the condition cannot be entirely cured, it can probably be relieved considerably. The types of treatment used depend somewhat upon whether the curvature is the result of a postural defect or is congenital. Exercises, plaster casts, braces, or sometimes surgery may be used.

T. B. UNLIKELY.

G. C. writes: I was operated on last year for multiple fistulae of the rectum and was told I had a tubercular condition. About two months ago I took a Mantoux test for tuberculosis and was told my lungs were sound. Would this test show if I had the disease in my system?

REPLY.

The Mantoux intracutaneous test is quite dependable. If it was correctly given and interpreted by your physician you may be fairly certain that a negative finding indicates that you do not have tuberculosis.

AFTER CARE OF MEASLES.

Mrs. S. writes:

1. How long should a child remain in the dark after measles?

2. What diet should a child have at this time?

REPLY.

1. This "dark room" business is overdone. Light cannot injure the child though sometimes the eyes are slightly more sensitive.

2. A fairly light, simple diet is suitable, such as milk, eggs, fruits, soups, ice cream, custards, gelatin puddings, etc. Resume a normal diet as soon as appetite demands.

SLEEPS WITH HEAD COVERED.

A. D. V. writes: I have a sister who sleeps with her head covered. How can I cure her of this habit?

REPLY.

Convince her that the habit prevents fresh air from reaching the lungs and that its continuance cannot fail to interfere with growth and development. If necessary, pin the bed covers down so that it will be impossible for her to get them over her head.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25, 1787.—In convention. Clause relating to the executive again under consideration. Mr. Madison: There are objections against every mode that has been or perhaps can be proposed. The election must be made either by some existing authority under the national or the state constitutions or by some special authority derived from the people or by the people themselves. [Mr. Madison dwelt upon the dangers of appointment by the existing authorities, either legislative or judicial.] The option before us then lay between an appointment by electors chosen by the people and an immediate appointment by the people. He thought the former mode free from many of the objections which had been urged against it, and greatly preferable to an appointment by the national legislature. As the electors would be chosen for the occasion, would meet at once and proceed immediately to an appointment there would be little opportunity for cabal or corruption.

No Progress on the Presidency.

Mr. Pinckney of South Carolina moved that election by the legislature be qualified with a proviso that no person be eligible for more than six years in any twelve years. He thought this would have all the advantage and at the same time avoid in some degree the inconvenience of an absolute ineligibility a second time. Col. Mason approved the idea. It had the sanction of experience in the instance of congress and some of the executives of the states. Mr. Gouverneur Morris of Pennsylvania was against a rotation in every case. The self-sufficiency of a victorious party scorns to tread in the paths of their predecessors. Rehoboam will not imitate Solomon. The man in office will look forward to the period at which he will become reëligible. The distance of the period, the improbability of such a protraction of his life, will be no obstacle. Such is the nature of man, formed by his benevolent author, no doubt for wise ends, that although he knows his existence to be limited to a span, he takes his measures as if he were to live forever.

Mr. Gerry: A popular election in this case is radically vicious. The ignorance of the people would put it in the power of some one set of men dispersed through the Union and acting in concert to delude them into any appointment. Mr. Dickinson of Delaware: As far as he could judge from the discussion which had taken place during his attendance, insuperable objections lay against an election of the executive by the national legislature as also by the legislatures or executives of the states. He had long leaned toward an election by the people which he regarded as the best and purest source.

[Motions as to the executive appointment being, as Madison says, passed in the negative, there was an adjournment.]

DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Are Indiana laws on inheritance the same as Illinois laws? My husband was one of four heirs to a small farm. It was a long time getting settled, so my girl, now married, took it to court. They settled out of court for $1,000. 2. How much do I get out of it? My husband left no will, but left me insurance with which I paid all bills. Now it's this money which was coming to him, and I know if he had known he was going to die so quickly he would have left it to me. 3. What does the law say? I am past 60 years old and have nothing except what I will get of this $1,000.

O. J.

1. No.

2. Are we to assume that your husband has died? If so, your rights in his estate would depend largely on whether you participated in the settlement.

3. The distribution to Indiana estates depends in large part on the amount involved. We suggest that you take the questions up with an Indiana attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNDIVIDED INTEREST.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I own ten acres of land in Texas. Another party has one-sixth undivided interest in this land.

1. Would it be advisable for me to force a division by partition proceedings, and [2] what is the usual cost of such proceedings?

A. G. T.

1. Depends on the value of the property, on your desire to reduce it to cash, upon the prospects of harmonious operation on the present basis, and on other facts that are not before us.

HOUSES FOR THE POOR.

Chicago, July 21.—Your editorial of July 14, "Houses for the Poor," resurrects one of the most plausible, but one of the most misleading, theories for the improvement of housing for low income families. You propose to overbuild the market for expensive and moderate income housing so that the surplus of used but still fit houses can be passed on to that large number of urban families who now live in obsolete and physically depreciated properties.

The first, and possibly the only, answer needed to this argument is that this sort of thing has been tried time and again both in European and American cities, and the amount of benefit to low income families has been almost, if not entirely, negligible. Although during residential building booms, which usually coincide roughly with times of general prosperity, many families may move from blighted districts to better quarters, a very noticeable flow in the other direction sets in as soon as the building bubble bursts. This sad conclusion is also marked by the loss of millions of dollars "invested" in new houses, subdivision lots, special assessment bonds, etc., and by large areas of scraggly development which are without adequate transportation, school, utilities, and the other requirements of modern urban life. In fact, so disastrous have been the long-term effects of this haphazard process that a strong case could be made for the claim that urban areas in which it has been most common are those in which housing conditions are, generally speaking, the worst.

Any one who pushes his analysis of this matter a bit further will readily see why your theory doesn't prove itself in practice. There is a vast difference between handing down a house from one family to another of substantially the same income and economic class, and handing down a residential district from one economic class to another less well-to-do one. Property owners have certain fixed costs in the form of mortgage payments, taxes, etc., and certain fixed ideas about the value of their property. If the higher economic class moves out of a district the property owners' gross income naturally falls off sharply, but their expenses remain stationary or decline little.

The result is that more families are crowded into the building, repairs and maintenance are neglected. Unless zoning definitly prohibits it, cheap stores or other nonresidential uses are introduced, and often the bars are down for any sort of anti-social use that produces substantial income. Naturally enough, the tenants, many of whom have none too much experience in urban living, feel that the landlord is not treating them fairly and that they, therefore, need worry little about helping to keep the property in decent condition. The belief that the district is doomed spreads rapidly. It scares away possible new tenants, discourages store owners, and encourages city departments to give the district as little as possible in the way of garbage collection, street sweeping and the other municipal housekeeping services. The cumulative effect of these and some other minor forces is the condition that is called blight. Often it slowly deepens until the district becomes a recognized slum.

It is difficult to discuss this subject briefly and at the same time accurately. The handing down process may work in a very limited degree when the steps between the economic classes are very short and when the process is not repeated for the same district. There can be no doubt, however, but that in the past it has been strained far beyond its possibilities of providing decent shelter, let alone adequate housing, for low income families.

The overwhelming majority of those who have studied the problems of urban housing is convinced that despite the alluring simplicity of the theory that you have recently approved, good housing for low income families will not be provided until the family incomes of large sections of the population are brought closer to the production costs of new housing. This means higher real incomes, either through increased wages or housing subsidies, or lower costs in housing production, including land, finance, building, and operation costs. As a matter of fact, it probably means not one of these three possibilities, but some combination of them.

COLEMAN WOODBURY,
Director, National Association of Housing Officials.

A WORD FOR THE WPA.

Chicago, July 21.—One reads, almost daily, reams of criticism, numberless cartoons, each seeming to outdo the other in unwaranted attack upon the alleged inefficiency of the men who have found employment on federal projects. Constructive criticism is indeed worthy of commendation, but I feel that unjustifiable complaint, motivated by seemingly ulterior purposes, should find no niche in our American institutions.

I would like to feel I'm entirely unbiased in this matter. I'm a civil service employé and am accorded the protecting cloak of that system.

For nigh on two years I've supervised CWA and WPA workers who have remodeled the offices of the sherif, county clerk, recorder, circuit clerk, county treasurer, board of appeals, and the photostatic department, and at present the assessor's office is being revamped.

These men range from laborers to building trades artisans, namely, plumbers, electricians, bricklayers, painters, carpenters, etc. They have been both efficient and on the job.

No man has approached them with tickets nor sought favors of any kind. They render a fair day's work for a fair day's wage. Prior to their federal employment many of these men had not worked in five or six years. Many had lost their homes and savings. They were thankful beyond description for an opportunity to work.

It was estimated the remodeling of the county building offices by a private firm would entail an expenditure of $350,000. It is now estimated the cost with employment of WPA workers will approximate $150,000. If the 200 federal unit men can be taken as a criterion of efficiency for their fellow wage earners throughout the nation, then I must doff my hat to this great federal employment system.

Any citizen is welcome to step into the county building and verify this statement.

HARD TO BELIEVE, BUT——

Winnetka, Ill., July 22.—One can understand Mr. J. C. Russell's reaction to Henning's recent articles in which are related certain doubtful policies adopted by Roosevelt during the last few months of Hoover's term as President. It hardly seems possible that any man would do what Roosevelt is reported to have done.

However, Mr. Russell might be interested to know that the main facts related are a matter of public record and documents relating to the whole sorry episode, collected from the state and personal archives of the Hoover administration, were published in a series of four articles in the Saturday Evening Post during June of last year.

I suggest that Mr. Russell read these articles and I think he will then realize that Arthur Henning was not romancing. Unfortunately, this phase of Roosevelt's career since he was nominated is not generally known, perhaps for the reason that many people will not take the time to read factual articles.

F. W. HERLAN.

MYSTERY.

Chicago, July 21.—I am mystified.

Yesterday morning ten WPA workers appeared in the vacant lot across the street from my home. They spent the forenoon digging a hole about 9 feet square and 3 feet deep. When some of the neighborhood boys started a softball game the WPA gang dropped their shovels to act as umpires and cheering section.

Then, during the afternoon, they filled in the hole they had dug in the morning.

Is it possible that the Great White Father in Washington is trying to supplant Coleridge's immortal

"As idle as a painted ship Upon a painted ocean"

with a new simile,

As idle as a WPA mob
Upoh a local improvement job?

Can you explain? Or are you mystified, too?

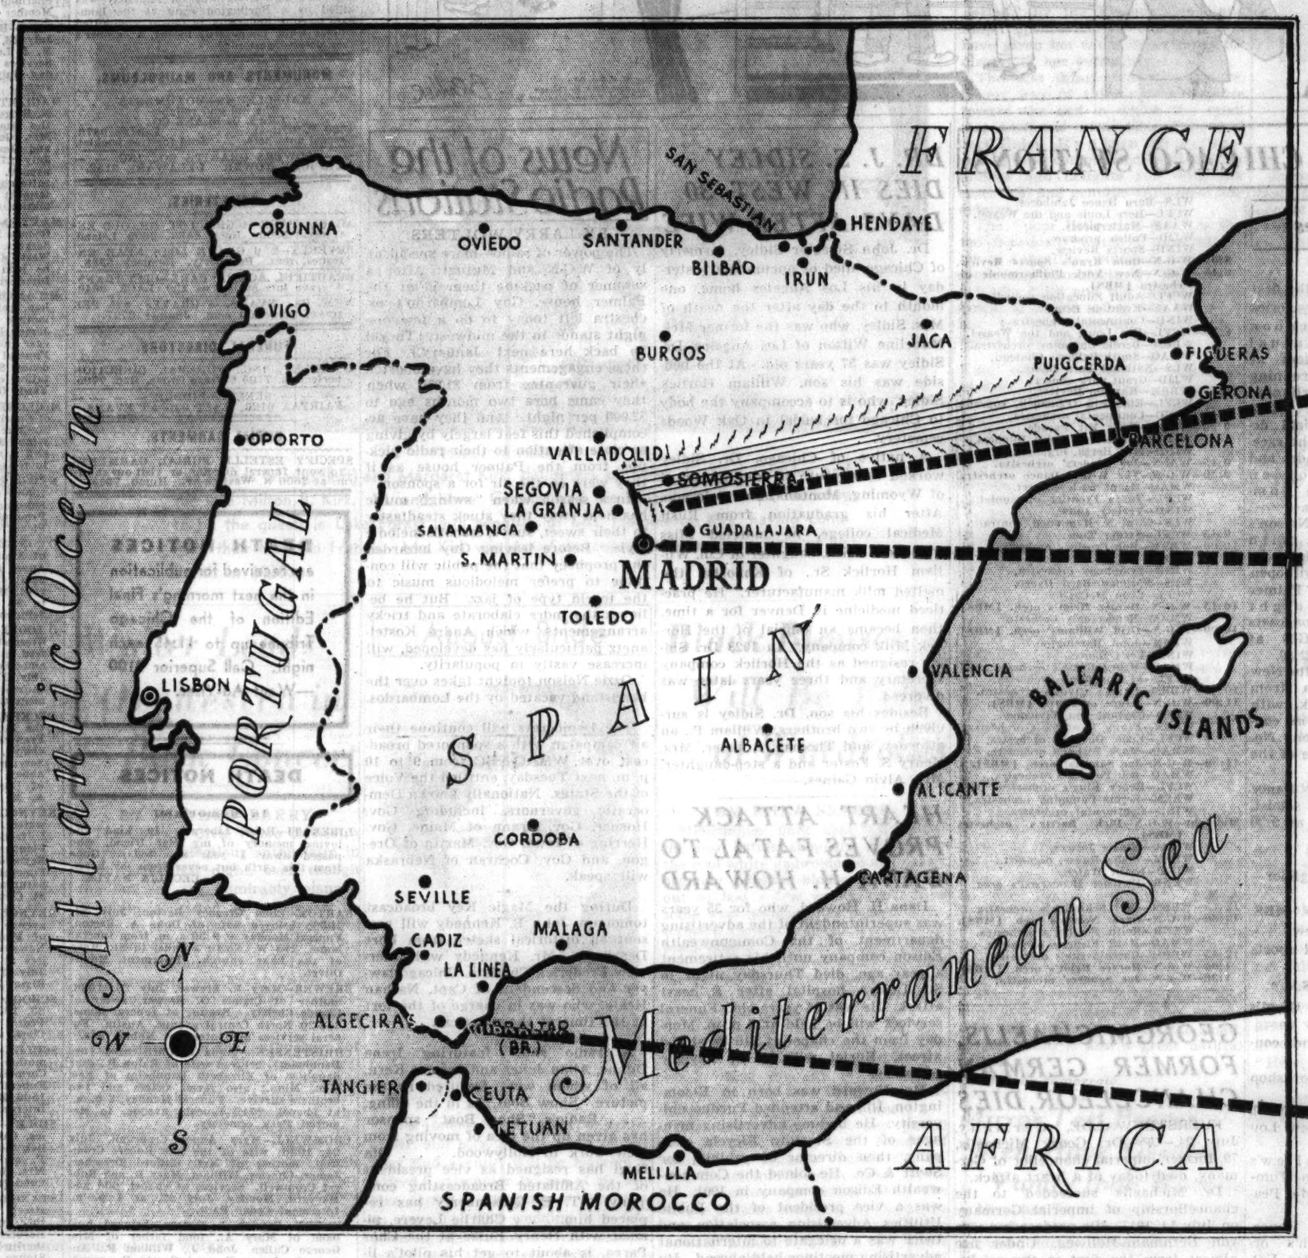
AGAIN THE TRIBUNE SCORES WITH COMPLETE NEWS OF THE SPANISH REVOLT!



EDMOND TAYLOR

Tribune correspondent, is with rebel forces in the North. He slipped across the Spanish frontier and raced south to join Gen. Mola's army.

HENRY BUCKLEY

Tribune correspondent, is at Madrid, covering the developments at the Spanish capital. By direct wire to Barcelona, he keeps in touch with progress in Eastern Spain.

JAY ALLEN

Tribune correspondent, is at Gibraltar, where overt actions on the part of the Spaniards brought prompt reply from British guns.

THE Tribune's account of the Spanish revolt has been far and away the most vivid and comprehensive one provided by any newspaper.

From North to South, Tribune foreign correspondents cover the Spanish peninsula.

Edmond Taylor joined the rebel forces from the French frontier. Henry Buckley is with the Spanish government at Madrid, with a direct wire to Barcelona. Jay Allen is in touch with both factions at Gibraltar whence he can send uncensored dispatches.

These men are members of the Tribune's foreign staf whose work is well known to Tribune readers. They are getting the news with typical Tribune enterprise and are writing it from the American viewpoint.

Their eye-witness stories are based on facts—not on press bureau handouts of the rival forces.

The Tribune's coverage of this news event is characteristic of the thorough, timely, aggressive reporting which readers of this newspaper are accustomed to expect.

People pay their money to get the news. They want graphic, easily understood accounts. They want first-hand reports—not rehashes—and they want the story while it is hot.

In the Chicago Tribune they get it. As a result, the Tribune today has practically twice as much circulation as any other Chicago daily newspaper.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

WM. L. O'CONNELL FUNERAL WILL BE HELD ON MONDAY

Heart Ailment Is Fatal to Democratic Leader.

Funeral services for William L. O'Connell, veteran Democratic party leader in Chicago and Cook county, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Monday with a solemn requiem high mass in St. Ambrose church, 1012 East 47th street. Mr. O'Connell died of a heart ailment at 6:30 a. m. yesterday in St. Luke's hospital. He was 64 years old.

WM. L. O'CONNELL.

Mr. O'Connell had been in frail health for several months, but kept at his duties as receiver of 400 closed state banks in Illinois and was active in preparations for the November campaign of his close friend, United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who is a candidate for reelection.

Notified of Mr. O'Connell's critical illness, Senator Lewis came to Chicago last evening from Denver, where he had been delivering a series of lectures on international relations for the University of Colorado. He received word of his friend's death yesterday when his train reached Dixon, Ill.

Widow, 3 Children Survive.

Mr. O'Connell is survived by his widow, Anna; two daughters, Anna and Mary; and a son, William L. O'Connell Jr., all of whom were at his bedside when he died. Also present in the hospital room was Msgr. William M. Foley, pastor of St. Ambrose Catholic church. Hope for Mr. O'Connell's recovery had been virtually abandoned several hours before his death.

Mr. O'Connell was born in Chicago, the son of pioneers in the city. He studied law in Northwestern university and turned to politics shortly after finishing his courses. As chief of the gas inspector's office in the city hall he attracted the attention of Edward F. Dunne, who—as mayor in 1905—appointed Mr. O'Connell deputy commissioner of public works.

The following year he was named commissioner. In this post he so impressed the leaders of the Harrison-Dunne Democratic group that he was made chairman of the Democratic county central committee. The group soon became known as the Harrison-Dunne-O'Connell faction.

Heads Utilities Commission.

In 1910 Mr. O'Connell was elected county treasurer, serving until 1914. Mr. Dunne, by this time governor, then appointed him chairman of the old state public utilities commission, a post he held until 1917.

The previous year Mr. O'Connell had assumed control of the Manly Motor corporation, Waukegan truck manufacturers, changing its name to the O'Connell Motor Truck company. He was president of this concern at the time of his death. His home in recent years has been at 4418 Drexel boulevard.

For a number of years Mr. O'Connell was virtually retired from politics, but took an active interest in the affairs of his friend, Senator Lewis. He managed Lewis' successful campaign for election to the senate in 1930. In 1933 he was appointed receiver for the closed state banks by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. It was the heavy work in the liquidation of the assets of these banks, plus his management of Senator Lewis' campaign and his refusel to rest, that hastened Mr. O'Connell's death, according to Dr. Alfred C. Croftan, who attended him.

ALBERS SUCCEEDS HIM

State Auditor Barrett yesterday appointed Charles H. Albers, receiver for the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank and assistant to Mr. O'Connell, to succeed him as receiver of the closed banks which have been under Mr. O'Connell's supervision.

Albers, a former examiner of the Chicago Clearing House association, has had more than 25 years of banking experience. He has been deputy receiver for the Central Republic Trust company and also has served as receiver for the General Household Utilities corporation.

CHARLES TALMAN FATALLY SHOT; METEOROLOGIST

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Charles Fitzhugh Talman, 61, internationally known meteorologist, who had been ill for more than a year, was found fatally shot today on the floor of the bathroom of his home. A pistol lay nearby.

Talman died in a hospital soon after he was discovered by his wife.

The weather bureau's librarian, he had written more than 2,000 magazine articles, scientific papers, and books and had been engaged several years in compiling a meteorological dictionary.

He had served the weather bureau also at Norfolk, Va., in the West Indies, at Boston, Springfield, Ill., and Buffalo. He was born in Detroit, Mich., and educated at Kalamazoo college.

Burial will be at his birthplace, Ogden, Utah. Mr. Douglas was 48 years old. He was associated with Lamborn & Co. at 231 South La Salle street. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Flora Douglas, and by two children.

DR. J. S. SIDLEY DIES IN WEST 30 DAYS AFTER WIFE

Dr. John Streeter Sidley, formerly of Chicago, died of pneumonia yesterday in his Los Angeles home, one month to the day after the death of Mrs. Sidley, who was the former Mrs. Madeline Wilson of Los Angeles. Dr. Sidley was 57 years old. At the bedside was his son, William Horlick Sidley, who is to accompany the body to Chicago for burial in Oak Woods cemetery.

A native of Chicago, Dr. Sidley worked as a youth in mining camps of Wyoming, Montana, and Colorado. After his graduation from Rush Medical college, he married Miss Mabelle Horlick, daughter of Col. William Horlick Sr., of Kenosha, the malted milk manufacturer. He practiced medicine in Denver for a time, then became an official of the Horlick Milk company. In 1928 Dr. Sidley resigned as the Horlick company secretary and three years later was divorced.

Besides his son, Dr. Sidley is survived by two brothers, William P., an attorney, and Thomas; a sister, Mrs. Henry S. Foster and a step-daughter, Mrs. Alvin Gaines.

He was 64 years old. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday from the chapel at 316 West 63d street. Burial will be in Beverly cemetery.

GEORG MICHAELIS, FORMER GERMAN CHANCELLOR, DIES

FUERSTENWALDE, Germany, July 24.—(AP)—Dr. Georg Michaelis, 79, former imperial chancellor of Germany, died today of a heart attack.

Dr. Michaelis succeeded to the chancellorship of imperial Germany on July 14, 1917. His predecessor was von Bethmann-Hollweg. Under fire almost from the first in the reichstag, he held office only until Nov. 1 of the same year. Among his public utterances which drew disapproval was the statement, "God sent this fearful was as judgment for our sins."

Deeply religious, he was also a believer in divine rule, and at the start of the world war had condemned parliamentarism and opposed any curbing of the kaiser's powers. He visited the United States in 1922, warning in an interview of a new war in Europe if France seized the Ruhr.

WENDEL HEARD BY GRAND JURY IN KIDNAP QUIZ

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Paul H. Wendel appeared before the federal grand jury at Newark, N. J., today as the first witness in the jury's investigation of the charges made by the former Trenton lawyer that he was kidnaped, tortured, and forced to make a false confession of the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

As Wendel was taken before the jury word was received from Albany that Gov. Lehman had signed a request for the extradition of Ellis H. Parker Jr., son of the chief of the Burlington county detectives, who was indicted with his father and three others in Brooklyn in connection with the Wendel case.

Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey, who refused previously to extradite the senior Parker, had no comment to make on this development pending arrival of the extradition papers.

James Phillip Dunn, 52, Musical Composer, Dies

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—James Phillip Dunn, 52, composer of many musical works, died today at his home in Jersey City. Mr. Dunn was a militant worker in the interests of native music. Among his works were an opera, "The Galleon," and several symphonic poems.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The power of radio—more specifically of W-G-N and Mutual: After a summer of packing them in at the Palmer house, Guy Lombardo's orchestra left today to do a few one night stands in the midwest. [They'll be back here next January.] For these engagements they have boosted their guarantee from $1,250 when they came here two months ago to $2,000 per night. And they have accomplished this feat largely by giving as close attention to their radio pickups from the Palmer house as if they were on the air for a sponsor.

In a season when "swing" music has held sway they stuck steadfastly to their sweet, suave, smooth melodic style. Before leaving Guy hazarded the prophecy that the public will continue to prefer melodious music to the torrid type of jazz. But he believes the more elaborate and tricky arrangements, which Andre Kostelanetz particularly has developed, will increase vastly in popularity.

Ozzie Nelson tonight takes over the bandstand vacated by the Lombardos.

The Democrats will continue their air campaign with a sponsored broadcast over WMAQ-NBC from 9 to 10 p. m. next Tuesday, entitled the Voice of the States. Nationally known Democratic governors, including Gov. Horner, Gov. Brann of Maine, Gov. Herring of Iowa, Gov. Martin of Oregon, and Gov. Cochran of Nebraska will speak.

During the Magic Key broadcast tomorrow John B. Kennedy will present an historical sketch from Fort Dearborn. Mr. Kennedy will interview Frederick Chetlain, Chicago lawyer and descendant of Capt. Nathan Heald, who was in charge of the fort at the time of the massacre.

A radio show featuring Irene Dunne, Allan Jones and Jerome Kern, all of whom were featured in the picture "Show Boat," is in the offing. . . . Radio's "Show Boat" sponsor has given up the idea of moving from New York to Hollywood. . . . Ota Gygi has resigned as vice president of the Affiliated Broadcasting company. T. E. Quisenberry has replaced him. . . . Charlie Levere, pianist with Henry Busse at the Chez Paree, is about to get his pilot's licence. . . . Anne Seymour has been reengaged as the star of Grand Hotel, which will return to local NBC studios starting Sunday, Oct. 4.

ROGERS' WIDOW WINS RIGHT TO OCCUPY ESTATE

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Surrogate Robert S. Pelletreau at Riverhead, N. Y., today ruled that Mrs. Pauline V. Rogers, widow of Col. H. H. Rogers, multi-millionaire oil heir, has a right to occupy the Port of Missing Men, the vast estate her husband built on the dunes at North sea, near Southampton.

In his will, Col. Rogers left the home to his grandson, Peter Salm, son of the former Millicent Rogers, but stipulated that, with certain restrictions, his widow was to occupy it for life.

The ruling was in an action brought by the boy's guardians, one of whom is his mother, to oust Mrs. Rogers from the estate.

Under the surrogate's ruling, Mrs. Rogers must pay the taxes, insurance and cost of repairs of the estate out of her share of her husband's fortune—$100,000 outright and an annual income of $120,000.

FOOT VISITORS BARRED FROM GIANT BRIDGE

San Francisco, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Authorities today announced their refusal to permit pedestrian inspection of the new 77 million dollar bay bridge, connecting San Francisco and Oakland, explaining they wanted to guard against hardships and possible panic that a congestion would cause. The bridge will be opened to trafic later this year.

"Few persons realize," said F. M. McAuliffe, attorney for the California toll bridge authority, "that crossing the bridge on foot involves a walk of more than eight miles. There are no rest stations and no drinking water.

"Probably 1,000,000 persons would be attracted by a pedestrians' day. The congestion would lend itself to panic. Railings are not close enough to prevent children from squirming through, and the water is 200 feet below."

It was also pointed out that it was feared members of a large crowd might try to deface the bridge by carving their initials or the age old "John Loves Mary" inscribed in an arrow-pierced heart.

Gershwin Will Be Soloist at Ravinia Tonight

Arlington Classic Another Week-End Event.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE will be no derth of entertainment for every one, whatever his taste, today and tomorrow for the busiest week-end in weeks is here. The running of the Classic at Arlington will attract a huge crowd this afternoon and tonight at Ravinia park there will be a large audience to hear George Gershwin play as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Perhaps if the Ravinia Festival association had realized how interested the public was going to be in Gershwin's appearance it would have arranged for more than one performance, which would have pleased the hundreds who have been unable to get tickets for tonight. On every side one has been hearing for the last ten days, "Have you an extra ticket for the Gershwin concert?" and the answer invariably has been "No, I wish I had."

Music lovers are as much interested in hearing the musicians of the Chicago Symphony orchestra play a medley of the soloist's songs under his direction as they are in hearing the composer play his own concerto, "Rhapsody in Blue," and selections from "Porgy and Bess," and every one anticipates an interesting evening.

Mr. Gershwin is the guest of Thomas Hart Fisher in Winnetka while he is here. He arrived yesterday and will be returning to New York tomorrow to make final preparations for moving to Hollywood.

Informal Parties for Mr. Gershwin.

Mr. Fisher and his wife, Ruth Page, had planned a large supper party for Mr. Gershwin tonight, but she had to leave suddenly for Cincinnati so the party was called off and just a small group of the composer's friends are going to join him and his host at the Fisher house for supper after the concert. Miss Page is dancing in the Ohio city on Aug. 2, 3, 5, and 7 and will be back in Winnetka on the 9th.

Last night Miss Mary Melville Clow and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., gave a small, informal dinner at their home in Lake Forest for Mr. Gershwin. After dinner the party went to Ravinia to hear the concert at which Ernest Ansermet was the conductor and Tomford Harris the soloist. William Daly will be guest conductor at tonight's concert.

Expect Record Crowd at Arlington Park.

The Classic is not the richest race of the Arlington season, but it is considered by many to be the most interesting because it is for three year olds. The largest crowd of the season is expected this afternoon, whatever the weather.

The Post and Paddock will be filled with luncheon parties and there will be quite a number of unfamiliar faces at the tables for there are a number of out-of-town guests here for the event. William Woodward of New York whose horse, Granville, will run in the big race, and Mr. Woodward's son, William Jr., are spending the week-end with the William H. Mitchells in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Mitchell, who just returned last night from Topeka, is giving a dinner party tonight at the Onwentsia for young Mr. Woodward and this afternoon the John E. Hughes' sons, Marshall, John Jr., Mansfield, and Milton, will give a stag luncheon at the Post and Paddock for the junior Mr. Woodward, who is a school mate of John and Mansfield Hughes at Groton. All the Chicago boys who go to Groton are being invited to the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are entertaining at luncheon today at the Post and Paddock for Miss Mary Curtis of Boston, who will be the Howard Linns' guest until the middle of next week. One of the Hughes' guests will be Arthur White of Middleburg, Va., who wi" be their house guest until next Tuesday. Tomorrow the Austin H. Niblacks are giving a luncheon at their Lake Forest home for Miss Curtis and in the evening the Linns will entertain at supper at Pointed Roofs, their Lake Bluff home, for their guest and the Paul E. Gardners of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner—he is a former Chicagoan and was the first president of the Post and Paddock—are spending the week-end with the Vaughan C. Spaldings in Lake Forest, who are giving a dinner for them tonight. Tomorrow Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson will be a luncheon hostess for the Gardners.

Forgans Give Dance Tonight for Daughter.

Mrs. Gardner's attractive young daughter, Miss Hope Bacon, is here visiting Miss Betty Keith, daughter of the Stanley Keiths of Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Keith are giving a dinner tonight for their daughter and Miss Bacon before a dance the James B. Forgans are giving at their home for their daughter, Nancy, whose formal debut was canceled last winter because of the death of her paternal grandmother, the senior Mrs. James B. Forgan.

An outdoor dancing pavilion has been built for the Forgan party and with the moon almost full it should be one of the loveliest parties of the summer on the north shore. Mr. and Mrs. Forgan and Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Welling are entertaining jointly at dinner at the Onwentsia tonight for Miss Nancy and her older sister, Miss

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Shirley has had better vehicles than "Poor Little Rich Girl"—"suggested" by the Eleanor Gates and Ralph Spence stories—but none that have given her wider opportunity for display of her versatility.

The best thing about the picture, to my way of thinking, is a dance toward the end in which the small star performs with Alice Faye and Jack Haley. It's a keen tap routine—snappy and complicated—and Shirley amazes and delights you with the ease, skill and genuine enjoyment she evinces.

The "poor little rich girl" is the too fanatically watched over daughter of a wealthy, widowed, and handsome soap manufacturer. Barbara is a lonely child and her father finally agrees to accede to her wish and send her to the boarding school her mother had attended.

An accident occurs to Barbara's governess at the station. The child wanders off and follows an organ grinder and his monkey home. An imaginative child, she tells Tony that her name is Betsy Ware—the name of a favorite story book heroine—and that she has run away from an orphanage where they were cruel to her . . .

Tony and his wife keep her for the night and bed her with their brood.

How Barbara becomes a radio performer, member of the Dolan & Dolan singing and dancing act; how she is billed on a broadcast sponsored by her father's greatest rival—etc., etc., the picture shall show you. Her little voice on the air, of course, apprises Dad Barry that his treasure isn't in the trove where he thought he'd put her for safekeeping. . . .

And so, to an ending, with everybody as happy as can be—excepting one certain nasty man—and a beautiful new stepmamma in the offing for Barbara.

I couldn't care for Michael Whalen as Barry—too matinee-idolish. But I liked the rest of the cast very much. By the way—what's the name of that singer who does a spot of crooning on the Barry program? S-well! Which reminds me that Burns and Allen have a winner on their hour, too. And what's HIS name? Either one of these boys has Vallee running two ways for Sunday.

Shirley, however, IS this show. She sings several hummable songs, dances a lot and proves again that the small, lovable child is also a great natural actress.

See you tomorrow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's the hair brush, properly wielded, that puts the gloss on her hair. This brush is inexpensive, efficient and easy to keep clean.

During one of our shopping expeditions the other day we came across one of the nicest inexpensive hairbrushes we've almost ever seen. For one thing, the back and handle are made of a transparent composition which gives the brush a trim, clean look, and also facilitates keeping it immaculate. For another, it's rather a small brush, as brushes go, and therefore a handy size for packing in a suitcase or tucking in a dressing table drawer. Doesn't monopolize space, in short. And, third, it comes tucked into an air conditioned transparent case, where it reposes free from dust between the morning and evening workouts.

This brush has five widely spaced rows of bristles tipping, successively, further outward from the center. The wide spacing is another factor in making cleansing and drying the brush a simpler process, and the slanting of the bristles enables the brush to pick up and polish thoroughly each successive layer of hair from the surface right down to the scalp. The bristles are medium-stiff and medium-long, and, so far as we have been able to determine, completely efficient. A sturdy article despite its more than modest price.

Smart women are again brushing their hair, relying more on their own efforts than those of the hairdresser when it comes to hair beauty. Maybe it's just a case of wishful thinking, but it does seem as though the hairbrush was once again coming into its own, returning to the honored ranks of the employed. And it's also our bet that, such being the case, polished, gleaming heads of hair will be a good deal more in evidence in the future than they have been in the past.

This trim, transparent hairbrush is, as we said before, extremely inexpensive, and may be found in several Chicago shops.

Waller Leads Orchestra in Park Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago Civic Opera orchestra played with infectious enthusiasm in Grant park last night, even though the bulk of the admirably planned program consisted of music so familiar to the men that printed parts were hardly necessary. Conducting this twenty-fourth of the free lake front concerts was Frank Laird Waller, who for some years had the direction of the Milwaukee Philharmonic orchestra.

So potent was the enthusiasm of the musicians that a great many hardened listeners, who felt that they had heard the "Tannhäuser" overture, the slow movement of the Tschaikowsky fifth symphony, and the Polovetzian dances much too often to hope that the pristine thrill of them would ever return, were compelled to sit up and take notice once more of the tremendous creative urge which underlies every one of these much abused works.

Dr. Waller has a gift for getting the most out of an orchestra and yet keeping the semblance of dignified calm. His conducting is fairly quiet, except toward the climaxes of such impassioned things as Isolde's "Liebestodt," and even then he seems as anxious to preserve the tonal beauty of the music in the face of a limitless emotional urge as to build up big effects for their own sake.

Roger Hille sang the spring song from "Die Walküre." He has mastered the essentials of that precise, almost disconnected style which is supposed to keep the taint of sentimentality out of the music drama, but has not followed it to the absurd extremity of those Wagner practitioners who believe that any suavity of delivery, or any lingering over the sensuous beauty of a phrase, is foreign to the composer's spirit.

Hille has a round, even voice and uses it intelligently. He can afford to go even farther than he has in the direction of a clinging legato. The Wagner who conceived the Sigmund of "Die Walküre's" first act will never object.

Margot Rebell brought her agile soprano voice to the tasks which the "Flower Song" from "Faust" impose. So well did the audience receive her work that the show got under way again only with difficulty. At the end of the program came the set of Polovetzian dances, music's supreme gift to the cymbalist.

Word comes from Ravinia park that Tomford Harris made a big success last night with the Chopin E Minor piano concerto, and that he succeeded in blowing the breath of life into its aging measures. Ernest Ansermet performed a similar feat with a much younger but still rather faded work—the Franck symphony. Both Harris and Ansermet received a great amount of applause from a huge audience.

This concert was the second in the gala fourth week of the Ravinia festival.

The wedding will take place at 1250 Judson avenue, Ravinia, where the Adlers are residing this summer.

Black Blouses Will Be Pets of Wardrobes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Midsummer finds that will tempt the most listless shoppers. Remember the cool white embroidered and eyelet organdy peplum blouses that went out so fast a few weeks ago? Now some wise designer has presented interested clothes collectors with some black affairs. Sheer as a chiffon, crisp and smart, they are knockout tops for a slim, cool, fitted black slip, any extra slip that you may have hanging around the house.

Such a blouse and skirt combine makes the airiest concoction you would want for any of the sultry shopping trips into town for afternoon and even for a late dinner.

The sleeves are short and puffed into a fitted band cuff. Bands of plain black organdy outline the entire blouse and another band serves as the narrow upstanding collar. The blouse buttons snugly at the waistline and the skirt section flares out in the newest manner. With a big black hat and white accessories it's bound to be the pet of your wardrobe.

Another find . . . some more of the all-the-year-round handbags made of fine dull texture braid, sewed in concentric oblongs to fashion the bag itself. You'll find huge envelope styles lined with silk the same shade as the braid; strap affairs in flat envelopes [these not so large] with a double zipper closing—a long zipper that opens the entire bag. There is a concealed short zipper that holds the coin slit. The colors are stunning—old gold, sapphire, and navy blue, brown, a strawberry red, henna, yellow, white, a few grays, and some purples. These bags are exceptionally well made, wear practically for years, go with wools, silks, velvets, tweeds, and printed silks, as well as nets, chiffons, or any other material.

Mirror Test Proves Men Have Greater Vanity than Women

Memphis, Tenn., July 24.—(AP)—Men showed greater vanity than women at a public mirror chosen for a survey of impromptu primping.

During an hour 18 men and 17 women stopped for "repairs" before a downtown store's looking glass.

Most of the men, the survey showed,, were "hat puller-downers" and "tie-tinkerers," though a couple of "teeth examiners" were noted.

Boy's Nonsense.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Boy's Nonsense" is a geometric pattern which is almost modern in design, yet is in reality one of the oldest pieced patterns. It was a popular block when unbleached muslin and turkey red were the only combination used for two color quilts. Present day quiltmakers like this design for single beds for boys' rooms. It is set together forming an allover design and finished with a four inch white border and bound with one-half inch red binding. The completed coverlet measures 72 by 104 inches.

De Mille Shows Extras How to Fall Into Mud

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—The great C. B. De Mille lets few occasions pass without being dramatic. He was host to about forty visiting newspaper men at a luncheon and "first day shooting party" on "The Plainsman" set at Paramount. There was a scene requiring Negro roustabouts to slip and fall in the mud as they leaped off a Missouri river steamer. The colored extras did not fall to suit De Mille.

Finally, his voice raging, the director-producer, a fashion figure in sage green whipcord pants, shiny puttees, green silky looking shirt, yelled, "Here, do it like this." He took a jump off the gangplank and hurled himself, face down, in the mud. The colored boys looked sheepish and did it right.

Maureen O'Sullivan had to have her left leg treated for bites and scratches yesterday because a parrot from the "Tarzan Escapes" set attacked her. Nurse Peggy Coleman cauterized the bite and cuts.

There was lots of informal excitement on the set of "Libeled Lady" at Metro where Bill Powell, Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, and Walter Connolly began work. It was about 97 on the sound stage. Miss Harlow was having her maid wrap a big chamois about pieces of ice, then wring the chamois out and apply it to the back of the Harlow neck and shoulders.

Tracy came along, grabbed the chamois without wringing it out, and dropped it deftly down the back of Powell.

Since his "comeback" began in "Hollywood Boulevard," Jack Mulhall has been getting increasingly important rôles, having been in "Murder with Pictures," "Wives Never Know," and "Wedding Present." He now is cast for "Big Broadcast of 1937." All pictures in which he plays are at Paramount.

Ruth Chatterton and Paul Lukas were playing a scene in a garden of a Swiss villa in "Dodsworth" at United Artists in which she expresses concern over a letter received from her husband in America. A wind supposedly from Lake Geneva, in reality from the off stage wind machine, blew across their faces. Lukas said, "Give me the letter." He snapped out a cigaret lighter, touched the flame to the paper, and, half burned, it fell from his hands as the script indicated, while Ruth and Paul melted into each other's arms.

But the wind machine was prankSome. It whirled the flaming paper in a curious circle and through a window of the villa's music room, where it dropped on a divan. In an instant there was a puff of smoke and a real fire. Fire extinguishers saved the set.

Jean Arthur Injured When 6 Horse Team Runs Away in Film

Hollywood, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Three male extras were hurt, one feminine extra collapsed, and Jean Arthur, film star, suffered shock, a bruised back, and wrenched hip today when a six horse team ran off with the actress holding the reins. The team was hitched to an old style western coach.

Gary Cooper, who comes from Montana and who was sitting on the box of the coach with Miss Arthur, finally pulled the team to a halt after it had raced around sharp turns, grazing trees and slipping on the rocks of the narrow lane along which the scenes were being shot for C. B. De Mille's film "The Plainsman." Miss Arthur was playing Calamity Jane. She received her injuries when bounced and slammed against the side of the driver's box.

The extras got their injuries in trying to stop the team. They are: Earl Askam, bruised right knee, bruised right elbow; William Washington, crushed middle finger of right hand; Edward Brown, kicked on chin by horse. Miss Trenie Varella, collapsed from the shock and heat.

Jimmy Ellison, Helen Burgess, and Porter Hall, players in the film, were inside the careening coach.

WHY A PRIVATE SCHOOL?

John's school work is too easy. He could go faster. Mary's not interested in studies. Both will do better work, be happier in small classes under the personal supervision of competent teachers. Give them a chance in the right atmosphere. SHERIDAN ROAD

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station, where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious gangster, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of rumor that Eden can identify the murderers, Owen Field has her guarded. Raquel Rusak, an older woman, is trying to force Coburn Faraday to marry her. Robin is carrying on a secret flirtation with Sidney Creighton. Eden goes with Garnett to see Gracie Lincoln, now married to Clint Jarvis, a taxi driver, who has been forced to drive the murderers of Grappi. Eden promises to help Clint gain an audience with Mat Burke, district attorney, friend of her grandmother's. On his way there Clint is deliberately run down by a car. He is taken unconscious to a hospital. Garnett brings Gracie Lincoln to Eden's home. Running away from Raquel, Coburn calls at Sidney Creighton's and finds Robin there. She tells him they were married that afternoon. Owen Field wants to marry Eden. So does Jack Garnett. Eden, impersonating Gracie, goes to a hotel room to meet and attempt to trap the suspected murderer.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

A GIRL IN A NIGHTMARE.

She was a girl in a nightmare, Eden Faraday told herself. This was all a fantastic play she was watching. A yellow haired girl with no makeup, her face white, her hair straggling under a dollar hat, riding through shabby blocks, rehearsing over and over the part she was to play.

It was all a wild dream. The sinister looking small hotel where she got out of the car, remembering that she was Gracie Lincoln. She was to ask for a key and go up to a room, turn on the lights, sit on the bed, and wait.

Somehow, by devious ways, Gran would be smuggled in. "I'll do the best I can," Garnett said.

Eden remembered the bleak rainy afternoon in that somber house on Sheridan road, a tap at a high window—would Gran have to climb roofs and drop through skylights? She would not mind. Gran would love doing a thing like that.

The hard part was remembering not to be stonily aloof when the greasy faced man gave her the key.

He said, "Hello, Gracie," and she answered listlessly in Gracie's wan, breathy voice, "Hello, Conrad."

"How's Clint?" he asked.

Eden shook her head, keeping her eyes down.

"Tough," Conrad was consoling.

The place smelled of fried meat and cheap whisky. The elevator bumped and the boy with pimply skin who ran it said, "Eight' floor. Watch y'rstep."

She was in the room. A horrible room. She sat on the bed.

Where was Gran?

She froze. The door knob was turning slowly. Terror raced over Eden. She gripped the side of the bed to keep from screaming.

He would come alone, Garnett had said. This man who was feared by a whole city. It was part of his terrible power that he went about alone.

He wore evening clothes and the whiteness of his scarf gave his face a curiously tawny glow. He looked at her steadily.

Eden said, barely in a whisper, "Hello, Ozzie."

Ozzie Zellner laid his black hat on a chair and closed the door.

"You weren't expecting me, were you?"

Garnett had posted her. Eden said, still tonelessly, "I sent for Monk. Burke is after me. He'll try to make me talk. I've got to get away."

"What about Clint?" Zellner asked.

She shook her head. "An hour or two—maybe," she said. Fear choked her—but that was well. She could not raise her eyes. His were so keen—so dry and searching.

"I hadn't heard that," he said.

Now came the difficult part. Her throat cramped. The words came with difficulty. "Clint talked, Ozzie, before he lapsed into unconsciousness."

The man stiffened and his eyes narrowed. He licked his lips.

"Now," Eden went on, remembering her coaching "they'll try to make me talk."

If he said the wrong thing—if he gave her no chance—the air was taut, her skin prickled. Where was Gran? Where was Jack Garnett? They had no right to leave her here alone with this man with the dead youth horrible in his eyes and old terrors and old hates making his lips move soundlessly.

But fortune was with her. He said, "And what could they get out of you? Nothing! What do you know? Nothing at all. Clint talked, did he? Full of dope and half dead. He raved a little—and now you'll talk, eh? What is this? A shakedown?"

She waited a startled breath. No one had told her what to reply to such a question. She could only go on with the lines she had learned.

She said evenly, "I swept out Clint's car, Ozzie, that next morning after Grappi. I don't blame you for getting Grappi—nobody blames you. But, you know Burke. And if they make me talk—I swept out the car. I found what you lost."

His eyes glittered. He said, "You aren't talking to anybody, Gracie. You aren't telling anybody that I was in that car. I'm the only friend you've got and you know it. But, any funny business and you'll get what I gave Grappi, understand? Be nice to me and I'll get you away tonight. What was it you found in Clint's cab?"

"This," said a cold, steady voice. A man stood in the bathroom door, a blue gun in his hand. A man with a lean, remorseless jaw. "Get 'em up, Ozzie!" he snapped.

What happened then was too swift for Eden's terrified eyes to follow. She saw Ozzie Zellner's hands go up—slowly—too slowly. At his breast his thumbs twitched suddenly and there was a spurt of flame past her face and feathers whirled in the air as a shot tore through a pillow just beyond her head. From the bathroom door the detective's fire had knocked the pistol from Ozzie's hand, and then something small and furious and aflame was in the room and Ozzie Zellner gave one odd scream as something was hurled into his face.

"You will—will you?" Gran's voice shrilled.

Zellner went down to his knees, clawing at his eyes, and choking.

"Scum!" scorned Gran, turning a small scarlet can in her hands, "tie him up, boys. I got him. Red peppers. It always works."

Eden never knew exactly what happened after that. She was aware of buttons pressing into her cheeks, of arms holding her, of a voice in her ear saying over and over, "My God. Eden, he might have shot you."

"He missed," she whispered, then lay back limply, glad to be held, glad to be carried, glad that it was dark—curiously, singingly dark.

Glad, O glad, that this was Jack who was holding her, sure and certain, as she sank down into the pleasant dark, that she wanted to be held forever and forever!

She was at home in her mother's bed when the light came again.

Gran was there, her hat still on crookedly, and Bridget was there, white faced and frigid, scolding them all.

"Such a hideous thing!" Eden heard her mother's voice, "I'll never forgive you, mother—never! To expose a girl to such danger—just to catch a cheap, common murderer—— "

Eden lifted her head. "O, please," she cried in a little wail, "don't call him a cheap murderer. I caught him. I sat there and looked at him—he was frightful!"

Garnett was sitting on the side of the bed. He patted her hand prudefully.

"You caught the most dangerous criminal in Chicago, darling," he said. "You were darned clever about it."

"Gran did most of it—Gran and her red pepper. Where were you, Gran?"

"Outside the door with the elevator boy and hotel clerk and Jack here, waiting. We went up the fire escape and I lost the heel off my shoe. The hotel clerk had it all figured out—— "

"I went to school with him in Willamette," Garnett said. "They're all a little tired of Ozzie—all those boys. But they were afraid to do anything till I sold Burke the idea of pulling off this stunt. And we had to do it tonight because tomorrow Gracie and I were supposed to disappear—silently—I got a grapevine on that."

"From some one else who went to school with you in Willamette?" Eden asked, smiling.

"A lot of people went to school in Willamette."

Anonymously Written Note Is Cowardly

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What do you think of a young man who sends a girl an article, clipped from your column, referring to a girl kissing every boy with whom she has a date, and not signing his name?

"I am entirely innocent of the accusation, and think it pretty cowardly of the young man when he, himself, hasn't any reason for believing I kiss every boy with whom I have a date. Would you give him his walking papers, or would you make him apologize?" Isley.

Anonymous communications are recognized as the work of cowards, Isley, or so-called practical jokers. The practical joker is, to give him his mildest identification, a hateful nuisance. We think an apology would be forthcoming if you know for certain that the particular boy sent that clipping to you. You may be wrong. It is just as unfair to accuse without evidence as to write anonymously.

Then, if you were older, you might recognize in the sending of the clipping a jealous admirer, if fun were not intended. As we have said, it is a crude form of humor, and one not to be recommended ever in the name of hoped for romantic developments. A youth burning up with jealousy might use this means of chastising his girl, when he lacks courage to face her with the charge. While it is still cowardly, there could be a little more understanding brought into the query of why he did it.

Jealousy is so unreasonable that it doesn't need a just cause on which to base its movements. It can make a case out of the victim's own crazy hallucinations. We would suggest, in your case, Isley, that you get the situation cleared up with a frank approach to the young man, and a clear opportunity for him to refute the charge or admit it. Then it will depend on how much you care for him, whether he is reinstated or not.

But we would use the incident as a lesson to other youths and maids not to resort to anonymous communications of any sort.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Invite Him to Party.

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a boy to whom I have spoken only in school. Should I speak when I meet him in the street? I am invited to a party, and each girl is asked to bring a boy. Would it be all right to ask him? IRISH."

Speak to the young man wherever you happen to meet. Yes, ask him to accompany you to the party.

BY MARY MEADE.

Kerplunk! We've landed right in the middle of a batch of bread dough, young cooks, of our Saturday cooking class. You've been asking for it, so here it is. A lesson on making light, golden crusted bread.

We'll make only one loaf this time, for when we've learned to make one loaf successfully we'll know the secret of making several loaves, and we can as easily make clover-leaf rolls, apricot rolls, or pecan rolls from our dough.

All right, let's go! You'd better get an early start because you know that bread made with yeast takes some time to rise. It probably will require about five hours in all to make this bread.

1. Your materials. A large mixing bowl with a cover, a measuring cup and measuring spoons, a flour sifter, a pan in which to scald the milk, and a loaf pan. And in addition one-half cup of milk and one-half cup of water, one cake of compressed yeast, one tablespoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon shortening, and about four cups of flour.

2. Place the milk in the pan and heat it, but do not let it boil. Remove from the fire and add the water [warm]. Now take out one-quarter cup of the mixed water and milk and set it aside.

3. Add the butter, salt, and sugar to the remaining liquid, and let it cool until it is lukewarm.

4. Crumble the yeast into the one-quarter cup of liquid which has cooled until it is just barely warm. If it is hot, it will kill the yeast plants which must thrive and grow if we are to have light bread.

5. When the yeast is dissolved in the milk-water mixture, add it to the first mixture which contains the sugar. Sugar helps the yeast to grow and give off the gas necessary to leaven the bread.

6. Stir in the sifted flour [don't make the mistake of using cake flour, because it won't work for bread!] Mix for several minutes, until the dough works itself into a mass away from the edges of the bowl.

7. Turn out onto a floured board and knead. [Be sure your hands are very clean.] Kneading is done by lifting one edge of the dough, folding it over, and pressing down vigorously with the hands. Repeat this, turning the dough on the board so that you reach all of it, until the mass becomes elastic and small white blisters appear on its surface.

8. Now place it back in the bowl, the sides of which have been lightly greased. Cover, and let the dough stand in a warm place until it has risen enough to make twice as much dough as you started with. During warm weather it is all right to let the dough stand almost any place in the room. The temperature for best rising is 80 degrees. The bread will be coarse if the temperature is too high, or if you let it rise for longer than time enough to double in bulk.

9. When it has risen, turn the dough again onto the bread board and punch it down quickly and gently and shape it into a loaf. Too much punching at this stage will make your bread coarse, too.

10. Place the loaf in a greased pan, brush the top lightly with butter. Cover with a cloth and let the loaf rise again until it has doubled its bulk.

11. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to 350 degrees [moderate] until the bread is done.

Good luck with your bread, youngsters. If you have any questions or difficulties, drop me a card and I'll be glad to help you.

Toscanini to Open Salzburg Festival Tonight with 'Fidelio'

SALZBURG, Austria, July 24.—(AP)—The rap of Arturo Toscanini's baton tomorrow will snap this mountainous resort to attention for the opening of its famous summer music festival.

The opera will be Beethoven's "Fidelio," for decades a favorite of the Austrian people.

Tonight the graying maestro, who retired from the podium of the New York Philharmonic last season, expressed his pleasure at preparations for the festival.

This season Toscanini has a "new dress" for Fidelio, the culmination of his wish for more naturalistic setting.

Lotte Lehmann, Viennese soprano, Alfred Jerger, and Emanuel List, all from the New York Metropolitan opera, will sing leading rôles of the opera.

An unprecedented number of tourists promised to make the annual fête a great success.

Ticket sellers were obtaining double price for the première and reported a complete sellout.

Informal and Comfortable

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The dress illustrated today affords summer chic coupled with cool comfort. The lines of the frock are designed to slenderize, and are so simple that this model is appropriate for many daytime social occasions as well as household hours. The fabric selected will govern the ultimate use of the dress.

The V neckline is bound, and the material used for the binding is continued into a graceful jabot. The cape sleeves fall free over the upper arm, and are cool, as well as slenderizing to the bustline. The belt extends from either side around to the back, and ties in a full bow. The skirt has no plaits, but is cut full. One little pocket breaks the long and slimming line.

There are only two major parts to the pattern, rendering it exceedingly simple to sew. Any of the cotton fabrics and lovely linens are acceptable for this dress. If you intend to make it for afternoon social wear or for town trips, create it in cotton voile print or any other sheer. Select a rather dark shade as the background of the print. If you want the dress for household wear, choose any of the ginghams, percales, and other sturdy cottons.

The original of this model is practical and colorful in aqua blue shantung with white polka dots.

Style No. 3433 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Able to Walk with Cane

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former President, is recovering so well from her hip fracture that she is now able to take short automobile rides near Sagamore Hill at Cove Neck, Oyster Bay, where she is passing the summer. She is able to walk about the gardens with the aid of a cane and brace. Mrs. Roosevelt, who will be 75 years old next month, has been joined at Sagamore Hill by her youngest son, Archibald Roosevelt, while the latter's family is away for a short vacation. Mrs. Roosevelt returned to Sagamore Hill in April after a five months' stay in a hospital at Glen Cove, after a fall in her home.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Max Mendelsohn, 4915 Drexel boulevard, announce the marriage of their daughter, Maxine Isabel, to Charles W. Greengard, son of Mrs. Max Greengard, 1725 East 53d street, on July 16 at the Windermere East hotel. Mr. Greengard and his bride will live at 5496 South Hyde Park boulevard.

Gershwin Will Be Soloist at Ravinia Tonight

Arlington Classic Another Week-End Event.

Louise, and Miss Harriet Welling, who made her debut last winter.

Another dinner before the dance is one Miss Nancy Poole will give, but she and her guests will be late in arriving at the Forgan dance for they are going to the Gershwin concert between dinner and dancing.

Miss Nancy Forgan has three Bennington college classmates visiting here, Miss Alison Green of Great Neck, N. Y.; Miss Elizabeth Mason and Miss Alice Pulsifer of New York. Tomorrow the Wellings are giving a small luncheon at the Shoreacres club for the visitors. The Forgan family is leaving next Friday for Cape Cod to board a boat they have chartered for a three or a four weeks' cruise. Mr. and Mrs. Keith, Miss Keith, and Miss Annie May Henry have changed their vacation plans and instead of going to Bermuda next week they are leaving on Aug. 6 to spend three weeks at Banff.

Miss Poole is leaving on Aug. 1 to visit a Sarah Lawrence college classmate, Miss Louise Mead, on Cape Cod, and in the autumn she will enter the University of Chicago. Her sister, Mrs. Murray Washburn Jr., with Mr. Washburn and their baby are at Lake Lure, N. C., spending a fortnight with the senior Washburns.

Mrs. Winfield Ellis is giving a dinner party tonight to celebrate her husband's birthday, later taking her guests on to the Gershwin concert.

Popular Artists Appear at Ravinia Tomorrow.

Ravinia Park is certain to have a good audience tomorrow afternoon when Henry Weber will be the guest conductor and his wife, Marion Claire, and Joseph Vito will be the soloists.

Next week will be the fifth and final one of the Ravinia season and Werner Janssen will be the guest conductor at all four concerts—Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings, and Sunday afternoon.

Arlington will close next Saturday, when the rich Futurity will be run, and the next Monday, Aug. 3, the season at another Chicagoland jocky club, Washington Park, will start. Many of those who have had boxes at Arlington will have boxes at Washington Park.

Reception Tonight for Gen. Kilbourne.

In the city tonight an interesting social event will be the military reception the Army and Navy club will give for Maj. Gen. Charles Evans Kilbourne, new commander of the Sixth corps area. Rear Admiral John Downes, in his capacity as honorary chairman of the club, will head the receiving line, which is scheduled to form at 8:30 o'clock.

The reception will be held in the ballroom of the Lake Shore Athletic club, in which club the Army and Navy club has its quarters, with dancing later on the roof top Casino-in-the-Air.

The John R. Nicolsons are entertaining at the Skokie club tonight following the Gershwin concert for Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Smith, who have just returned from a visit in Southampton, N. Y.

Tomorrow night there is to be a buffet supper and musical at the Skokie club, preceded in the afternoon by a tennis match between Miss Evelyn Bouscaren and Allan Wylie of the Indian Hill and Miss Lucy Jane Hedberg and Loring Fiske of the home club.

Medinah Choral Club.

The Medinah club's Ladies' Choral club will hold its first dinner party tonight at the club's Tropical room. The choral club has fifty members.

According to CULBERTSON

TRUMP MANAGEMENT.

The trump suit is like a fortress sprawled across the card table. Behind it declarer mobilizes his forces and establishes his tricks. That is why the first concern of the defense against a low contract is with the trumps. Get them out of the way and the game can go on. Ignore them and declarer succeeds in his plans.

There are two ways of getting trumps out of the way. Leading them out, and forcing them out with side suits. The correct method against a high contract generally is to force them out, against a low contract to lead them out.

Note the devastating effect of the trump leads in today's hand, helped a little by weak play on declarer's part.

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	2 di. [1]	2 sp. [2]
Double [3]	Pass	Pass	Pass

[1] South should have bid two no trump.

[2] A pointless overcall. If East has a fair hand West will make a part-score, if East has a "bust" West will be ruined.

[3] North's game is uncertain, the penalty sure.

North opened the nine of diamonds, dummy covered with the jack, and South won with the queen. Seeing no threatening side suit South promptly returned a trump. North won with the queen and returned a low trump, declarer winning with the nine.

West decided to go after the clubs, but North stepped up with the king and returned a diamond. And West made the fatal error of ruffing. A second club lead was taken by the ace, and North cleared all of the trumps. Declarer cashed his club, but then he was through. North had two heart tricks and South's diamonds accounted for the rest.

In all declarer won only three trump tricks and a club. Had he started the hearts instead of the clubs, or had he discarded instead of ruffing the second diamond, a fifth trick could have been brought home.

But, in either case, North and South would have been contented. It pays to give up a nonvulnerable game to collect 500 points. And, if you should ask North and South, they would tell you that it is even better to collect 700 from a careless declarer.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: The wrong player made the opening lead and, although I was supposed to be dummy, my partner began to put down his cards on the table. What are we supposed to do then?

Answer: The lead stands as regular and your partner's hand becomes the dummy. You become the declarer and the rest of the deal is played normally.

Exercise and Keep Away the Dress Shopping Day Blues

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As we have stated before, there's nothing like a dress shopping day to bring a fat hoarder to time! Even under the most pleasing of silhouette circumstances, trying on new clothes reduces the average woman to a state of dejection comparable to no other experience. I've been with beauties who voiced the same strictly feminine groan about how awful one looks and feels during the process. Tiredness from the unaccustomed standing, the disheveled hair, the discouragement of not getting just what you want all help in the general let down.

But if you add to these things the knowledge that your size is going up, a nice little quiet spot under the green sod seems a desirable resting place. If, in the course of your bad moments, a fitting is arranged and your measurements are given aloud so that you hear another inch or two added to the bust measure, waist and hips, you and the snake have reached about the same ground level.

This brings me to a heartbroken groan heard in a fitting room the other day. The bust and waist measurements hadn't varied much from last season's shopping days. But the lower back and thigh measurements took on shockingly developed proportions.

The client, it developed, had been in an automobile accident two years ago. It wasn't serious, but the woman had managed to use it as an alibi for constant sitting, sitting and sitting. She admitted this quite honestly herself. Her surprise was in discovering in actual tape measure findings how this lack of exercise had affected her from the waist down. "Who can get a dress with buttocks like that" she cried. That lower back protuberance is the hardest test to which to put a new dress. It will ruin the trickiest import.

But why stand for it? You CAN flatten the derriere part of your anatomy with comparative ease. But it's got to be exercise. Here's one sample of what will do it. Sit on the floor with your legs stretched forward and "walk" across the room and back on your buttocks. I have several other fine exercises for this figure defect for which I'd suggest you send, so next dress trying season you won't go through the last-time blues.

Teen Age Child Should Have a Summer Hobby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How to keep the boys and girls in their early teens constructively occupied during the summer is a real problem. The following suggestions may be termed a practical answer to this puzzling question.

Girls encouraged to sew simple garments often discover a real talent for needlework and dress designing, or through doing over her own bedroom, making draperies, or even painting her furniture, a young lady may find she has a knack for interior decorating.

A boy, in replanning his own room just as he wishes it, may find he has a way with tools and lumber. And the young gardener who delights in planting and caring for a little patch of ground should not be discouraged.

Then, of course, there always are books and music—either the making of it or the listening to it.

Many boys and girls have learned in the summer time that they can act or have a gift for constructing costumes and scenery.

The making of simple ship and airplane models is enjoyed by countless boys.

Weaving, sewing, knitting, wood carving, the making of linoleum blocks, are some of the crafts that interest both boys and girls.

Many children, given the opportunity, find release for real artistic talent. But they must have something at hand with which to work. Such materials as paints, pencils, and crayons, clay [the plastilene type is best], drawing paper, etc., lead to constructive enterprise.

Also summer is a wonderful time to discover the world of nature—animals, birds, trees, flowers—to learn to know it as well as to love it.

Sally to Announce Circus Guests in Tribune Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

There'll probably be a grand rush for the THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE in many a household tomorrow, because there are a great number of boys and girls who'll be waiting for important news.

Smitty and Dick Tracy probably will be neglected briefly until all the youngsters who wrote for invitations to our next party go through the lists of winners to see if they're included. My column will carry the names of 100 boys and girls who will be my guests at the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus next Thursday, July 30, and the children selected probably will wake the entire neighborhood in their glee.

Of course, every child who requested an invitation couldn't be invited, so there may be a few long faces, but the news of the next party should be enough to bring back the grins and set you kids to chewing the ends of your pencils while you plan your letters for the Aug. 6 party.

Personal invitations will be mailed to the winners within the next few days, so if any of you notice that your address is printed incorrectly please let me know immediately.

Midnight Cruise.

The Atereth Zion Juniors of the Atereth Zion congregation, 1132 North Spaulding avenue, will take a cruise at midnight tonight on board the Roosevelt.

U. S. IS LEADING ALL NATIONS IN NAVAL BUILDING

95 Ships Under Way or Appropriated For.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Speeding to build its navy to the full strength authorized by existing navy pacts before they expire Dec. 31, the United States is leading the world in naval construction.

The naval intelligence division today published figures showing that the United States now has 95 fighting ships of 287,915 tons under construction or appropriated for, and is entitled to convert 44,510 more tons into warcraft before the year's end.

The report shows that the world's six naval powers are engaged in building up their fighting fleets by the following new construction, actual or appropriated for:

	Ships.	Tonnage.
United States	95	287,915
Great Britain	66	225,096
France	39	194,098
Germany	39	130,250
Italy	38	112,344
Japan	34	93,907

Many Near Completion.

The navy reported on July 1 that 79 ships of 265,515 tons now are actually under construction, many nearing completion. All ships provided for in the building program are scheduled to be on the high seas by 1942.

Ships under construction and planned include three aircraft carriers, two heavy cruisers, nine light cruisers, 63 destroyers, and 18 submarines. The navy now has 324 ships of 1,080,715 tons.

The British admiralty has announced that, as quickly as the present navy pacts end, they propose to lay down two new battleships, with construction expected to begin early in 1937.

More Are Projected.

Admiral William H. Standley, acting secretary of the navy, has let it be known that when Great Britain begins construction, the United States plans to start building two of its own to replace over age fighting craft and match the British.

Great Britain has 64 ships of 225,096 tons under construction or appropriated for. The new British warcraft include two aircraft carriers, 16 light cruisers, 35 destroyers, and 11 submarines. The British now have 307 ships of 1,224,329 tons.

Japan is adding to its navy of 213 fighting craft of 772,797 tons by building 34 new ships of 93,907 tons, including two aircraft carriers, four light cruisers, 20 destroyers, and eight submarines.

French Navy Increased.

The French navy of 178 ships of 558,452 tons is being increased by the construction of 39 new vessels of 194,098 tons, including four capital ships, five light cruisers, 20 destroyers, and 10 submarines. France, under the present treaty, also is permitted to lay down 52,000 more tons of capital ships and 37,854 tons of aircraft carriers by the end of the year.

Italy, with 191 ships of 403,865 tons, is building 38 warships of 112,344 tons, including two capital ships, two light cruisers, 18 destroyers, and 16 submarines. The Italians also have the right to convert 105,000 more tons into capital ships, and 60,000 tons into aircraft carriers before Jan. 1.

The Germans are now engaged in doubling their present naval strength by constructing 39 warships of 130,250 tons, including three capital ships, three heavy cruisers, 16 destroyers, and 17 submarines.

ASK TO ADOPT THE CHILDREN OF THEIR WIVES

Two men appeared in the Circuit court yesterday to adopt children of whom the petitioners' wives already were legally the parents.

One applicant is Attorney Bernard Walter Vinissky, 1540 Lake Shore drive, who filed a petition to adopt Klari and Manzi, 11 year old adopted daughters of his wife, the former Jennie Dolly of the Dolly Sisters' dancing team. Roszika Dolly, the other sister, is now Mrs. Irving Netcher. Mrs. Vinissky adopted the girls in Budapest, Hungary, in 1932, and it is necessary that her husband do likewise if they are to be his legal heirs. There will be a hearing on Vinissky's petition Tuesday.

The other foster father is Judge Robert Jerome Dunne of the Municipal court, whose petition to adopt Albert Edward Pyott, 5 year old son of his wife, Margaret, by a former marriage, was granted by Judge George N. Blatt of Joliet, sitting in the County court here. Mrs. Dunne, the former Margaret Meyercord, was the wife of Albert Robinson Pyott, who died in 1931. She was married on June 26, 1935, to Judge Dunne, who is a son of former Gov. Edward F. Dunne.

THEY'RE SAVING MYRTLE TILL GUS CAN ENJOY SOUP

Turtle soup was on last night's bill of fare in Gustav Beran's tavern at 2758 South Spalding avenue after all. But Myrtle the turtle, who caused the hospitalization of Mr. Beran by ducking her head when he went to shoot her on Thursday, thus causing the bullet to pierce Mr. Beran's right foot, was not in the soup tureen.

Myrtle, true to Mr. Beran's instructions, was saved for Mr. Beran's disposal when he is released from St. Anthony's hospital. A luckless substitute was made into soup in her stead.

"There'll be no miss next time," Mr. Beran vowed, "even if I have to go at Myrtle with a pair of hedge shears. But I'll say definitly that shooting is out."

FIRE THROUGH TAVERN WINDOW.

Police yesterday were seeking four men who, early in the day, cruised past the Broadway Club tavern, 4433 Broadway, and fired four shots through the window. George Strickler, the owner, was in the place at the time. He could offer no reason for the attack.

GERMANY DODGES REPLY TO BID FOR LOCARNO PARLEY

Nazis "Sympathetic," but See Delay.

BERLIN, July 24.—(AP)—The German foreign office, through an authoritative spokesman, revealed today that it viewed "sympathetically" the tripower invitation to participate in a new Locarno conference.

"Naturally Germany's reply to the invitation needs careful thought," the spokesman said.

"In the absence from Berlin of both Der Fuehrer and Baron Konstantin von Neurath, minister for foreign affairs, it must suffer some delay."

Parley Set for Fall.

An invitation to both Germany and Italy to attend the session, probably in September or October, was extended yesterday in a communique following a meeting in London of representatives of Great Britain, France, and Belgium, the other three signatories of the original Locarno pact.

"The general aim of the proposed conference, with peace as its object, evokes sympathy with us," the spokesman continued.

"There must, however, be a detailed discussion of these aims. There must be a solid, careful preparation of the proposed conference before there can be hope for its success.

"Three foreign envoys who visited us this morning put seven questions before us which need the most careful study."

Old Questionnaire "Dead."

Asked how this invitation affected the question of Germany's reply to the questionnaire submitted by London some weeks ago, the spokesman said:

"Without wanting to commit Der Fuehrer, I think I can say Germany regards the London questionnaire now rather obsolete."

[The British questionnaire was dispatched to Germany to determine what further steps could be taken to insure European peace following a meeting of the Locarno powers with exception of Germany on March 19, a session called to determine Europe's peace status after German troops marched into the Rhineland on March 7.]

"So many positive things have happened since it was placed before us," the spokesman added, "It rather looks like ancient history. However, if a compelling reason turns up why the reply should be given, we shall feel free and at liberty to answer."

NO-BILL VOTED BY GRAND JURY IN PWA CASES

Jamestown, N. Y., July 24.—(AP)—A federal grand jury, investigating charges that a conspiracy existed to defraud the government of PWA money in the Buffalo and Niagara Falls sewer projects, returned a no-bill in both cases to Federal Judge John Knight here today.

The jury reported this afternoon that hearing testimony from 14 witnesses in both cases yesterday and Tuesday. William W. Barron, attorney of the department of justice in Washington, conducted the investigation.

Barron said the Buffalo case was based upon a sworn affidavit by Joseph H. Acheson, representative of a New York engineering firm originally retained as consultants in the $15,000,000 Buffalo project, but later ousted by the Buffalo sewer authority.

Acheson's affidavit charged Mayor George J. Zimmerman with official misconduct in conducting the affairs of the sewer authority and declared that a conspiracy existed to defraud the government in the selection of a consulting engineer.

Early this morning roustabouts will begin erecting 31 huge tents to house the show. Among the acts that are expected to get the most attention from youthful circusgoers will be a herd of pygmy elephants. Along with them will be another herd of African pongurs, tiny beasts of burden making their Chicago début.

Indians and rough riders led by Tim McCoy, aerialists, clowns, and all the circus trimmings will be seen in afternoon and evening shows from today through Aug. 2.

Peoria Backs Peters

PEORIA, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—Mayor E. N. Woodruff today proclaimed Saturday "Marty Peters day" in Peoria. Peters, an end at Notre Dame, is a Peoria boy and the city is making a united effort to win him a place on the All-Star squad for the game against the Detroit Lions. Theater lobbies have been turned over to Peters' boosters for the last three days.

BY ARCH WARD.

Today is your last chance to help your favorite player earn a place in football's super spectacle, the third annual All-Star game between the Detroit Lions, world professional champions, and the College All Americans. The polls close at midnight. Tabulators will spend tomorrow and Monday counting the last day's ballots, and your All American team will be announced Tuesday morning.

The voting has been so heavy the last 48 hours that it is impossible to predict accurately the final makeup of the team that will represent the colleges at Soldiers' field, Sept. 1. In some communities almost the entire population has cast ballots. In other centers, particularly where there have been great organized efforts to put over certain candidates, votes have been held back. These must be released today.

Total Vote May Be 3,000,000.

The national standing this morning approximates 1,950,000 votes. The final figures are sure to approach 3,000,000. No sports event in the history of America has had so many taking an active part in its direction.

The poll for a staf of coaches to lead the college players will open tomorrow and continue for two weeks. You are invited to name three coaches in the order of your preference. First choice will count three points, second place two points, and third one. Total points decide the winner. There are no restrictions on your selections. They may come from the east, the south, the Pacific coast, or the middle west. They may be from big schools or little schools, from winning teams or losing teams. Your preference is all that counts. Whoever they are, they must use as a starting lineup the players you have chosen in the poll closing tonight.

Sports editors of Minneapolis and St. Paul newspapers anticipate an avalanche of last minute votes for Minnesota players. Votes throughout the state are solicited by ballots printed in newspapers, petitions distributed by loyal boosters, by hotels, theaters, golf clubs, railway stations, and tourist bureaus. The Beardstown, Ill., Boy Scouts have completed a house to house canvass in behalf of Willis Munger of Illinois college, whose home is in Beardstown. More than 5,000 of the 6,111 inhabitants have voted for the Little Nineteen conference star. Thousands of additional ballots came in for Munger yesterday from Bloomington, Peoria, Springfield, Decatur, and Chicago.

Berwanger Holds Lead.

University of Chicago alumni are working diligently to keep Jay Berwanger in first place among the half backs. John J. McDonough, vice president of the Chicago Alumni club, in turning in a package of votes yesterday, said: "The alumni are behind him to a man, and we certainly want to see him in that starting lineup." Berwangers' lead over Shakespeare of Notre Dame is less than 3,500 this morning.

The Gary Post Tribune, which has turned in more votes than any newspaper in the country outside Chicago, expects to have 50,000 more from the

SOX TO START SERIES TODAY WITH YANKEES

Vastly Improved PaleHose Tackle Leaders.

Climb to 3d Place

THE White Sox went into third place in the American league yesterday as a result of the Boston Red Sox's victory over the Detroit Tigers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Now the White Sox, up out of the baseball grave and raising Ned with the entire league for the last three weeks, will have another turn at trying to bring back New York's Yankees to a normal level.

The Yanks, leading the circuit with a comfortable margin but nevertheless worried about their pitchers, will be at Comiskey park today for a single battle. They'll be at the same place for a twin struggle with the gay Sox tomorrow, an event expected to attract 50,000 spectators.

The Sox, although not opposed to a three game sweep, will willingly settle for two victories in the three battles. Two triumphs would mean another series of which they have won six in a row. And two trimmings for the Yanks would bite another piece from their first place edge.

Recent Record a Dandy.

The Sox now boast a three weeks record that eclipses even their early splurge last season. They got underway with 4 victories in 5 games with Cleveland at the conclusion of their last home stay. In the east they captured 11 games while losing 2, one at Boston July 9 and one at New York July 12. They took two out of three in the Washington series which ended here Thursday with Vernon Kennedy registering his 13th triumph of the season and his ninth in a row.

A lot of words touching on hitting and fielding have been used to explain the current flare up but there's one other factor of consequence in the revival of the Dykes brigade. The boys have been fielding. They've not only been dodging errors most of the time, but actually producing fielding sparklers. All this is very pleasing for the pitchers and they hope it continues.

Zeke's Fielding Improves.

Nobody ever nas accused Zeke Bonura of being important defensively. The winning bug has bitten the big Italian so severely that he's knocking down base hits with the grace of a Charley Grimm at his best. Luke Appling's phenomenal hitting has submerged the fact that he has been sensational at shortstop. Jack Hayes has been going at his peak around second, a pace that is keeping Tony Piet, supposedly the regular occupant, on the bench. And Uncle Jim Dykes isn't doing badly at third base.

The outfield has shown the same defensive improvement. In some way Rip Radcliff learned that it is not especially difficult to catch a fly ball. Larry Rosenthal, the rookie in center, is proving himself a real fly hawk. Mule Haas, until an injury removed him several days ago refused to let anything drop safely in his territory. Mike Kreevich, the Mule's understudy, gummed up a couple of tall ones in the Thursday game, but there was some excuse for it. He's playing with a bad ankle.

Rosenthal Is Hitting.

Rosenthal also has been producing as a hitter. During the first portion of the eastern trip he was good for only one hit in 23 times at bat. But in the last ten games he has hit safely 21 times in 46 times at bat, a total of 22 hits in his last 69 times at bat. That's almost as good a pace as that maintained by Appling who in the same 16 games notched 26 hits in 68 times at the plate.

The Yanks will be greeted this afternoon by the ancient Ted Lyons who shut them out, 5 to 0, two weeks ago at New York.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CLASSICS VI., VII.

THE sixth Arlington Classic was run in 1934, that year in which A. G. Vanderbilt's now great handicapper, Discovery, made a practice of chasing home in second place, behind the Brookmeade stable's Cavalcade.

Despite Cavalcade's formidable record, eight others sought to encompass his defeat at Arlington Park, but the public had so little confidence in their ability to do so that the Brookmeade colt was 1 to 3 in the mutuel betting.

Previous to the Classic, Cavalcade had won the Chesapeake, Kentucky Derby, finished a nose behind his stablemate High Quest in the Preakness, and then taken the American and Detroit Derbies.

Growler, by sufferance, was the early pacemaker of a mile run in 1:36 3-5, with Cavalcade back in the rear guard. As the field of nine approached the home turn, however, Cavalcade was moving up in his accustomed cyclonic style. As they straightened out for the stretch run the race really was over.

Cavalcade, with Mack Garner aboard, won by four lengths, with Discovery second and Hadagal, from the Calumet farm, third. Others finishing were Riskulus, New Deal, Growler, Howard, Thomasville, and Good Goods.

Cavalcade paid $2.74 to win with net value to the winner $30,325. Time was 2:02 4-5.

Omaha last year was nearly as great a standout in the seventh Classic as Cavalcade had been the year before. Although second in the Withers Mile to Rosemont, he had earned brackets in Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Dwyer. Omaha was 2 to 5 in the mutuel betting, with the Bradley entry of Black Helen and Bloodroot second choice at 4 to 1. Ten accepted the issue.

St. Bernard, accompanied by the sweet filly Black Helen, Florida and American Derby winner, set the pace for the first mile run in the sizzling time of 1:35 4-5. Then Jocky Wayne Wright issued Omaha's challenge and he passed the tiring field to assume the lead about the eighth pole, winning by 1½ lengths, although never entirely eased up, as St. Bernard and Bloodroot held on gamely, finishing in that order with the tired little Black Helen fourth. Next in order were Skip It, Count Arthur, Chief Cherokee, Roman Soldier, Tearout, and Malbrouk.

Omaha paid $2.80 with net value to the winner $28,975. The time of 2:01 2-5 set a new stake and track record.

DODGER FINAL RAINED OUT; CUBS FACE PHILS TODAY

Davis to Pitch Against Old Mates.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24.—All the pitching Curt Davis ever did against the Phillies was in batting practice. Then, of course, he was dressed in a Philly costume. Tomorrow he will pitch against them in vital competition, and you may be sure his current associates are hoping the batting practice motif will be absent at all times.

Davis was to have pitched today's scheduled final with the Brooklyn Dodgers, but that game was postponed because of an early morning rain. While the Brooklyn magnates probably forgot all about it at the time of today's postponement, they discovered later that it will be possible to play off the postponed encounter as part of a double-header on Sept. 13. That date, by happy coincidence happens to be a Sabbath, thus affording the Dodger clientèle a chance to while away a long afternoon at a season when they may be tired of surf and green.

Grimm to Return to Action.

Tomorrow will be notable for a reason other than that it will see the debut of Davis against his former comrades. The afternoon will mark the sixth 1936 renewal of Manager Charley Grimm's career as a first baseman.

Manager Grimm, in announcing his return to the lineup said: "I still have some misery in my back, and I am afraid I won't be able to follow through in my socking very well. The misery does not interfere with my fielding, and I hope to be able to steady the infield, which has been jittery recently for certain reasons I do not care to review just now. I'll stay in the lineup just as long as I can, and think I'll be of some service, even if I don't do much hitting."

Though the Cubs were a trifle sad over having dropped yesterday's game to the miserable Dodgers, there was enough really hard smacking in the latter stages of the game to convince many that the protracted batting slump is over, or about over.

Play Double-Header Tomorrow.

Sunday the Cubs will engage in one of the two double-headers scheduled for this trip. Larry French will face the Phillies in the first game and Lon Warneke will work the other. Each will be seeking his eleventh victory of the season. None of the Cub pitchers has won eleven victories thus far, but five have a chance to do it before the team returns home. Lee, like French and Warneke, has won ten games; Tex Carleton has failed in his last two attempts to win No. 10, and Davis missed a chance to ring up his tenth the last time out.

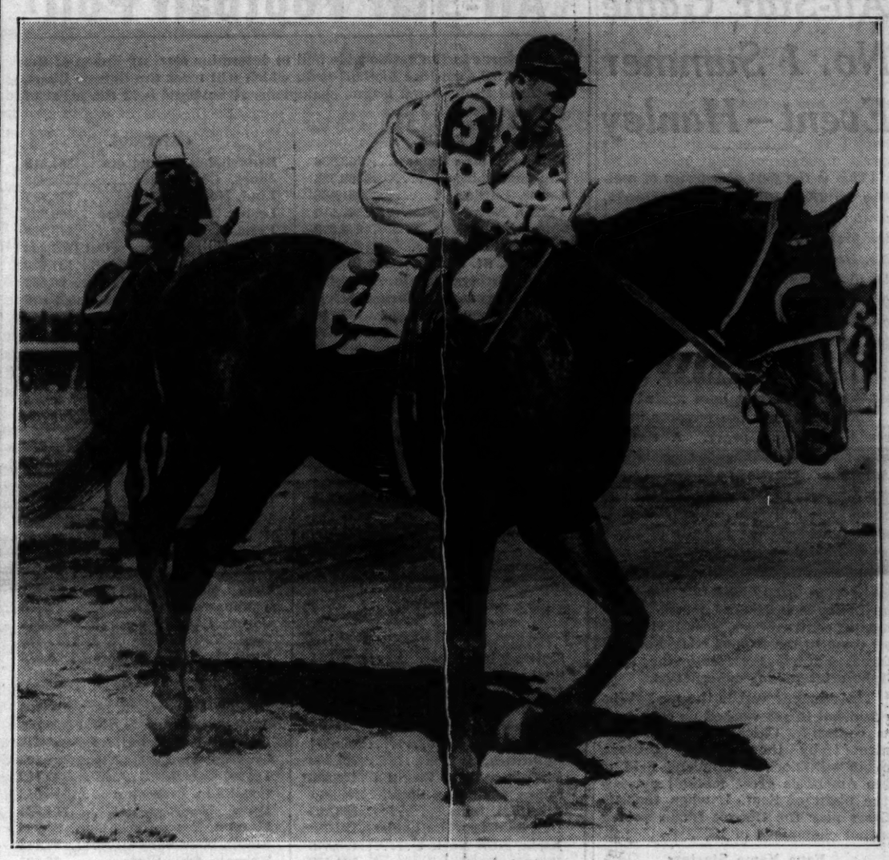
CLASSIC FAVORITE AND HIS RIDER



Granville, William Woodward's speedy three year old, favorite in the $30,000 Classic stakes at Arlington Park today, with Jocky Stout up. Stout will pilot the eastern thoroughbred in his quest for the three year old championship, which may be decided this afternoon. Granville's leading rivals in the big race are Mr. Bones and Hollyrood. [Acme Photo.]

Riders in Big Race Predict Close Finish

America's star jockies with mounts in the Classic expect one of those nose finishes which have marked all the big 3 year old specials this year. Comment of the riders follows:

Jimmy Stout, who will ride Granville: "I'll keep Granville in position to challenge in the stretch. I think the horse is tops of all the three year olds."

Johnny Gilbert, pilot of Mr. Bones: "I'm not satisfied that Granville is superior to my mount. We'll reverse that Belmont decision conclusively." [Granville beat Mr. Bones by a nose in the Belmont.]

Georgie Woolf, up on Hollyrood: "Duval Headley will saddle one of America's best money horses. Watch our smoke!"

Nick Wall, who will ride Floradora: "We have a game mare in this race that proved her class by beating Mr. Bones last Saturday. Now we'll take Granville."

Les Balaski, jocky on Isolator, stable mate of Granville: "Don't be surprised if we fool you."

Morrie Peters, who will ride Memory Book: "The steady improvement will be climaxed by a victory in the Classic."

Eddie Arcaro, who'll hold the reins on Count Morse: "If conditions are right, Count Morse goes to town. He's a grand colt."

Alfred Robertson, up on Carvola: "This may be our day to upset the predictions."

Jocky Joe Rosen, up on Sir Jim James: "They're saying it's 50 to 1 against us. But remember the Louis-Schmeling fight!"

Twogood, Iowa Star, Will Coach Quintet at Idaho

Pocatello, Ida., July 24.—[Special.]—Forest Twogood, former University of Iowa star athlete, today was appointed varsity basketball coach at the University of Idaho at Moscow. Twogood, until recently a member of the Southern California coaching staf, succeeds Rich Fox, who resigned after coaching Idaho for nine years.

AUSTRALIA AND ENGLAND MEET FOR DAVIS CUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, July 24.—England tomorrow will open defense of its Davis cup championship against Australia on the courts at Wimbledon. Two singles matches are on the opening day's program. H. W. [Bunny] Austin, England, will meet Jack Crawford, Australia, while Fred Perry, star of England's forces, will oppose Adrian Quist, Australian champion.

The Australians surprised tennis experts by naming Quist on the team instead of Vivian McGrath. Quist was injured on the opening day of the interzone finals with Germany, and has played little tennis since. The doubles match will be played Monday, while the final two singles will be decided Tuesday.

Max Baer Knocks Out Williams in First Round

Ogden, Utah, July 24.—(AP)—Max Baer, former world heavyweight boxing champion, wound up his comeback conditioning tour with a first round knockout of Bob Williams of Houston, Tex., here today. Baer scaled 217; Williams, 223. Buddy Baer floored Fay Ferrecki, of Pasadena, Cal., also in the first round. Each weighed 245.

Bad Luck Dogs Tigers, Even to Flag Ceremony

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Misfortune that has dogged the Tigers all season prevented them from raising their first world championship flag at Navin field today.

The American league pennant was hoisted without mishap, but a gust of wind caught the huge world championship flag—18 by 36 feet in dimensions—when it was half way up the flagpole in center field. The rope snapped and the flag fluttered to the ground as the crowd of 15,000 gasped. It will be raised tomorrow.

Following the flag ceremonies, K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, presented rings or watches to the individual Tigers as tokens of their world series victory over the Chicago Cubs last fall.

First Baseman, Hank Greenberg, who has been out of service since late April with a wrist fracture, also received a plaque as the most valuable player in the American league last season.

William A. Harridge, president of the American league, attended the ceremonies. Mickey Cochrane, the Tiger manager who has been under observation in Henry Ford hospital since Monday, was present, but not in uniform.

3 YEAR OLDS TO BATTLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Granville, Mr. Bones Renew Rivalry.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The last of the racing year's great intersectional battles between the 3 year olds—the $30,000 Classic stakes—will be run at the Arlington Park Jocky club's course at about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

When it is over the champion of the year may be proclaimed. If not, then the title situation will be so muddled that there just won't be any 3 year old champion of this particular American racing season.

Eleven were named overnight to be tested over the gruelling mile and a quarter route. A victory by any one of three in that field—Granville, Mr. Bones or Hollyrood—will send them tripping up to the title throne. A triumph for any of the others will stir the entire 3 year old mess up so badly that it may never look like anything again.

Easterners Expect Victory.

Wise Guy Charlie Knickerbocker shook the wrinkles out of his well cut trousers after he stepped out of a plane from New York yesterday and delivered himself of the opinion that this eighth Classic is strictly a New York affair. Granville, Mr. Bones and Memory Book will be the first three colts across the line of finish. He gives no consideration whatever to any of the others because most of them do not hail from New York and are just camping out anyway.

The westerners believe that Charlie Knickerbocker might be talking through his hat and that he may return to New York tonight with a rather thin bankroll if he bets like he's been talking ever since he arrived in town.

It was the running of the historic Belmont stakes in New York that convinced the easterners that the final battle for the 3 year old title had developed into strictly a two horse affair between Granville and Mr. Bones.

That day the easterners watched these two colts come down the stretch inches apart. They saw Granville gradually drive his way to the front and finally win by the length of his nose after a photo finish.

Weights Favor Mr. Bones.

Those colts carried equal weights in that mile and a half struggle. Today there's a five pound pull in Mr. Bones favor and the easterners who are quite apt at figuring percentages believe that five pounds will bring the downfall of Granville today and at the same time it will send Mr. Bones up to the head of the class.

This may happen but the westerners shout an emphatic "No." They go back in their turf history books only a week and find out that 3 year old filly by the name of Floradora, a wild stretch running daughter of Bull Dog-Gentle Play, came up from behind in a mile and an eighth race at Arlington last Saturday afternoon, ran Mr. Bones into subjection and went on to beat him by three lengths.

These same westerners watched Hal Price Headley's colt Hollyrood run a scintillating race at Hawthorne about a month ago while he was winning a renewal of the Chicago Derby. They know all about the final Classic prep of Count Morse—a mile and a quarter in 2:05 3-5—and realize that this highly bred colt at last has reached top form.

Expect Crowd of 30,000.

They are not pinning much hope in many of the other western representatives, but they do believe that these three in particular—Count Morse, Floradora, and Hollyrood—will let Mr. Bones and Granville know that they have at least been in a horse race.

It is expected that 30,000 or more will look on as the Classic is run this afternoon. The clamor for box and reserved seats, all of which had been sold, gave rise to the suspicion that the crowd may even go beyond that of the Arlington record breaker of 42,000 on July 4.

In the Belmont Stakes Mr. Bones made the running from the start until he finally was collared by Granville within the shadow of the finish line.

The Classic may be similarly run for Jocky Jimmy Stout who will be in the saddle on Granville has already announced that he will make no attempt to outrun Mr. Bones in the early stages of the race.

Sparta Has Early Speed.

But Mr. Bones may have other competition during the early furlongs. The Headley filly Sparta, running mate of Hollyrood, is one speed demon which is expected to go along with Mr. Bones. Count Morse ran eye for eye with him for the first mile of that mile and an eighth race which Floradora won a week ago. Sir Jim James has a burst of early speed and so has Isolator, the running mate of Granville.

If eleven go to the post this afternoon the race will have a gross value of $36,425 with the winner taking down a prize of $28,900.

HOMER CLARK, 16, BREAKS 97, WINS IN ZONE SHOOT

Beats Best Trap Shooters in Country.

Homer Clark Jr., of Alton, Ill., a 16 year old trapshooter who won the world's junior championship with a hundred straight hits at the Grand American at Dayton, O., last August, carried off the central zone preliminary shoot at the Lincoln Park Gun club yesterday when he scored 97 out of a possible 100. His performance topped a field of the greatest shots in the country which included Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro, O., the national champion; Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., and Gerald Batten, Chicago.

Arie, who has won every national championship at clay targets, came through with 96 out of 100 to carry off second honors, while D. Flewelling of Harvey, Ill., took third place with 96.

Arie Wins in Class A.

In class A Arie was the winner with 96 out of 100. Dr. O. B. Hinz of Oshkosh, Wis., was awarded B honors when he scored 94 out of 100. A Hollywood, Fla., shooter, Dr. A. B. Connor, landed the C class championship with 91 out of 100. Dan Rice of Wheaton scored 88 to win the D class honors.

The preliminary handicap contest of 50 targets was taken up by big George McDermott of Waukegan, when he scored 46 out of 50 in the regular event and 47 out of a possible 50 in the shoot—off to defeat Ray Falcon, Evanston; Hiestand, Hillsboro, O., and Walter Wojceihoski of Chicago, who had tied him in the regular card. Falcon took second place.

Hiestand Wins Doubles.

Hiestand, the national doubles champion, came through with colors flying in the preliminary doubles competition when he shattered 23 out of 24.

Today's program calls for the central zone doubles championship of 50 pairs, the La Salle hotel hundred and the central zone handicap of 100 targets, 17 to 24 yards rise.

ALLISON TO GIVE UP PLAY IN BIG TENNIS TOURNEY

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison, the veteran Texan who captained America's unsuccessful Davis cup team, said today he was through with serious tennis and would not defend his national singles championship at Forest Hills in September.

"I doubt if I ever play in the nationals again," he said, "and international tennis definitly is out."

Bothered by a pain in his right leg whenever he ran or made any sudden movement—an injury he thought he suffered in Philadelphia during the North American zone finals a few weeks ago—Allison came here for a physical examination following his arrival in New York yesterday, after an ill fated invasion of European tennis courts.

While the injury isn't serious, Allison said, an operation has been advised and may be performed this fall.

All-Star Game No. 1 Summer Event—Hanley

BY DICK HANLEY.

"What! Football here again?"

Thus the sports fan remarks as he reads the sport pages. A sizzling major league pennant race is on. Arlington's Classic is at hand; America's Olympic representatives have disembarked and are quickly losing their sea legs. Yet in spite of these all engrossing seasonal interests, millions are voting for their college football heroes in an effort to place them on the college All-Star squad. Arguments, controversies, sectional pride all come to the fore as King Football forces himself back into the spotlight after a long hibernation.

The amateur versus the pro! Who could fail to get worked up over such a contest? Chicago fandom, augmented by thousands of visitors, again will flock to Soldiers' field to see America's great football preview the night of Sept. 1, when the All-Stars play the Detroit Lions, professional champions of 1935.

Fans Name Starters.

And frankly they will get a definite run for their money, for after all the collegians are their team. For the first time the eleven starting men will be those who receive the largest number of votes. Truly, it can be called America's All-American. Collegiate football may have turned loose at one time or another a greater crop of seniors than the recent graduating classes, but if so it is beyond my memory.

Likewise, professional football need offer no apologies for its representatives. The Detroit Lions have everything that champions are expected to have—color, speed, ability to handle the ball on intricate double lateral and forward pass plays, rugged defense, and team spirit.

The best way to get a line on the Lions is to compare them with the Chicago Bears, pro champions in 1933 and 1934 and the team which tied and defeated the college All-Stars in the two previous games conducted by THE TRIBUNE. The difference between the Lions and the Bears might be likened to the broad sword and the rapier. Or better yet, the puncher to the boxer. But that it not football language. The Lions are faster than the Bears. They lack much of the Bears' rugged power, but do not get the idea that they do not carry plenty of dynamite.

More Dangerous on Attack.

The Lions handle the ball back of the line of scrimmage a great deal more than George Halas' squad does. Their attack is much more diversified and is likely to please the crowd more than the relentless power house attacks employed by the Bears. They have more nifty open field runners and thus they are much more likely to break through for a long scoring run.

All of which indicates the character of the job confronting the Collegians and their coaching staf. However, the Collegians will be equal to any task put before them and put them under the guidance of any of America's premier football coaches and the pros will have their hands full.

I cannot help but envy the Biermans, the Laydens, the Thornhills, the Bells, the Schmidts, the Waldorfs, or any of the fine array of coaches available whose good fortune it may be to handle this enthusiastic group of seniors for two weeks. It is definitly one of the finest coaching memories I have.

I cannot help but thank the fans who afforded me a position on the staf during the first game, and so loyally supported my cause last year. However, I have now joined you as a La Salle street coach.

Purdue Plans $500,000 Gym and Fieldhouse

Lafayette, Ind., July 24.—[Special.]—Purdue university hopes to begin construction work on a $500,000 field house and gymnasium within the next few weeks. The building will take the place of the present outgrown Memorial gymnasium, and will provide for basketball and indoor track meets.

Memorial gymnasium was erected more than 30 years ago as a memorial to the football players who were killed in the wreck of the Purdue Special on the way to the annual Purdue-Indiana game at Indianapolis in October, 1903.

Pool to Have Eight Lanes.

The field house will stand at the northeast corner of Stadium avenue and University street, just south of the Ross-Ade stadium and directly north of the old Stuart field. The gymnasium will be 210 by 110 feet, and in addition to courts for intramural basketball, handball, and squash, will contain an Olympic swimming pool, 210 by 75 feet, which will have eight lanes.

Field House to Seat 10,000.

The field house in the rear of the gymnasium will be 302 feet long and 172 feet wide, and will seat 7,500 for basketball games. This capacity could be increased to 10,000. Ample room will be provided for indoor track meets and large university gatherings.

The financing of the project is to be taken care of by gifts, an appropriation, and a federal grant.

BAN 7 INNING SECOND GAMES IN ASSOCIATION

Columbus, O., July 24.—(AP)—President George M. Trautman of the American association banned today seven inning association games as part of daylight double-headers.

The second games of several recent association double-headers have been cut to seven innings by agreement of both teams.

Trautman said that the only exception would be at night and then only when notice had been given a day in advance. The ruling, he added, would not apply when games are called because of Sunday closing laws in Indiana and Minnesota.

MRS. REINHARDT, MISS INGRAM TO MEET FOR TITLE

Clash in 18 Hole Final of District Golf Today.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt Jr. of Northmoor will meet Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge today in the 18 hole final match for the 1936 championship of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at the Westmoreland Country club. The championship battle will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

While Miss Ingram was eliminating Mary Louise Gardner of Indian Hill, who had been one of the sensations of the week's play, by a 2 and 1 margin in one of yesterday's semi-finals, Mrs. Reinhardt, one time runnerup for the women's national crown, continued to exercise the jinx she holds over Rena Nelson of Exmoor by defeating the latter, 1 up, in a struggle which went the full eighteen holes.

Third Victory Over Miss Nelson.

It was the Northmoor star's third victory in three years over Miss Nelson, who won the C. W. D. A. crown in 1934. Two years ago, in the semi-finals of the state tournament, Mrs. Reinhardt won, 4 and 3, and last year she defeated Miss Nelson, 1 up in 19 holes, during the third round of the women's western open.

Yesterday Mrs. Reinhardt was 1 up at the turn in their match, but Rena rallied on the back nine until she was 1 up at the 17th tee. She lost that to square the match, and then put her third shot to the home hole into a trap, taking a six and losing the contest.

In the other semi-final Miss Ingram held a 2 up advantage by rounding the ninth in 41, two over par, against Miss Gardner's 43. They traded the 10th and 11th, and after the Sunset Ridge golfer had lost the fourteenth, she came back to birdie the sixteenth and halve the seventeenth to end the match.

Here Are the Cards.

The cards for the semi-final matches in the championship flight follow:

Par—Out	455	434	455—39
Par—In	454	445	535—39—78
Mrs. Reinhardt—Out	555	435	644—41
Miss Nelson—Out	466	335	555—42
Mrs. Reinhardt—In	554	455	535—41—82
Miss Nelson—In	454	346	546—41—83

Mrs. Reinhardt wins, 1 up.

Miss Ingram—Out	545	534	555—41
Miss Gardner—Out	456	535	555—43
Miss Ingram—In	545	466	44
Miss Gardner—In	465	456	64

Miss Ingram wins, 2 and 1.

In the championship consolation final today Louise Johnson of Mohawk, winner in the Tribune's first free golf school four years ago, will meet Mrs. Floyd Hunt of Exmoor. Miss Johnson defeated a clubmate, Mrs. Pearl Indig, 4 and 3, in one of yesterday's semi-finals, while Miss Hunt moved up with a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. O. C. Bell of Edgewood Valley.

Mrs. Norton Wins Title.

In the first flight final Mrs. Vilas Norton of Glen View defeated Helen Peterson of Exmoor 1 up in 19 holes. The first flight consolation final round went to Mrs. E. L. Mayo of Skokie, who defeated Mrs. Hunter Dickson of Flossmoor, 1 up.

Results of other subordinate flights follow:

Second flight—Phoebe Nelson of Indian Hill defeated Mrs. C. B. Willard, Exmoor, 2 and 1.

Second flight consolation—Mrs. H. D. Dutting, Bunker Hill, defeated Mrs. J. F. Buckridge, North Shore, 1 up in 20 holes.

Third flight—Sue Vilas, Glen View, defeated Ada Rew, Glen View, 1 up.

Third flight consolation—Mrs. Philip Lenz, Beverly, defeated Mrs. C. J. Del Vechio, Mohawk, 4 and 2.

Fourth flight—Elizabeth Paine, Evanston, defeated Mrs. L. A. Goldstein, Sunset Valley, 5 and 4.

Fourth flight consolation—Mrs. R. D. Shaw, Indian Hill, defeated Mrs. Lucille McDermott, Westmoreland, 7 and 6.

Fifth flight—Mrs. E. A. Balgeman, River Forest, defeated Sonia Nash, Sunset Valley, 2 and 1.

Fifth flight consolation—Mrs. Eugene Cary, Knollwood, defeated Miss S. F. Gallagher, Mohawk, 3 and 2.

Germans Ask U.S. to Forgive Eleanor Holm

was called in for a conference with Brundage and ordered to respect the training rules or take the consequences.

Yesterday, however, she attended another party which started in the afternoon. In the evening, despite the advice of friends, she insisted on promenading on the deck. There she encountered Mrs. Ada T. Sackett of Atlantic City, one of the chaperons of the team. This meeting led ultimately to her dismissal.

Brundage today gave no indication that the committee had weakened in its stand.

"No Alternative," Says Brundage.

"We had no alternative under the circumstances," he said. "No one regrets the necessity of such drastic action more than I and my associates, who considered all possible grounds for leniency and found none on the basis of reports from the chaperon, team managers, and physicians. Mrs. Jarrett forced our hand and I don't see how we could have escaped censure if we had acted otherwise."

After establishing herself in a Berlin hotel and flatly refusing to start back for the seaport to take passage aboard the Bremen as the committee had requested, Mrs. Jarrett announced that she would continue her fight for reinstatement. She admitted that she had been drinking but said that she was now ready to abide by all training rules.

Wants Another Chance.

"All I want is one more chance to show that I can take it and make good," she said. "I talked for an hour with committeemen on the train from Hamburg, but I feel that they are unwilling to change their minds unless additional pressure is brought to bear. I've taken it on the chin, but I haven't taken the final count yet. I still hope I will be given another chance. I'm delighted my teammates are willing to back me up and I feel the petition they circulated should have some effect with the authorities."

In stating her case before the subcommittee aboard the train to Berlin, Mrs. Jarrett said:

"I know I've been drinking too much and I'm all wrong. I can't put into words how badly I feel now. I didn't realize how seriously the offense would be regarded.

Enjoys Night Life.

"I've been night clubbing and having a good time for the last three years, always doing as I pleased, going where I liked, drinking what I wanted and when I wanted.

"The night before the final tryouts I was up all night on a party with my husband but won the race the next day. I'm on the spot now. If I get another chance I'll follow training rules."

Mrs. Jarrett combined night club work with swimming. She appeared as an entertainer with her orchestra leader husband, Art Jarrett, in theaters and clubs of Chicago and other cities.

Veteran of Olympics.

She has competed in two previous Olympic games and it was considered certain that she would retain the 100 meter backstroke championship that she won in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles. In addition to eleven accepted national records for backstroke events from 100 yards to 220 yards, Mrs. Jarrett holds the world record for 150 yard backstroke, and the Olympic record at 100 meters. Her world mark in the latter event is now up for consideration by the International Amateur Athletic federation.

Whereas some of the coaches were inclined to side with the athletes in supporting Mrs. Jarrett, Dean Cromwell, University of Southern California track coach, thought the committee had acted justly.

"She asked for it," Cromwell said. "In fact she begged for it. If it just had been one time it would have been different, but it had been going on for a week. Of course I feel sorry for her now, but it's her own fault."

When Cromwell was asked if the ship's waiters could have been ordered to refuse her drinks, he replied:

"That was tried but she said she was free, white and 22 and demanded them."

Dr. Graeme Hammond of New York, president emeritus of the American Olympic association, talked with Mrs. Jarrett and then made a personal appeal that her case be reconsidered.

Coach Defends Her.

"She deserves punishment for her misbehavior, but many of us feel she's being made the goat for other but less conspicuous offenders against disciplinary orders," one athlete stated.

Lawson Robertson, head of the men's track and field squad, said: "Mrs. Jarrett is getting a rough deal."

The Jarrett case stole the show from the two receptions—one at Hamburg and the other at Berlin—which otherwise would have dominated the day's events. Representatives of the Hamburg senate extended greetings and Brundage replied. A police band played German and American anthems.

The civic welcome in Berlin attained greater proportions. Brundage, first off the train, was kissed on the cheek by Duke Adolf Friedrich von Und Zu Meckelburg, a member of the international Olympic committee. The athletes then got off and were greeted by other Olympic officials and Frank Lee, secretary of the American embassy. The squad then proceeded to the city hall for more ceremonies.

"UNFAIR"—HELEN HAYES

LONDON, July 24.—Helen Hayes, well known actress who, together with her husband, Charles MacArthur, was aboard the Manhattan on its voyage with the American Olympic team, today expressed indignation at the action of the Olympic committee in dropping Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett from the squad. MacArthur was among Mrs. Jarrett's escorts at one of the parties that led to the swimming star's dismissal.

"I think the action taken by the committee was unfair," Miss Hayes said. "I observed no drinking or keeping of late hours by any member of the team. They're a grand bunch of kids. If they want a witness let them call me."

POLES DROP ATHLETE

WARSAW, July 24.—(AP)—Zygmunt Heljasz, former Polish shot put champion, was dropped today from Poland's Olympic team because of an infraction of rules.

Heljasz, who tossed the 16 pound ball 15.99 meters [52 feet 5¼ inches] in the tryouts, finished ninth in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

Mother Prays Eleanor Will Get Into Games

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Eleanor Holm Jarrett's mother tonight expressed the fear that if she were barred from Olympic competition it might "mark a turning point in her life."

"Eleanor has devoted the major part of her life to swimming," Mrs. Charlotte Holm said, "and during all these years her conduct has been above reproach. She has contributed a great deal to American sports and has given her best at all times as is evident by her past performances in representing the United States in 1928 at the age of 13 and again in the Olympics in 1932.

"It is my honest belief that if Eleanor is not allowed to compete it will mark a turning point in her life. I am hoping and praying that the committee will see fit to reverse its decision and allow Eleanor to represent the United States."

HUSBAND DEFENDS ELEANOR

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Art Jarrett, orchestra leader and the husband of Eleanor Holm Jarrett, said today that he would be waiting "with open arms" to greet the disbarred Olympic swimmer on her return to this country.

Interviewed at the Long Island Country club where he is vacationing, Jarrett expressed keen disappointment over the affair, but said he had no criticism of the American Olympic officials for taking the action against his wife for drinking "if they felt it was necessary."

"It may have been necessary for the morale of the team," he continued, "but it means the loss of the best swimmer on the team. Eleanor isn't a ten year old any more. She's been around long enough to know how to handle herself. She always seems able to win even if she doesn't go in for the heavy training of some of those athletes."

Jarrett said he saw nothing wrong in his wife's drinking champagne if she wanted to.

"They ought to give some more of those swimmers champagne," he said. "Maybe they could win a couple of races."

WHITE AND WOOD TIE WITH 137 IN VANCOUVER GOLF

Vancouver, B. C., July 24.—(AP)—Orville White of Chicago and Freddie Wood of Vancouver led the field in the qualifying round of the jubilee $5,000 open golf tournament today with 36 hole totals of 137.

Lawson Little, former British and American amateur king, equaled the course record with a 64 on his second round today and set a record of 29, eight under par, for the outgoing nine. He clipped another stroke off par early on the incoming nine and wound up with a 35. Little shot a 78 for his first round, giving him 142.

Wood led the field by a stroke on the first round with a 67 and added another sub-par score of 70 today. But White, starting with a 69, breezed home in 68 to tie for the medal.

MOTOR BOATS TO RACE TODAY FOR GOLD CUP

Speed Over 90 Mi. Course at Lake George.

Bolton Landing, N. Y., July 24.—(AP)—As George Reis worked to reassemble the motor of his 14 year old El Lagarto, seven other highly tuned speed boats went through their final tests today in preparation for the renewal of the gold cup race over Lake George's triangular course tomorrow.

Reis dismantled the motor of the boat which has won the trophy the last three years to determine whether it had been tampered with when somebody entered the boathouse through the double padlocked door.

No Evidence of Vandalism.

Reis said there had been no evidence of vandalism. He had torn the motor down, however, as a precautionary measure.

Meantime, clear skies and ideal boating conditions were forecast for the 90 mile test in America's blue ribbon speedboat classic after a day of heavy rain that prevented final tuneups and put a damper on last minute preparations.

Seven boats representing the most modern developments in marine engineering are scheduled to compete for the 32 year old silver urn which is insured for $17,000, and end El Lagarto's domination.

Kay Don in Race.

Outstanding among the challenging pilots is Kay Don, famous British speedboat driver, who will sit behind the wheel of Harold E. Dodge's Delphine VIII., British built Detroit entry.

Other entries include the midget Torbellino, driven by Arthur L. Bobrick of Long Beach, Cal.; Jay Dee Too, a few contender built and driven by Jack Dunn of Miami, Fla.; Miss Canada II., to be piloted by Harold S. Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., first dominion entry since 1924; Impshi, 11 year old craft driven by Benny Hill of Detroit, Mich.; Ma Ja II., owned and driven by John M. L. Rutherford of Palm Beach, Fla., and the 10 year old Notre Dame, owned by Herbert Mendelsohn of Detroit and to be driven by Clel Perry.

HISTORIC CANAL COULD BE MADE VACATION SPOT

Becker Sees Possibilities in Old Waterway.

BY BOB BECKER.

After piloting THE TRIBUNE 16 foot canoe over the part of the Illinois and Michigan canal that has enough water in it for canoeing, we jotted down notes about the recreational possibilities of the historic, but obsolete, old barge route. When we wrote these notes our canoe was in Ottawa and we were several miles below that city looking out on a beautiful lotus bed that has in some magical manner taken over the canal right of way for at least a quarter of a mile. Hundreds of big lemon colored lotus flowers now lift their heads above the shallow water in the canal at this point.

Sitting on the old tow path that is today a shady trail because of many tall trees growing close to the water we put down these observations on the waterway:

Banks Beautifully Wooded.

1. The 90 foot canal right of way from Channahon on Westward could be made one of the most interesting canoe routes in the state if a constant supply of clean, unpolluted water were provided for the old waterway. The curving route of the canal, the picturesque old locks, wooded banks, and isolation of the waterway combine to make it attractive to the canoeist.

2. Given ample water the canal should attract hundreds of Boy Scouts every year for canoeing, camping, and bird study trips. The heavy stand of trees and shrubs along much of the canal right of way is today a haven for birds, including several species of herons, sandpipers, ducks, and many kinds of song birds, including indigo buntings. Scouts traveling down the canal not only could secure an interesting lesson in history, but also climax the trip by a visit to Starved Rock State park, which is across the Illinois river from the canal between Ottawa and Utica.

Unfit for Game Fish.

3. We couldn't help but think about the possibilities of the canal for fishing, especially from the beautiful Channahon park down to La Salle. If the waterway were given a house-cleaning and plenty of clean water it could be a fishing spot for thousands of anglers, just as the Hennepin government owned canal 75 miles long now gives fishermen a lot of fun, because it is stocked with a variety of game fish. Because of water conditions now we doubt if anything but carp and bullheads could live in the Illinois and Michigan canal.

Could Be Ideal Spot.

4. The fun that the rehabilitated canal could give thousands of picknickers, week-end campers, and tourists who want a shady retreat for a few days and a place to swim, canoe, or fish seems to us unlimited. The national park service already has established an extensive recreational area along the canal between Channahon and the Aux Sable lock. Here are shelters, walking trails, fireplaces for cooking, and other facilities for the outdoor fan, all placed in beautiful timber and attractive surroundings. What has been done here is an example of how the at least 50 miles of the canal might be improved for recreational purposes in case the state puts plenty of water in the canal, repairs all the waste gates that now allow a lot of water to run out of the waterway, and cleans up the bed of the canal to remove obstructing sand bars, old snags, and other unsightly debris.

Case Ace Wins Futurity Test in Fast Time

The biggest weekday crowd of the Arlington Park season got a glimpse of the fastest 2 year old that has been shown here so far this season in the 5 furlong feature race yesterday.

Case Ace is the youngster's name and he races for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, Milky Way farm stables. He broke in front and stayed there all the way to beat a band of Futurity eligibles easily by three lengths. He dashed over the five furlong route in :58 2-5, which tide the Arlington track record held by Col. E. R. Bradley's Black Helen.

Case Ace, a son of Teddy-Sweetheart, now looms as a powerful candidate for the $6,000 Arlington Futurity to be run one week from today. It was his second start and he has won both engagements.

Mrs. Mars paid $10,100 for the colt at the Saratoga auctions last August. She bought him from the Meadowview farms of Kentucky.

In the second best race of the day 2 year old fillies were the attraction. It brought an easy victory for Jewell Dorsett, the New England filly, which finished second to Apogee in the Lassie Stakes of last Saturday. She was in front nearly all the way and was an odds on favorite in the betting. She ran her 5½ furlongs in 1:05 3-5, which wasn't far off the track record.

Washington Park condition books will be distributed to horsemen Monday, Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan announced yesterday. The registration blanks are already in the hands of horsemen.

Charley Bidwill was on hand to see his 3 year old Gyral come from behind and win the Algonquin, which was a dash at a mile over the Hertz course.

The North Western railroad will operate a dozen or more special race trains to the track today. The first will leave the Northwestern station at 12:30 o'clock.

SCHRADER DRIVES IN BIG CAR RACE AT LINCOLNWOOD

Gus Schrader of Cedar Rapids, Ia., will make his first appearance of the season here tomorrow afternoon in the big car auto races at the Lincolnwood Motor speedway, Lincoln and Devon avenues. Other drivers entered are Fred Tegtmier, Cotton Grable, Ernie Butler, Slim Rutherford, Charles Frain, and twenty others.

The record of Grable, who last week sped forty laps in 29:06.31, is not expected to stand, because of the improved condition of the track. Hundreds of gallons of oil has been poured on the surface to pack it down and make it faster.

Seven events featured by a forty lap race are on the program. The time trials start at 12:30 p. m., with the first race getting under way at 2:30 p. m.

Joliet and Herrin Reach Legion Baseball Finals

Champaign, Ill., July 24.—(AP)—Joliet and Herrin reached the finals of the American Legion downstate junior baseball tournament, to be played tomorrow, by eliminating Kankakee and Galesburg today. Joliet beat Kankakee, 12 to 11, while Herrin defeated Galesburg, 5 to 2.

Chicago Cricket Club Ends Tour; Beats Flint, 93 to 73

Flint, Mich., July 24.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cricket club, playing the last of its nine game tour, defeated the Flint Cricket club by 20 runs today. The score was: Chicago, 93; Flint, 73.

GRAIN MARKETS LOWER DESPITE BAD CROP NEWS

Corn, Wheat, Oats Sag; Rye Rises.

Grain markets developed a decidedly reactionary trend yesterday, with speculators paying little attention to unfavorable reports on the domestic corn crop and steady deterioration in the Canadian northwest.

Closing trades in all grains were near the lowest levels of the day. Losses in wheat ranged up to 2 cents, July corn was off 2⅝ cents and oats declined about 1 cent. Rye developed independent strength, with the July option advancing 1⅝ cents, due largely to short covering.

Aggregate trade in grain futures yesterday was regarded by pit brokers as the smallest in some days. Local operators were more inclined to take the selling side than recently.

New Buying Is Lacking.

Failure of the markets to attract new buying despite the continued unfavorable crop comments resulted in commission houses selling both wheat and corn in small lots in a persistent manner. This was regarded as profit taking, although in wheat there was some hedging pressure.

Weather conditions continue to play an important part in shaping the trend of the corn market, and bullish enthusiasm was dampened to a considerable extent yesterday by the forecast for showers and cooler weather over a considerable part of the surplus producing states. An estimate that the Illinois crop would be around 260,000,000 bushels, or 71,000,000 less than indicated on July 1 and comparing with 319,000,000 bushels harvested in 1935, fell flat as a market influence.

Expect Lower Corn Estimate.

The report, however, was regarded as confirming the views expressed by some traders that the Aug. 1 reports would suggest the prospective corn crop for the country had been reduced about 500,000,000 bushels during the last month.

Closing trades on the September delivery of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.03½	$1.05¼	$1.04	$0.94¼
Corn	.87¼	.89⅝	.89⅞	.84½
Oats	.36½	.37⅜	.39⅝	.30⅝
Rye	.72⅝	.71⅝	.72¼	.63½

Continued wet weather in Europe was again a factor in advancing wheat prices in Liverpool, where all deliveries sold at new highs for several years and closed with net gains of ¼ to ⅞ cent. Lack of an aggressive export demand at Winnipeg, however, resulted in the Canadian market closing 1⅝ cents lower. Kansas City and Minneapolis declined over 1 cent.

SOME CORN GETS RAIN

Heavy rains fell in parts of Indiana, Ohio, and southern Michigan Thursday night and in many instances the precipitation was regarded as sufficient to prevent further deterioration in the corn crop. There was no change, however, in the pessimistic character of the reports from the more western states.

R. O. Cromwell, crop expert, in a message to Lamson Brothers & Co., from Cedar Rapids, Ia., said there was less damage to the crop between Des Moines and Cedar Rapids, a distance of 160 miles, than further west. Early corn is badly damaged, and only a few scattered kernels were to be found on the ears in the more southern part of the territory.

Iowa weather stations to July 19 averaged 26 consecutive days without as much as one-quarter inch of rain, Cromwell said, whereas normal July precipitation should average one inch per week. Therefore, he says, each 100 degree day from now on will do considerable more damage than a 100 degree day in the last heat spell. Corn not yet damaged is in a critical condition.

Preliminary reports to the United States weather bureau indicate rainfall in Ohio, Indiana, northern Illinois and North Dakota from July 1 to July 21 averaged about 40 per cent of normal; Minnesota, 25 per cent; Wisconsin and Michigan, 20 to 30 per cent; Iowa and South Dakota, 10 per cent; Nebraska, 15 per cent, and Kansas and Oklahoma, 20 per cent of normal.

Examination of corn fields in the Fort Dodge-Waterloo, Ia., district by H. C. Donovan, crop expert, revealed there were many earless stalks, and heavy rains must come soon, he says, to check deterioration.

TWO MORE STEEL MAKERS ADOPT OVERTIME PLANS

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 24.—[Special.]—The Bethlehem Steel corporation and Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation today announced they had established systems of weekly overtime wages for mill workers similar to that adopted by the United States Steel corporation and other companies.

Criticized by Union Organizer.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Philip Murray, director of the steel organization campaign, today said the wage adjustment ordered by the United States Steel corporation was "merely another strategem" intended to "discourage unionization."

Acceptance Rates Raised by Discount Corporation

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—The Discount corporation, a leading dealer in commercial acceptances, has raised its rates on 30 to 120 day bills 1-16 per cent. New rates are 3-16 to ¼ per cent for 30, 60 and 90 days, and ¼ to 5-16 per cent for 120 days.

U. S. Carries Utility Act to Highest Court

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—The government carried to the Supreme court today its fight to have the constitutionality of the public holding company act of 1935 tested through the Electric Bond and Share case instead of through the lawsuits brought by the North American company, the American Water Works and Electric company, and five other utilities.

Solicitor General Reed filed with the high court a brief asking for a reversal of the action by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in upsetting the District Supreme court order staying proceedings in the suits of the North America and American Water Works companies until the Electric Bond and Share case had been concluded.

The latter case, said Reed, would "more certainly provide a speedy and effective adjudication of the validity of the act by this court."

Legal Battle Long Standing.

The legal controversy over the method of testing the holding company act has been going on for months. All the cases concern the government's power to make the utilities register with the Securities and Exchange commission as part of the act, but the administration insists upon the Electric Bond and Share case is best suited for a real determination of constitutionality.

More than forty suits were brought in twelve federal courts during November and December, 1935, just as the act was to go into effect. Seven were brought in the District Supreme court. These included the North America and American Water Works cases.

"Each of these suits involved questions which would require decision in each of the others," the government's brief said.

Hopes to Avoid Many Suits.

"The trial and preparation for trial of these suits, each of which was of the magnitude of an important antitrust action, would necessarily have been protracted, and would have necessitated an elaborate examination of intricate intercorporate relationships, consuming a great amount of time and effort of the courts, as well as of the parties."

Therefore, "to avoid clogging the court's calendar with a multiplicity of suits, prosecuted for a common purpose and to promote orderly and economical judicial administration," Attorney General Cummings on Dec. 7, 1935, moved that the District Supreme court stay its proceedings in the cases until the Electric Bond and Share case had been finished. The government had already filed its suit against Electric Bond and Share Nov. 26.

Utilities Fight Back and Win.

The way was granted but the utilities, fighting back, went to the District Court of Appeals, which on June 22 held that the lower court had exceeded its authority in granting the deferment.

Reed said the government "had taken every possible precaution to safeguard the rights of the holding companies," while the New York test case was awaiting decision. The District of Columbia Appellate court, however, ruled that the companies would suffer from any delay, because "the very existence" of the act would "materially affect the conduct of their business."

This decision reversed a decree by Justice Jennings Bailey of the District Federal court, who had ordered a postponement of the injunction suits pending a final judgment in the Electric Bond and Share case.

Celotex Buys New Jersey Plant to Make New Product

Celotex corporation has purchased the Metuchen, N. J., plant of R. J. Scott & Co., manufacturers of asphalt roofing material, Bror G. Dahlberg, president of Celotex, announced yesterday. He said this new property will be used for the manufacture of new products now under development. Although the capacity of the New Orleans plant was recently increased, it was not sufficient to meet increasing demands for the company's products, Dahlberg asserted.

WESTERN RAILROADS CUT RATES ON FEEDS SENT DROUTH AREAS

A slash in freight rates on hay and feed for starving cattle of the drouth stricken areas of the northwest was announced yesterday by railroads of the Western Trunk Line association.

Reductions of 33⅓ per cent on hay and 50 per cent on roughage will be inaugurated as soon as necessary tariffs can be filed with the interstate commerce commission, probably within a few days.

The same rates became effective yesterday on the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Milwaukee and Soo lines in Montana, North Dakota, and some sections of South Dakota.

Yesterday's action will extend the rates to other parts of South Dakota and Wyoming and will be offered by all roads in the western territory.

The reductions were asked by officials of the administration's drouth relief program at a meeting here yesterday. The way for the cut was cleared by a commerce commission ruling in Washington on Thursday permitting special rates up to Dec. 31.

The 33 per cent cut will apply to various grades of hay—alfalfa, millet, soy bean, cow pea, pigeon grass, and other wild grasses. The 50 per cent reduction will affect such roughage feeds as beet tops, cactus, corncobs and stalks, ensilage, fodder, stover, sorghum cane, and straw, including bean and pea. The hay rate includes vegetable meals such as soy bean and flaxseed.

Illinois Roads Tell Gains from Pickup Service

Twelve class 1 railroads in Illinois increased their less than car lot freight business 47,903 tons in May over the same period last year through the use of pickup and delivery service, L. W. Wettling of the Illinois Freight association testified yesterday at the interstate commerce commission's hearing before Examiner H. W. Archer in the Hotel Sherman. The increased revenue amounted to $483,634, Wettling said.

The commission is hearing testimony on the plan of eastern railroads to establish free pickup and delivery service similar to that offered by the western lines.

Freight Revenue $4,889,137.

The Illinois roads were the Santa Fe, North Western, Great Western, Burlington, Milwaukee, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Toledo, Peoria and Western, Illinois Central, Illinois Terminal, Louisville and Nashville, and the Mobile and Ohio. Their combined tonnage of 454,002 produced revenues of $4,889,137, compared with 406,679 and $4,405,503 in May, 1935, Wettling said.

George Jeck, trafic officer of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, introduced figures to show that of the $92,507 increase in its less than car lot revenue for May over last year $32,688 remained after payment of $59,818 for pickup and delivery drayage.

Cites Trends in Freight.

Other statistics introduced by Jeck, disclosed that carload tonnage decreased constantly from 1929 through 1933. Less than car lot tonnage decreased from 1929 through 1935. In the first five months of 1936, however, with pickup and delivery service, the railroad's less than car lot trafic gained 9,898 tons over the same period of 1935 and revenues increased $118,796.

P. H. Coon, assistant general freight agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, introduced exhibits to show that the road's less than car lot tonnage in the first five months of 1936 was 13,892 tons above the same period of 1935. The average cost of pickup and delivery service for the Missouri Pacific in the period was $155,372 or $1.18 per ton.

The hearing was adjourned to Aug. 5 in Washington.

NAME RECEIVER TO COLLECT BANK CLAIMS IN EAST

A receiver was appointed yesterday in New York to collect claims of the defunct Chicago Joint Stock Land bank against 85 firms and individuals in New York City and vicinity to the extent of their stock holdings, or about 13,000 shares of the 40,000 share total. Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe named John H. Amen as receiver after he was told that a number of the stockholders were willing to settle in full but were in doubt about whom to pay.

A judgment suit against 342 stockholders of the bank residing in Illinois amounting to $100 a share for their holdings is now pending before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The bank was formed in 1917 and sold $42,000,000 of bonds, investing the proceeds largely in Illinois and Iowa farm mortgages. It closed in 1932.

Chicago Stock Exchange Has 127 Firms as Members

The Chicago Stock exchange yesterday issued the midyear edition of its directory, showing 127 brokerage firms are members of the exchange, of which 84 are located in Chicago and 43 elsewhere. Individual members total 383. Of these, 280 are located in Chicago and 103 outside of the city. The 127 member firms have 548 branch offices located throughout the United States, Canada, and in several foreign countries.

Stock Exchange Seat Transferred to Boylan

A membership on the New York Stock exchange has been posted for transfer by John G. Curtis to Robert P. Boylan, president of the Chicago Board of Trade. Curtis is a partner of Clement, Curtis & Co., brokers, and Boylan will become a partner Aug. 1.

RAIL FREIGHT TRAFIC DECLINES SLIGHTLY, DUE TO DROUTH LOSS

Revenue freight loadings of American railroads for last week showed a contra-seasonal recession from the preceding week, due largely to the drouth. The wide margin of trafic over recent years was well maintained.

The weeks' volume was 720,402 cars, a decrease of 3,922 cars, or 0.5 per cent, compared with the preceding week, an increase of 127,730 cars, or 21.6 per cent from a year ago, and an increase of 104,362 cars, or 16.9 per cent, compared with two years ago. Loadings of eastern industrial carriers showed improvement, while those of important midwestern roads fell off.

The Dow-Jones loadings index for the latest week period eased to 78.4 from 79.2 in the preceding week.

Loadings by the various commodity groups, with comparisons, follow:

SPANISH REVOLT CAUSES DROP IN FOREIGN MONEYS

The Spanish revolt yesterday continued to have a weakening effect on leading foreign currencies against the dollar, although the peseta remained unchanged in the New York market. There were indications that strong support had been given to some foreign units.

Pesetas remained at 13.70 cents. French francs dropped at one time to 6.60¾ cents from 6.61 3-16 on Thursday, but rallied to close at 6.61 cents, off 3-16 point for the day.

The two other members of the European gold bloc remain unchanged at 67.95 cents for the Dutch guilder and 32.70 cents for the Swiss franc. Belgian belgas lost 1 point to 16.87 cents, and the British pound sterling declined 1-16 cent to $5.01 13-16. Canadian dollars rose 4 points from 99.96 cents to parity.

An indication of better support for French francs was seen in the forward discount, which amounted to 23½ points on 90 day futures, compared with a discount of 24 points on Thursday.

The United States gained $1,156,300 in gold from abroad yesterday, according to the daily statement of the New York federal reserve bank. One lot of $31,000 was received from Russia, and $1,125,300 of the metal was released from the stock held here under earmark for foreign account.

STEEL MILL JOBS AT PEAK DESPITE MECHANIZATION

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Despite wide application of policies of mechanization and technological improvements, the steel industry reached this year a new high point in employment, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported today.

"In 1879," the survey said, "a total of 140,798 wage earners was employed in blast furnaces, steel works, and rolling mills. In May of this year almost 492,000 were employed in iron and steel plants, of whom 445,800 were wage earning employés. Employment in the industry this spring exceeds the number at work in 1929, when total employment was estimated at 460,000."

Since 1879 employment in the steel industry increased at an annual average rate of 3.1 per cent, it was said, against a gain of 2.7 per cent for all other industries.

With steel employment above the 1929 level and showing a sharp upward trend, the survey concludes that "the substitution of mechanical assistance for the back breaking portion of human effort cannot have caused any widespread technological unemployment which some critics attribute to mechanization."

Head of Marshall Field Denies Davis Store Sale

James O. McKinsey, chairman of Marshall Field & Co., yesterday denied reports published in a trade publication that the company was negotiating for the sale of the Davis store to Goldblatt Brothers, Inc. McKinsey said no negotiations of any kind are under way at the present time for the sale of the Davis unit.

Cost of Living Is Highest in Washington

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Administration investigators reported today that the cost of living for a family of moderate means is higher in Washington than in 58 other representative cities. A study conducted by the Works Progress administration, in coöperation with the bureau of labor statistics, showed that expenses of a family of four in Mobile, Ala., where living was cheapest, were 79.4 per cent of those in Washington.

The study was based on prices in May, 1935, but Miss Margaret L. Stecker, who made the study, said "there have been no significant price changes since that time."

High rents, she said, were responsible for the heavier cost of living in Washington, which stood at 100, followed by San Francisco, 98; Minneapolis, 97.8; New York City, 97; Chicago, 95.6.

Foods Highest in Bridgeport, Conn.

"Food costs," she said, "were highest in Bridgeport, Conn.; clothing costs, in Butte, Mont.; household operation costs, in Sioux Falls, S. D.; rents were lowest in Portland, Ore.; food costs, in Cedar Rapids, Ia.; clothing costs, in Dallas, and household operation costs, in Houston."

Explaining that no individual families had been questioned, Miss Stecker said the survey was based on a standard of living for a worker of small means as follows:

"A moderately active man and woman, a boy age 13, and a girl age 8. The man wears overalls at his work; no household assistance of any kind; social opportunities are simple.

"This family's food is an adequate diet at minimum cost. They live in a house or apartment with water and sewer connections, private indoor bath and toilet, in at least a fair state of repair.

"They have gas and electricity, a small radio but no automobile. They may read a daily paper, go to the movies once a week, and pay for their own medical care. Carfare, life insurance, necessary taxes, and numerous incidental expenses are provided for."

Position of Other Cities.

The percentage of Washington costs in other cities was: Milwaukee, 95.6; Boston, 95.3; Cleveland, 95.1; St. Louis, 94.3; Detroit, 92.8; Los Angeles, 92.5; Cincinnati, 92.4; Scranton, Pa., 92.1; Pittsburgh, 92; Bridgeport, Conn., 91.7; Albuquerque, N. M., 91.6; Baltimore, 91.6; Philadelphia, 91.4; Newark, N. J., 91.2; Rochester, N. Y., 90.6; Sioux Falls, S. Stocks of Old Crop Wheat Far Under 5 Year Average

The federal crop reporting board estimated yesterday that stocks of old wheat in interior mills, elevators, and warehouses on July 1 totaled 23,776,000 bushels. Stocks on the same date last year were 31,799,000 bushels, and the five year average [1928-1932] was 38,565,000.

STOCKS RESIST PROFIT TAKING; PACE MODERATE

Aviation and Farm Groups Strong.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—Strength in individual issues gave the stock market a healthy appearance today, although the improvement was not reflected in some averages. Although the general price level was not much changed at the close, the market displayed excellent resistance to week-end profit taking.

Dealings in stocks took place at a moderately active pace, with the volume for the session amounting to around 1,320,000 shares. Aviation issues and farm implement shares were bright spots in the list. The steel shares, weak in the beginning, gave the list color as they turned strong and then were hammered down as profit taking made its appearance in the final hour.

Business News Cheerful.

As far as the stock market was concerned, commentators of all shades of opinion agreed that the acceptance speech of Gov. Landon had little effect on the list. While all concurred in the opinion that the Republican candidate's address pleased most of the financial district, the factor appeared to have been discounted.

As in recent sessions, business news remained the primary influence affecting the course of the list. Bulls were cheered by the steady flow of improved earnings reports and the prospects and actualities of larger dividends.

Another new market factor that students of the market concluded had little effect on the list was the boost in overtime pay for workers of the United States Steel corporation.

Steels Lose Early Gains.

Steel shares generally finished the day below the previous close, although most showed gains at one time. Youngstown set a new high before fading and Bethlehem, United States Steel, and Republic declined fractions.

Rains in the drouth area were credited with the rise in the farm implement section. J. I. Case climbed 5 points and closed at its highest price of the day. International Harvester came up over a point as its dividend was increased, while Oliver Farm and Deere had to be content with fractional advances.

Trading volume in the carrier section was sharply reduced, although news relating to the industry carried bullish implications. Atchison gained a fraction in an extremely slow market, while Southern Pacific and New York Central drooped after early firmness.

Douglas Leads Aviation Group.

Douglas set the pace in the aviation section. Bendix and Boeing hardened. United Air Lines snubbed the reports of its president on the company's good showing and dipped a fraction.

Owens Glass stood out with a gain of 3½ points and Minneapolis Honeywell spurted more than 5 points in a thin market. Other stocks to register excellent advances were Cluett Peabody, up 3⅝; American Crystal Sugar, up 1⅞; Electric Autolite, up 1⅞; G. C. Murphy, up 6½; National Supply, up 4; Purity Bakeries, up 1⅝; Paramount first preferred, up 2⅝; U. S. Pipe and Foundry, up 1¼; Hercules Motors, up 1¾; Electric Auto-Lite, up 1⅞, and Holly Sugar, up 1¼.

Chrysler lost 1⅝ after marking time for most of the session as traders elected to await the company's report for the June quarter, which was scheduled to be made known after the close of the market. General Motors moved in sympathy, but Mack and Hercules bucked the tide and climbed over a point each.

Most other sections of the market were mixed with final changes fractional.

Butler Brothers Extends Short Work Week Plan

Butler Brothers yesterday announced that results of the five day working week for employés had proved so successful during June and July that the shorter weekly schedule would be continued until the end of August.

PRODUCTION OF AUTOS HIGHER THIS WEEK IN U. S. AND CANADA

Production of automobiles in the United States and Canada moved higher this week, according to estimates of two statistical agencies.

Ward's Reports, Inc., placed output at 99,329 cars and trucks, against 97,768 last week and 81,490 in the corresponding period last year. Cram's Reports estimated production at 96,863 units, against 91,027 and 82,984, respectively, in the comparable periods.

Ward's predicted July output would amount to 445,000 assemblies, or 5 per cent below last month. A slight reduction may be looked for next week as the industry terminates the month's schedules and prepares for August vacations and inventory taking, the agency added.

W. K. Edmunds, branch manager of the Ford assembly plant in South Chicago, said yesterday the plant is running close to capacity. He said demand during July is exceeding several earlier months of 1936 and there is little indication of the usual downward trend in car sales at this time of year.

Higher Taxes and Costs Cut Edison Profit

Commonwealth Edison company yesterday reported that despite a substantial increase in gross income in the first six months of this year higher operating costs and taxes more than offset the improvement.

Gross earnings for the period amounted to $41,153,750, compared with $39,473,855 in the corresponding period last year, an increase of $1,679,895. Net income, however, fell from $5,555,080 last year to $5,177,347.

The increase in taxes and expenses amounted to $2,269,480 of which taxes accounted for $1,607,388. The company said that the higher tax burden resulted from the Illinois 3 per cent public utility tax, federal unemployment levies, and increased provisions for the federal income, levy, state, and local taxes. Partial restoration of wage reductions was a factor in boosting operating expenses.

June Figures Adjusted.

Gross earnings for June amounted to $6,533,455, compared with $6,180,014 a year ago, and net income was $544,100, against $596,843. The company's statement explained that "to provide for the increase in taxes under the revenue act of 1936, net income for June was adjusted to reflect, among other increases in taxes, a particular increase of $249,145 applicable to the first six months of 1936 for the surtax on estimated undistributed profits for 1936, calculated on the basis of the present rate of dividend disbursement."

Other earnings statements issued yesterday were highly optimistic for the most part, Freeport Texas company, chemical producers, announced consolidated net income for the half year of $1,014,873, equal to $1.22 a share on common stock, compared with $550,836, or 64 cents a share, in the same 1935 period.

Hercules Powder Gains.

Hercules Powder company had second quarter profit of $966,943, equal to $1.39 a share, against $895,101, or $1.12 a share, in the preceding quarter and $746,620, or 96 cents a share, in the June, 1935, period.

Continental Baking corporation reported for the 26 weeks ended June 27 net profit, excluding undistributed profits tax provision, of $1,367,455, equal to $3.41 a share on the 8 per cent preferred, compared with $736,587, or $1.84, in the corresponding 1935 period.

June quarter profit of Penick & Ford Ltd., Inc., makers of corn products, amounted to $304,775, equal to 82 cents a common share, against $207,134 or 56 cents a share in the second quarter of 1935.

Half year net profit of the United States Industrial Alcohol company was $89,782, or 23 cents a share, compared with $275,531, or 70 cents a share in the same 1935 period.

For the first six months of the year Borg-Warner corporation reported net income of $3,458,126, equal after preferred dividends to $2.98 a share on common stock, compared with $3,011,332, or $2.56 a share, a year ago.

Budd Reports Gain.

The Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company reported net profit of $339,585 for the second quarter, compared with $127,394 in the second quarter of 1935. Budd Wheel company reported a profit of $310,087 for the same period, compared with $224,640 in 1935.

Atlas Powder company, announced June quarter net income of $380,619, equal to $1.11 a common share, compared with $234,447 or 45 cents a share in 1935.

PLAN ECONOMIES TO PAY RESERVE BANK DIVIDENDS

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—An economy survey intended to help the twelve Federal Reserve banks pay normal dividends without dipping into their surplus funds has been ordered by the reserve board.

It was begun, officials disclosed today, when figures for the first half of 1936 showed earnings sufficient to cover expenditures but leaving an insufficient margin for the usual 6 per cent dividend declaration.

Last year the twelve banks combined, despite a $69,000 operating deficit at the Minneapolis bank, paid a normal dividend amounting to $8,504,974 and $641,301 was transferred to surplus.

Iron and Steel Engineers Elect Two New Directors

Hague, superintendent of electrical maintenance, Gary sheet mill, Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, and William A. Perry, superintendent of electrical and power departments of the Inland Steel company, have been elected directors.

CHRYSLER AND INT. HARVESTER RAISE DIVIDENDS

Both Show Big Gain in Earnings.

CHRYSLER SOARS IN WEST

San Francisco, Cal., July 24.—(AP)—Chrysler shares went nearly $3 above the New York close on the San Francisco Stock exchange today to a recovery high of $121.50. The rise followed the company's dividend boost and earnings report showing a big expansion in profits. General Motors reached $70.25, up nearly $1 from the Wall street final.

A dividend of $4 by the Chrysler corporation, marking the third increase this year, and the resumption of a $2.50 annual dividend rate by International Harvester company, which prevailed prior to 1932, yesterday thrilled the business community.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER.

At the same time Chrysler reported the largest quarter and half year earnings in its history. The $4 dividend compares with a payment of $1.50 on June 30 and one of $1, which represented an increase from 75 cents, on March 31 last. The $4 dividend will be paid Sept. 15 to stock of record Aug. 15. This brings the total declared on the stock this year to $6.50 a share.

See Move to Avoid Tax.

In view of Chrysler's sharply higher earnings, this big boost in payments to stockholders was construed as a move to avoid the new heavy federal taxes on undistributed earnings.

This big corporation, which last year made about one out of every four passenger cars sold in the United States, reported a new peak profit of $29,473,736 for the first half of this year. After charges and taxes this was equivalent to $6.83 a share, comparing with $18,659,309, or $4.31 a share, in the first six months of 1935.

Indicated net profit for the quarter ended June 30, based on comparison of the company's reports for the first quarter and the first six months, was $18,020,297, biggest quarter for the company, and equal to $4.18 a share.

Earnings Show Sharp Rise.

In the first quarter of this year the corporation earned $11,453,439, or $2.65 a share, and in the June quarter of 1935 earnings amounted to $9,496,127, or $2.19 a share.

"The corporation has paid the balance of the bank loan amounting to $10,000,000 incurred in connection with the retirement of the Dodge debt," said Chairman Walter P. Chrysler in issuing the statement. "The corporation now has no debt except current liabilities."

He asserted that inventories amounted to $30,723,450 on June 30, a decrease of $18,042,227 since last Jan. 1. Depreciation and amortization charges during the half year were $7,583,724, he said.

Current assets as of June 30, including $67,696,659 cash, and $14,604,488 of marketable securities at cost, amounted to $131,586,168. Current liabilities were $45,704,372.

Divisions Share in Upturn.

"Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge, and Plymouth passenger cars and Dodge commercial cars and trucks have shared in the improved volume of automobile business which has prevailed thus far in 1936," Chrysler added. "Export shipments continued to show substantial increases over last year. This improvement in sales, together with the stabilizing effects of fall model introduction and the highest wage rate in the corporation's history, have resulted in gratifying progress toward high earnings levels.

"The corporation's plant at Dayton, O., has been remodeled and reopened for the production of air conditioning products—heating and cooling—by the corporation's subsidiary, Airtemp, Inc."

Passenger car and commercial vehicle sales for the six months ended June 30 were 578,407, compared with

REYNOLDS QUITS AS HEAD OF SEC CHICAGO OFFICE

Regional Chief to Resume Practice of Law.

Resignation of Thomas A. Reynolds as regional administrator in charge of the Chicago office of the Securities and Exchange commission and appointment of Thomas J. Lynch of Toledo, O., to succeed him on Aug. 1, were announced yesterday by the SEC in Washington.

Lynch has been assistant general counsel in charge of litigation. The Chicago office is headquarters for the commission's zone 4, which includes Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, and Kentucky.

Will Resume Law Practice.

Reynolds said yesterday he will return to the practice of law with the firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, with whom he was associated for ten years prior to taking over the SEC office here on May 1, 1935, at the age of 37. He accepted the post temporarily and had considered resigning for several months.

Reynolds said he was particularly anxious to resume the practice of law before opening of the fall term of court. He came to Winston, Strawn & Shaw directly from the attorney general's office in Washington, which he had entered in 1924 as a special assistant under Harlan Stone, now justice of the United States Supreme court, in the general cleanup after exposure of the Tea Pot Dome oil scandal.

Investigates Bucket Shops.

As first head of the local office in charge of a full staff, Reynolds conducted numerous investigations, resulting in many successful prosecutions. Among the most recent investigations was that of a nationwide system of bucket shops, which had its headquarters in Chicago, with indictments returned against twenty-four individuals and firms on charges of a swindle amounting to 10 million dollars.

Reynolds said Lynch will probably report here about Aug. 10 and that W. McNeil Kennedy, assistant administrator here, would act as administrator after Reynolds leaves on Aug. 1.

JUNE HOUSEHOLD WASHER SALES SET NEW PEAK

Household washer shipments in June established a new high mark for that month and were the third largest for any month in the industry's history, J. R. Bohnen, secretary of the American Washing Machine Manufacturers' association, reported yesterday.

Washer shipments totaled 151,049 units which lifted the six month total to 861,410, a 24 per cent increase over the first half of 1935, Bohnen said.

"The June figure was 60 per cent above June, 1935," said Bohnen.

Mortgage Dealers Exempt from Over-Counter Rule

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—The securities commission today amended its rules to exempt from registration as "over-the-counter" brokers or dealers those brokers and dealers who deal exclusively in mortgage obligations. Under the new regulation dealers in individual notes and bonds secured by a lien on real estate or leasehold interest in real estate are exempt from registration provided these notes and bonds are not part of a securities issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—Bonds were firm to slightly higher in routine trading today on the New York exchange. There were no important group movements, the main body of corporate loans holding within a narrow price range.

Interest was distracted from the trading market to some extent by the marketing of $30,000,000 of New York Edison 3¼ per cent bonds, and speculative activity generally in the secondary issues was restricted to minimum proportions. Transactions amounted to $9,785,000, as compared with $9,048,000 on Thursday.

Federal List Uneven.

Mixed trends ruled in the market for United States government obligations in dull and strictly professional trading. Few important portfolio changes are being made by the large holders of treasury issues. Closing quotations showed gains of 1-32 to 4-32 point and declines of 1-32 to 6-32 point. The latest issue of Treasury 2¾s was the most active issue, closing up 2-32 at 101 4-32.

With the exception of a further early gain of 3 points in Gould Coupler 6s to a new high of 122, and subsequent reaction to 119½, trading among the industrial loans was quiet and featureless. Prices of the volatile railroad, industrial, and utility issues were slightly higher on the average.

Some of Stronger Issues.

Gains of a point or more were recorded in Allis Chalmers 4s, New York Railways 6s, International Hydro 6s, Cotton Belt 5s of 1952, Wabash 4½s, and Universal Pipe 6s.

Narrow and mixed trends characterized dull trading in foreign dollar bonds, the group closing virtually unchanged on the average. Polish government 7s rose about a point. Other Europeans were steady.

Arcturus Radio Tube.

Investors' Guide: Please furnish me information and your opinion concerning Arcturus Radio Tube listed on the New York Curb exchange.—L. E. B.

Answer: The Arcturus Radio Tube company is engaged in the development, manufacture, and sale of radio tubes. Major distribution is through jobbers, the balance of output going to receiving set manufacturers. The company's plant and research laboratory are at Newark, N. J.

The company reported a net profit of $23,000, or 2 cents a share last year. Its last previous profit—in 1929—had been $539,000, or 89 cents a share on the 600,000 shares then outstanding. Losses amounted to $1,369,000 in 1930, $266,000 in 1931, $465,000 in 1932, $26,000 in 1933, and $52,000 in 1934.

Sole capitalization now consists of 1,200,000 shares of $1 par common stock which is quite speculative. There is no funded debt.

Marland Oil.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in determining whether Marland Oil Company of Mexico is in existence, and if so, what its present status is and the value of its stock.—H. L. L.

Answer: The Marland Oil Company of Mexico was incorporated in Mexico in 1920. Its name was changed to Continental Oil Company of Mexico in 1930 following the formation of Continental Oil company as successor to Marland Oil company, the Mexican concern's parent company. Continental Oil company owns 1,899,167 shares of Continental Oil Company of Mexico, only 100,833 shares being outstanding in the hands of the public. There is very little market for Continental of Mexico stock, which is quoted nominally at about 12½ cents to 25 cents per share in unlisted trading.

New York Telephone.

Investors' Guide: Please give me a report on New York Telephone company 4½s of 1939.—W. M. O.

Answer: New York Telephone company is controled by American Telephone and Telegraph company, which owns all of the common stock.

Fixed charges have been covered by such a wide margin throughout the years that it is hard to see how the soundness of the bonds can be affected by a $4,200,000 annual rate reduction being placed in effect next month or by the outlook for higher taxes and costs.

The $30,031,000 net income in 1935 was equal to $120 a share on preferred stock and fixed charges were covered 7.34 times.

RAILROADS SHOW GAIN IN HAULING OF LIVE STOCK

But Trucks Carry More than Half of Trafic.

Trucks lost ground during June in the race against railroads for live stock hauling business, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday. Railroads hauled a larger percentage of live stock in June than in May, but trucks handled more than half of the business, figures for 69 public stock yards showed.

Receipts of all classes of live stock except horses increased in June compared with the May volume, with both railroads and truck lines handling more business, but the increase in shipments over the railroads was larger than over the truck route. Trucks hauled 60.9 per cent of all cattle received at the 69 markets, as compared with 61.2 per cent in May.

58.9 Per Cent of Calves Trucked.

Trucked in calves comprised 58.9 per cent of the receipts at all markets as compared with 61.3 per cent in May and 59.5 per cent in April. Of all hogs received in June, 69.8 per cent came in trucks, against 70.0 per cent in May and 66.0 per cent in April.

There has been a rapid rise in trucking of sheep and lambs in recent months, and the June figures showed pronounced gains. Trucks hauled 38.5 per cent of all sheep and lambs that month, compared with 25.2 per cent in May and 19.2 per cent in April. Horses hauled by trucks comprised 30.2 per cent of the June total, 38.9 per cent of the May receipts, and 35.2 per cent in April.

Comparison with Year Ago.

From a percentage standpoint trucks showed an advantage over the railroads in comparison with June of last year. While total cattle receipts at the 69 markets, 1,201,051 head, showed an increase of 29.8 per cent over June of last year, the trucked in stock, 731,251 head, showed a gain of 36.0 per cent.

Total calf receipts at 562,819 gained 18.1 per cent, while trucked in stock came up 20.3 per cent at 331,297. Hog receipts by rail and truck at 1,864,066 indicated a rise of 43.3 per cent over a year ago, with trucked stock alone up 60.5 per cent at 1,300,206.

Sheep and lambs at 1,859,134 decreased 6.8 per cent, but the trucked stock at 716,558 showed an increase of 7.5 per cent. All horses received, 18,993, decreased 18.2 per cent, with trucked stock down 20.6 per cent at 5,729.

SLUMP IN HOGS BREAKS RECENT SHARP ADVANCE

The hog market yesterday ran into a slump that ended a continuous advance of almost a week. Prices fell unevenly 10 to 25 cents after a scattering of early sales had been made on a steady basis at the opening of the session. The early $11.10 top was paid sparingly, similar kinds later selling at $10.90, with some local buyers carrying price limits of $10.80 for top kinds at the close.

It was the first time that top quotations failed to register a rise this week. The average for the session at $9.70 showed a loss of 15 cents, although all kinds still are selling higher than at the close of last week.

Practically no changes occurred in other branches of the live stock trade yesterday. Federal agents announced they found it unnecessary to support cattle prices at any of the markets since supplies were light and commercial channels have been absorbing them at gradually rising prices.

Swift and Morris paid the $9 top for steers yesterday, the bulk selling at $7.50 to $8.50. Some weakness was uncovered in the trade for cows, but hefers were fully steady. Canners and cutters were steady to weak. Calves sold steady at the week's $1 to $1.25 advance.

Fat lambs were unchanged, top natives to city butchers reaching $10.75, while western range lambs sold practically straight at $10.50.

JARVIS SHARES MOST ACTIVE IN CHICAGO MARKET

Capital stock of the W. B. Jarvis company, makers of automobile body ornaments and trimmings, yesterday attracted heaviest trading on the Chicago Stock exchange with a turnover of 4,500 shares. The issue ranged between 21⅝ and 23½, closing at 21⅝, off ⅝ point.

The market as a whole was irregular at the close, with 40 issues advancing, 41 declining, and 37 remaining unchanged. Volume was slightly larger than on Thursday at 53,000 shares.

Abbott Laboratories again set a new all-time high at 159, closing at 157¾, up ¾. Zenith Radio reached the best level since 1929 at 32½. The close was at 32, up ¾. Continental Steel rose 2 points, Quaker Oats the same amount, Sangamo Electric, 2¾, and Southwestern Light and Power preferred, 2¾ points.

TRADE IN LARD IS SMALL; FUTURES CLOSE IRREGULAR

Little interest was taken in provision futures yesterday, with lard closing 2½ cents higher to 2½ cents lower. Clear bellies [salt pork] were nominally unchanged. Weakness in hogs and corn largely offset investment buying in December lard and it closed at the bottom.

Cash lard was quoted at $10.95 per 100 pounds; loose, $10.40; leaf, $10.62½; clear bellies, $12.97½. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

SUGAR

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw sugar was unchanged today and no sales were reported with spots quoted at 3.70c per lb. Refiners showed no particular interest, although it was believed they would pay this price for specified August and September positions, which were held at 3.80c. After showing early gains of 2 to 4 points on covering by some of yesterday's sellers, sugar futures reacted under renewed liquidation and hedge selling, which seemed to be encouraged by the continued inactivity in the spot market. Final prices were within a point of the lowest and from 2 points net higher to 1 lower. Evening up in the present July position in which trading ended today caused considerable fluctuations in that position. After selling up to 2.79c, or 3 points net higher, July reacted to 2.74c, but rallied again with the last sales at 2.79c. Sales, 9,050 tons.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
September	2.77	2.78	2.76	2.76	2.76
November	2.74	2.74	2.72	2.74	2.72

March	2.50	2.50	2.47	2.48	2.48

Refined sugar was unchanged with moderate withdrawals against old contracts, although otherwise the market was quiet. Fine granulated was quoted at 4.75c for immediate shipment by refiners while resale could be had at 4.70c.

HIDE FUTURES.

NEW YORK, July 24.—[Special.]—Operations in hide futures were restricted, sales being 14 lots or 560,000 lbs. The close was 3 to 8 points lower. Closing bids in cents per pound: September, 11.07c; December, 11.41c; March, 11.71c; June, 12.02c.

HAY MARKET

Prices strong at recent advances. Receipts, 4 cars timothy and 1 car packing, 2 trucks timothy and 1 truck packing, 1 truck wheat straw. Good rains from central Indiana to the Atlantic seaboard; light scattered showers in middle west. Stock feeding reported general. Quotations per ton follow:
